PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS offered the following prayer:

We humbly beseech Thee, O God of our fathers, this day when tragedy stalks abroad, when worlds are shaking as before the judgment, and civilization itself is tottering, let our faith in Thee become stronger than it has ever been and our sense of security to become increasingly pronounced through our whole-hearted obedience unto Thee.

Direct the minds and hearts of the members of our Legislature in these final days of procedure that what legislation may yet be enacted be in conformity with Thy Holy will.

In these days when Thou art "Sifting out the hearts of men before Thy judgment seat" make our lives real and purposeful, rich and full not only as legislators and as citizens but as defenseless individuals, creatures of Thine, dependent upon Thee each day for sustenance that through us Thy will may be made known unto men.

And to Thee, Father, Son and Holy Spirit shall be all honor, praise and adoration, world without end. Amen.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia, may proceed.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President and members of the Senate we convey to you the sad tidings of the day. Lou Gehrig, popular hero of our national pastime has gone to the great beyond. We in America mourn his loss. Words can hardly describe our emotions that we feel in this regard. Those who follow sports, particularly baseball, can very well appreciate what he has done to uplift the morale of American Youth. Yes, there are Senators in this body, and may I mention the name of Harvey Taylor and Leo Mundy and John J. Haluska, who watched him closely. They know too well that he was a clean living, honest hardworking ball player, who gave up all he had to promote America's national pastime. Lou Gehrig was the iron man of baseball, having played in approximately 2,130 consecutive games. Lou Gehrig was a great example to the youth of America and they have suffered an irreparable loss. His conduct and sportsmanship on and off the playing field will remain an everlasting monument to his memory.

Lou Gehrig has left us a valuable heritage. His code of living and playing knew only legitimate bounds. He has set an example which we can very well follow in the arena of politics.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I rise in my place and am about to present to the Chair two bills, but before doing so I wish to make a brief statement.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Blair may proceed.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, in my senatorial district, comprising Blair and Huntingdon Counties, there are a great many retired railroaders and shopmen, as well as many other fine aged people. Likewise, Mr. President, there are a great many people in every county in the state who have reached the age of sixty-five years or more, and these bills will permit or authorize the issuing of fishing and hunting licenses free of charge to anyone over the age of sixty-five years. Mr. President, I think the young people of the state will gladly pay the cost of stocking our streams or providing whatever money is necessary to continue good fishing and hunting in our state.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I rise on a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cambria will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. HALUSKA. Several months ago a great deal was said in this chamber about the recent fight held between Joe Louis and Gus Dorazio. I tried to put forth my analysis of the fight and a number of my colleagues scoffed at my thoughts.

Mr. President, I would like this morning to read a quotation from the Pittsburgh Post Gazette dated Tuesday, June 3, 1941, an article by Havey Boyle.

"It's one training camp after another. It's all right. Keeps me in condition. Makes me fight better. My eye's all right. Look at it. The guys I fought this season? McCoy was just another fighter. Burman, he was game. Dorazio, he was nothing. Simon, he could take it. Musto, another Godoy. Buddy Baer, a good, clean fighter and a good puncher. Now I got Conn. That's going to be a interesting fight. He's smart. Yeh, smarter than Nova or Simon."

Well, Mr. President, history repeats itself—"Dorazio was nothing."

In the Senate, June 3, 1941.

Whereas, The Senate has been advised of the death of Corporal William J. Tucker while serving with M Company, 111th Infantry, at Indiantown Gap Military Reservation, and

Whereas, Corporal William J. Tucker won the respect and friendship of many public officials and legislators for his diligence and honesty as a reporter for the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, and

Whereas, Corporal Tucker died in the line of duty after sacrificing a good position in private industry to come to the aid of his State and Nation by voluntarily enlisting in the U. S. Army in time of emergency, and,

Whereas, Corporal Tucker won the admiration and respect of his fellow soldiers and was in line for appointment as a commissioned officer in the U. S. Army as a reward for meritorious service,

Therefore, be it resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania express its deep regret at his death to the members of his family who survive him, and Further be it resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be instructed to transmit a copy of this resolution to the family of the deceased.

RESOLUTION MEMORIALIZING LOU GEHRIG

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, the truth of the old adage about great minds running in the same channel was once again very forcefully impressed upon me, when I listened to the remarks of my colleague from Philadelphia, Mr. Jaspan, on the death of the great Iron Man of baseball, Lou Gehrig, and on behalf of the distinguished Senator from Philadelphia and myself I offer the following resolution and ask its immediate adoption.

Mr. COLEMAN offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered, and agreed to:

In the Senate, June 3, 1941.

Whereas, Newspapers carry the story today of the passing of Lou Gehrig, the erstwhile "iron man of baseball" and

Whereas, His death caught many of us with a feeling in our throats which makes it impossible to express how we feel, and

Whereas, His passing cast a pall of sorrow over the sports' world because the name Gehrig was synonymous with durability, clean living, and clean playing, and

Whereas, His feats on the baseball diamond will be remembered as long as the game endures, and

Whereas, Young America has striven to emulate his example of clean living and good sportsmanship, and his loss to them cannot be adequately expressed in words, and

Whereas, He has done more to elevate the moral and physical standard of young men of America than any other figure in the world of sports, be it

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania pause in the consideration of the weighty problems now before it to express its profound sorrow to the family on the passing of a truly great American, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the family of Lou Gehrig.

Mr. COLEMAN. Under ordinary circumstances, Mr. President, the thoughts embodied in this resolution would not necessitate any further words on the part of any member of this Senate, but I feel this afternoon I would be false to my true emotions if I did not give expression of my personal feeling about the passing of so great an American citizen.

Mr. President, this morning millions of Americans reading the sports pages of their favorite paper, read of the passing of the Iron Man of Baseball, whose exploits in the Yankee Stadium will live as long as the game endures, and I think every one of them, Mr. President, feel a great personal loss in the death of this great gentleman.

Every ten years in this world, from this human existence, there appears and disappears into the time and dusk of that eternity that lies beyond, five hundred million human souls, and out of that vast number there is but a mere handful that has made any lasting impression on society, and that handful is made up of men, and women too, who have left behind them a monument richer than gold, more enduring than granite, and that is the memory of men who have done so much to elevate the moral, social and intellectual standing of the young men of this nation.

I think it can be said of Lou Gehrig, as Bob Ingersoll said of his brother, "He added to the sum of human joy and if everyone from whom he had done some laughing service went to place a blossom on his grave, he would sleep tonight beneath a wilderness of flowers."

Lou Gehrig, Mr. President, was a builder, not in the sense of erecting stately structures of marble and granite, but a builder of character. Lou Gehrig, in my opinion, did more to build younger America into citizens than any other American living today, and after all, Mr. President, the young men and the young women of today are the builders of the world and the conservers of civilization tomorrow.

I have a very vivid recollection of my first view of Lou Gehrig in action in the Yankee Stadium. I shall never forget how he walked out to the batting box, raised a ponderous bat to his shoulders, and with a mighty sweep of his arms, sent the ball flying on three occasions for home runs up into the upper stands.

Mr. President, following that particular feat, winning the game for the Yankees as he has done on many occasions, I think it can be said of him as Shakespeare said of another:

"He was a man, take him for all in all; I shall never look upon his like again."

And today, Mr. President, today the heart that beat in sympathy with the young men of America, the lips and tongue that uttered words of encouragement to the youth of this nation, the great massive shoulders and the great arms that sent many a baseball riding high into the upper tier of the Yankee Stadium, is stilled forever.

I am glad, Mr. President, that even though we have tremendous business, even though we have great problems pressing the Senate of Pennsylvania, that we can pause in our consideration of those weighty problems and say a word or two of a truly great American and I know, Mr. President, that I am expressing a sentiment rooted deeply in the hearts of lovers of clean living and of all advocates of clean sportsmanship in America when I say that, joining that innumerable caravan going whence there is no return, it is our earnest hope and prayer that Lou Gehrig may receive the reward he so richly deserves.

SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 1 CALLED UP

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I now call up Senate Resolution No. 1, Page 245 of the History.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion. The motion was agreed to.

The resolution was read as follows:

In the Senate, February 18, 1941.

Whereas, Pursuant to a Concurrent Resolution adopted by the Senate of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania on March 8, 1937, and concurred in by the House of Representatives on March 15, 1937, a Joint Legislative Committee was created to ascertain the tenability of then prevalent assertions pertaining to migratory trends of Pennsylvania's industries and to survey the industrial taxes of this Commonwealth; and

Whereas, Said Joint Legislative Committee also known as the Industrial Tax Survey Committee, completed after two years of continuous and arduous work only one phase of its two-fold task, namely, the ascertainment of existence or non-existence of migratory industrial trends, but was prevented from undertaking the survey of Pennsylvania's industrial taxes because of the expiration of its term; and

Whereas, Both the Dent Report submitted by the Joint Legislative Committee to the General Assembly of Pennsylvania in March of 1939, and the Supplemental Report submitted on May 25, 1939, recommended the creation of a State Tax Commission conducive to a further study of our State Tax System and an eventual revision thereof; and

Whereas, Said recommendation about the creation of a State Tax Commission has not been heretofore carried out by the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, thus leaving the archaic status quo in Pennsylvania's State taxation and the study thereof undisturbed and menacing; and

Whereas, The leading position of Pennsylvania among the States in the use of industrial taxes indicates the importance of these taxes to business and to the community, and clearly establish the urgent need for a scientific approach in the study thereof; and

Whereas, In the absence of any attempts to undertake a thorough, exhaustive and scientific survey and study of Pennsylvania's industrial taxes, it would be to the advantage of our Commonwealth to recreate the Joint Legislative Industrial Survey Committee, in order to thus enable it to complete the second phase of its work, namely, to prepare a survey of the industrial taxes of Pennsylvania, possibly in the form of several monographs containing multifaceted studies of the origin of said taxes, their role in the revenue system of Pennsylvania as compared to other States and the Federal Government, the revenue potentialities, thereof and future outlook therefor from view-points of bases of taxation, tax rates, incidence, equality or inequality of their distribution and above all, the possibility of their elimination, together with formulae aiming at the development of a tax system which will strive to attain the objective of obtaining maximum revenues with the minimum disturbance and costs to industry and the community; now be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), that the General Assembly of Pennsylvania recreate the Joint Legislative Industrial Tax Study Committee, in order that same may complete the above-stated second phase of its two-fold task heretofore assigned thereto; and be it further

Resolved, That the said Joint Legislative Industrial Tax Study Commission be and same is hereby authorized and empowered to apply the balance of the fund formerly appropriated thereto toward the completion of the survey and studies above mentioned.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I move immediate adoption of the resolution just read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the Resolution?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DENT. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I would like to ask the gentleman from Westmoreland, in this resolution we are about to act on, if the method of appointing members of the commission is set forth, here or in the original resolution?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, it continues the original commission insofar as it is able, those members who I believe are still members of the Senate and the House, but the original resolution set up the method by which the membership was named.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I do not want to be capacious in my discussion of this resolution and I intend to vote for it, and I would like to see a continuation of the very meritorious service which the joint commission rendered the people of Pennsylvania, but may I humbly suggest that in the original resolution there was a commission appointed and that, with the completion of their work and the filing of their report, as I understand it, the original commission died and as with most deaths there can be no revival, and I would like to suggest to the gentleman from Westmoreland perhaps it would be best to include in this resolution an appointing power and the method of appointing and the jurisdiction of the commission to be appointed, so that there will not be any question raised later as to its authenticity.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, as I understand it, the "whereas" clause contained herein, sets up a reenactment of the old resolution, which originally set up the commission, and we therefore followed the procedure as outlined in that resolution. However, Mr. President, the jurisdiction of the commission is contained in the sixth whereas clause of this present resolution.

Mr. WALKER. As I tried to explain to the gentleman from Westmoreland, I am not opposing the resolution, but I am attempting to make a friendly suggestion that the resolution he is asking us to vote on now does not give anybody any power to appoint the commission set up under the old resolution that was passed in 1937; that is correct, is it not?

Mr. DENT. That is right, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Well, Mr. President, that commission has died and there is no appointive power in the present resolution and neither the Speaker of the House nor the President Pro Tempore of the Senate has any right under this resolution to appoint any members to that commission, and the commission has no powers under this resolution it is proposed we now adopt. I would like to suggest to the gentleman from Westmoreland that the appointing powers and the duties and responsibilities of the commission be set forth in this resolution, as they were in the original resolution.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I am not going to take issue with legal authority, but I do want to say in the resolution is says this:

"Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the General Assembly of Pennsylvania recreate the Joint Legislative Industrial Tax Study Committee in order that same may complete the above stated second phase of its two fold task heretofore assigned thereto; and be it further

"Resolved, That the said Joint Legislative Industrial Tax Study Commission be and the same is hereby authorized and empowered to apply the balance of the fund formerly appropriated thereto towards the completion of the survey and studies above mentioned."

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Westmoreland if it is not true, for example, that a former member of the Senate, Honorable Frederick T. Gelder, was a member of that original commission.

Mr. DENT. That is right, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. And if that commission is recreated, is it not true, Mr. President, the Honorable Frederick T. Gelder automatically would become a member of the new commission? You can not revive the commission partially, it would have to be in toto. I think the gentleman from Westmoreland is liable to find his commission in a very embarrassing position if the expenses of printing the report or the expenses of members in conducting their investigation were presented to the Auditor General, or whoever approves those things, and having them turned down because they had no right to spend the money; that would be very embarrassing to the commission, and in order to make certain the commission could function I repeat my suggestion to the gentleman from Westmoreland, that he had better make certain the resolution authorizes appointments to the commission and sets forth what the commission is supposed to do, because if you revive the old commission you revive it in toto, you can not substitute members on it, because there is nothing in this resolution that says some of the members may be substituted.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, from the experience I have had in the General Assembly, any time there is a vacancy created either by death or resignation, on any commission I have happened to serve, the appointing power remains in the hands of the original appointers.

I would suggest, Mr. President, inasmuch as we are heading into the last weeks of the General Assembly Session, that we pass this resolution and then we can get together on whatever amendments the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, feels may be necessary in order to clarify the resolution.

As I understand it, this resolution was drafted by one of the leading authorities on legislation in the capital; I mean, he drew the original and he drew this resolution at my request that he draft a resolution to recreate the commission insofar as it was possible, in order that we could continue a study of certain phases of this question, which are contained in the whereas clause in this resolution.

However, Mr. President, the gentleman from Allegheny is being very helpful but I do not think a delay now, without giving the House some opportunity to make a study also of the question, would be unfair to the House and to the Senate.

If we believe the commission ought to be recreated I would suggest to the gentleman we pass this resolution as is and then we should sit down and try to draft any amendments which may be thought necessary, and I can assure the gentleman that Mr. Trout and Mr. Lovett, who were former members of the commission, will gladly accept any amendments which we feel will clarify the issue.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, this technicality is getting somewhat repetitious, and I am advised by those who are deeply interested in it that any delay will be fatal. That may be true, Mr. President, but may I respectfully suggest if the resolution adopted is an innocuous one and does not do anything and does not give any power it is worse than futile. I am just trying to be helpful, and I want to say to the gentleman from Westmoreland I am not an expert in drafting legislation or resolutions, but I repeat I am merely suggesting he can not revive a commission that is dead in this manner, because if you do you have to revive it in toto, and I am merely suggesting that perhaps an hour's delay on this side of the legislative halls might save a lot of delay later on.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, they would have an awful time trying to surcharge me with the amount of money spent by the commission.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

RESOLUTION DIRECTING JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSION TO REPORT TO 1943 GENERAL ASSEMBLY ON ADVISABILITY OF A CENTRAL TESTING LABORATORY FOR THE STATE GOVERNMENT

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. TAYLOR offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, June 3, 1941.

The report of the Joint State Government Commission of the General Assembly on the organization and administration of Pennsylvania's State Government contains the recommendation that "consideration should be given to the feasibility of establishing a central testing laboratory to make all of the tests of the several departments and agencies of the State Government".

Laboratories are now maintained by the Department of Agriculture, the Department of Health, the Department of Property and Supplies and the Department of Highways which result in a duplication of work and expenses; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Joint State Government Commission is directed to undertake an investigation and study of the feasibility and advisability of establishing a central laboratory for the purpose of making such tests, experiments and research as may be required and requested by any department, board, bureau, commission or agency of the State Government and to make a report of their findings and recommendations to the General Assembly not later than February first, one thousand nine hundred forty-three; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution shall be transmitted to the Chairman of the said Joint State Government Commission.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

A majority of all the Senators having "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 888, entitled:

An Act abolishing Court of Common Pleas Number Seven of Philadelphia County.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, we have a very jovial Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Walker; we have a very conservative Senator from Warren, Dr. Chapman; and those two gentlemen have been arguing more or less about the optometrist bill, No. 835, I believe it was; they did not see eye to eye and the Senator from Allegheny, the jovial Senator from Allegheny, rose in caucus the other day—Senator Geltz need not tremble that I will reveal any secrets of the caucus—and more or less demanded a show-down from the distinguished gentleman from Warren who, as we all know, is a very, very handy man around the Senate—when the chairman of any committee is absent Dr. Chapmar becomes chairman of that committee and he has taken on the chairmanship of the Appropriations Committee on the side—well, the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Walker, made a very stern demand for action on the optometrist bill and when he sat down the gentleman from Warren, Dr. Chapman, rose and said there were certain matters pertaining to the medical profession in which the legal profession has no right whatever to interfere and the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Walker, sat perfectly tight and did not rise.

Now, Mr. President, I am in the position of going into reverse because I am not a member of the legal profession and I might suggest that well-known phrase that "fools rush in where angels fear to tread."

I have not had time to think of many examples of wise fools, but I think you all remember Joan of Arc, I think even the Democrats have heard of Joan of Arc.

I now submit some figures. I regret my colleague from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, is not here to hear these Republican figures. I hold in my hand an official sheet of paper from the Clerk of the Quarter Sessions Court of Philadelphia County and this one sheet of paper tells the tragedy of Common Pleas Court No. 7, which is made up entirely of Democrats. The cost of operation is per annum $51,000 salaries; if you multiply fourteen thousand dollars, the regular salary, by three judges—you may think my figuring is wrong, but what you have overlooked is that item called "incidentals" of $1,500 per annum and there that figure of fifteen hundred dollars has reached eighteen hundred. What the incidentals of judges are I have no idea; perhaps some member of the Bar knows but I do not; however, the funny thing in these figures is that that $51,000 is exactly matched—of course that $51,000 comes from the state, the salaries, but this figure is exactly matched by the money the county of Philadelphia has to pay—the tipstaves, stenographers, janitors, spittoons, ash trays, furnishings—Well, that is practically $51,000 per year, and the salaries match it. Then as I have mentioned before, there is an awful item here, showing what we are up against in Philadelphia, having dual government—paid for by mandamus, another $51,000—I do not know how this magic figure gets in there—paid by mandamus, $51,000 for the furnishings of this court room number seven.

There was great difficulty in finding any place to put this court.

The grand total for those judges, all living and continuing to draw salaries, and the janitors and tipstaves—all living—the grand total for the carrying of this court will be $984,220.

Now, Mr. President, I have been waiting, as you know, for the return of the prodigal, Senator Shapiro. Well, he has not returned. I hope he is not ill because I do not want to say anything very personal about him in his absence. I will simply state briefly that while he very rarely makes a mistake, he did make a mistake in organizing this Shapiro Court. He fell down on the Municipal Court—what he did was not approved by the Supreme Court—and as a result of that we have this court number seven, which we do not need but which we are paying all that money for.

Now, Mr. President, a word about Senator Shapiro—this is all right in his absence because it is very complimentary—I am one of the few Republican Senators who really appreciates Senator Shapiro. I admit he is not what is known as a shrinking violet, he does not object to being in the public eye, but as in illustration of my excellent opinion, Mr. Jay Cooke, who as you probably remember, was chairman of the Philadelphia City Committee and a great power in city politics, came all the way out to my house to see me one day and asked me whether I was going to vote against seating Senator Shapiro and I said "not at all, I am for Shapiro and will seat him if I can." I said, "of course, he is like a woman somewhat—we cannot get along with him but we cannot get along without him," I said, "I certainly will vote for Shapiro on any occasion. He is very helpful to us."

But, speaking of Senator Shapiro, I would like for a moment to make a few casual remarks about the Democrats in general. I walked around Capital Hill this morning to see if I could find any enduring Democrats in either marble or bronze, and I utterly failed. As you know, Senator Bois Penrose is just in front of the angels—and as you go out of the rotunda you will find General Stewart in bronze and Governor Curtin in bronze, and George T. Oliver in bronze and the only man among them ever indicted and tried is in white marble—indicating his purity. You may have heard the expression "shake the plum tree." That was originated by the gentleman in white marble.

Well, Mr. President, failing to find any Democratic statues, I did look up at the very tip-top of the dome and there is a gilded figure there which looks to me like an Indian—I do not know whether that is symbolic of Senator Guffey or not, but perhaps some people would call him a gilded Indian.

Now, Mr. President, in conclusion—I want to encourage you by saying in conclusion—we all know if we are honest there are two handicaps which prevent our attaining one hundred per cent perfectness in our careers and one is waste and the other is patronage.

Waste I have described in Court number seven. Patronage, of course, was promoted when the Senate consigned the consolidation of Philadelphia, city and county, to what is called the committal service at a funeral—we have a committal service right in the Senate; we have a recom-mittal service which is even worse.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, with those few words—I must not forget my real purpose of standing up here is to move to recommit this Senate Bill—Court number seven—and my distinguished colleague from Philadelphia, Senator DiSilvestro, has pledged his word to second this motion.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, if the conditions exist that the gentleman from Philadelphia has already outlined and related here, I think the bill ought to be passed and I am greatly surprised that the gentleman from Philadelphia move to recommit it.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, as I said yesterday, I believe that the jockeying around of this bill for the last two weeks was only a means of propaganda.

In answer to my dear colleague from Washington I would say if we were to pass this bill it would be unconstitutional because, after these men had already been appointed, the people of Philadelphia voted on them and they were elected constitutionally by the people of Philadelphia.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I believe I would be remiss in my duty if I were not to answer some of the remarks made by my colleague from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward. I personally consider myself, as the Latin amenuensis of Senator Woodward; whenever there is some difficult phrase of Latin origin, I always have the honor of looking up the origin of it for Senator Woodward's consumption especially that famous phrase "sic transit gloria mundi"

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, we request that the Senator from Philadelphia make use of the microphone. We can not hear him very well.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I believe I would be remiss in my duty if some of the remarks made by Dr. Woodward will remain unanswered.

I have great respect for Dr. Woodward and quite often engage with Dr. Woodward in research of phrases, especially when they have something to do with Latin. One of the phrases was that famous expression "sic transit gloria mundi," and we finally succeeded in looking up its origin. It is a symbolic process having to do with the burning of flax.

I believe the figures presented by my colleague from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward, deal somehow with alchemy—a juggling of figures. True enough he mentioned certain expenditures which were incurred by the Democratic Court at the time it was organized, but the gentleman forgot to mention the savings to the Commonwealth because of the elimination of what the gentleman from Cambria calls gypsy judges. Since we have created court number seven in Philadelphia we have no more gypsy judges.

BILLS RECOMMITTED

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 838, on third reading be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I second the motion. On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I would like to be recorded as voting "no" on the statement made by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward.

The PRESIDENT. The vote of the gentleman from Washington will be so recorded.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. REED and were as follows, viz:

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 1041, entitled:

An Act to amend the title and section one of the act, approved the twenty-first day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three (P. L. 295), entitled "An act authorizing and empowering counties of the second class in this Commonwealth to acquire by lease, purchase, or condemnation proceedings any land within the county for the purpose of establishing and maintaining air-dromes or aviation landing fields; providing for the procedure in case of condemnation, and the extent of title acquired; authorizing the lease by the county of portions of said land to individuals or corporations upon such terms as may be fixed, and the lease thereof to the Government of the United States upon nominal rental; authorizing and empowering the county to use land now owned by it for such purposes; and authorizing joint operation by said county and any city within the county of airdromes or aviation landing fields, where such city is authorized to establish and maintain the same," by extending the provisions of such act to all counties of this Commonwealth.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,
On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. ZIESENHEIM. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer the following amendments:

Amend title, page 2, line 5 of the title, after the word "Commonwealth" by inserting the following words: "except counties of the eighth class"; amend section 1, page 2, line 21, after the word "counties" and before the light faced bracket, by inserting the following words: "except counties of the eighth class"; amend section 2, page 3, line 19, after the word "county" and before the light faced bracket, by inserting the following words: "except counties of the eighth class".

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. COLEMAN. I desire to interrogate the sponsor of the bill, the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Ziesenheim.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Erie permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ZIESENHEIM. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, as I understand the bill as now amended, it affects all counties in the Commonwealth excepting eighth class.

Mr. ZIESENHEIM. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Erie point out the distinction between this bill and the bill passed by the Senate, sponsored by the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Miller.

Mr. ZIESENHEIM. Mr. President, my understanding of the bill as sponsored by the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Miller, is that the bill permitted two counties to co-operate in the establishment and maintenance of airports. This bill under consideration applies to an individual county, acting alone.

Mr. DENT. Maybe this is not clear in my mind, Mr. President, but why exempt eighth class counties if there is a suitable airport site there? I understand this is purely a matter of defense, building up defense and so forth, and if an eighth class county happens to have a desirable airport site why would it become exempt: you would not exempt a third class county or any other particular county

Mr. ZIESENHEIM. Mr. President, the answer is that I had a request from several Senators representing eighth class counties.

Mr. DENT. I understand the answer now, Mr. President.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading, as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That said bill as amended be printed for the use of the Senate.

Mr. GELTZ. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, can the gentleman from Allegheny tell me why he wants to have this bill placed on the postponed calendar.

Mr. GELTZ. Yes, Mr. President, we want it on the postponed calendar so that we can have a little more time for consideration of the bill and the amendment.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, this bill has passed both the House and the Senate and was recalled from the Governor's office when the Attorney General found that the title was faulty, and we corrected that, and I see no reason why the bill needs any further study, and I ask my colleagues to vote against the motion to place the bill on the postponed calendar.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, if the Senator does not mind I would like to reply.

In the early part of this session there was a bill which passed in the Senate unanimously, I think, and it is peacefully sleeping in a House Committee, and it seems to me we will have to do something we had hoped we would not have to do at the beginning of this session to get action on some Republican measures that passed the Senate unanimously, and I would be glad if the gentleman from Allegheny would cooperate with me to start some bills moving.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I thank the gentleman for his very truthful answer.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I wish to add my objections to those of the other Senators from Allegheny to this bill being placed on the postponed calendar.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Upon notice of withdrawal to the Secretary of Public Assistance of any county, city, borough, incorporated town, or township from further participation in the Federal Surplus Commodities Stamp plans, such county, city, borough, incorporated town, or township shall be reimbursed by the Secretary of Public Assistance from the fund to the full extent of its contributions. All moneys whatsoever paid into said fund are hereby specifically appropriated to the Department of Public Assistance for the purposes hereinbefore set forth.

Section 3. The Department of Public Assistance shall have the power to purchase, through the Department of Property and Supplies, such insurance as may be deemed necessary to protect it against loss in the handling of Federal Surplus Commodities Stamps, or the proceeds from the sale thereof. Amend sec. 3, page 2, line 28, by striking out the figure "3" and inserting in lieu thereof: "4".

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, these are the amendments to which I objected yesterday afternoon, on the ground we wanted an opportunity to examine them and see exactly what they did. Now, Mr. President, I am happy to inform my colleagues, both on the Republican and Democratic side, that we have checked with the Department of Public Assistance and the sponsor of the bill and we find these are good amendments and I accordingly withdraw my objections and ask my colleagues to support them.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, this bill is a bill that concerns itself with that ancient and primeval institution known as marriage. I think that we ought to be very cautious in dealing with that subject. That is a subject that, as I have stated, is as old as the world. We are told that God created the earth and all that is in it and then he created man, and after he was done with that, he felt that there was something missing and that which was missing was a companion for man, and so therefore we are told that he drew a rib from Adam and created a woman to be his companion, and the Bible records that she became the wife of Adam.

Now, I wish to appeal to those who believe in God and do believe in the testament and the Bible that here we have the first marriage ordained by God Almighty, and he did not require Adam and Eve to go to any clerk of the Orphan's Court for any license; he did not require them to submit to any test or examination of any kind, and from that day on, Mr. President, we can study holy writ, we can study the history of humanity, and we will find that for generations and generations, man took woman and in the presence of God, in the temples of God, declared the woman to be his wife and vice versa, and they became man and wife under the law of God, without going to any clerk of the Orphan's Court for a license so to marry.

Now, Mr. President, I want to be sincere about this matter, because I have a very keen and profound feeling of what this institution of marriage means to humanity. Upon marriage is predicated the home, and upon the home is predicated the nation. We can look back over these ages, centuries and centuries, and man and woman married without the necessity of a license being issued by anybody. We can look back to the history of our country and we will find that those brave men and brave women who hewed the wilderness and built the foundation of the nation and built this nation did not have to go to any clerk of the Orphan's Court to get a license to marry and create that home, that institution upon which they builded this nation—Washington and Jefferson and all of them—but the Temple of God, the church, did contain and it did hold the records that show in the presence of God these men and these women did unite themselves in marriage and remained man and wife and propagated the people that have protected this nation from then on.

I speak thus, Mr. President, because there seems to be a modern trend that the strength of the home, the virtue of a good home, depends upon the issuance of a worthless piece of paper. Mr. President, I would like to tell the people who might be confused with that idea that any home built upon the strength of a piece of paper is a very weak home, but the home that recognizes God, the home built upon the kind of marriages that God himself created from the beginning, is the home that has a foundation that will hold any nation.

Throughout the ages, Mr. President, mankind has recognized only marriages such as were originally created by God and it was not until many, many centuries after Adam and Eve, that society conceived that probably it was well to keep a record of the men and women who declared themselves husband and wife. The original registry of them was in the church and then the civil authorities came in.

It was not the intention of those who made laws, passed laws requiring a certificate to marry, to alter the institution of marriage or it was not their intention by requiring a man and woman to take out a license that it would make for a more durable marriage and a better home, but it was solely for the purpose of having a record, a civil record showing what men and what women were married together.

In addition to that, Mr. President, and on that point may I further amplify that in the face of these marriage certificate laws, the courts of these United States and the courts of the world have always recognized marriage among English speaking people, among the Roman people and all the people, have been recognized as common law marriages, marriages which were not performed in the church, nor were they performed in a court, but marriages that arose because of the necessities and the circumstances surrounding the marriage, and especially were our courts particular about that part of the law of the English speaking people dealing with common law marriages.

That law was builded upon circumstances, upon the knowledge—the knowledge of humanity, and upon the cold hard facts of necessity; it was builded with a full knowledge of the laws of God. The common law marriage recognizes the fact that the original marriage was without a certificate and that according to the law of God man and woman would declare themselves husband and wife and truly remain so the rest of their lives.

This question of whether a marriage should be valid or should be recognized or not always arises after the parties to the marriage were dead and gone and innocent children had been left by them who were to fight over the inheritance, if any was left by the parents. That was the purpose of the law in upholding common law marriages. The statutes passed by legislatures were not statutes prohibiting the kind of marriage that God himself has ordained and recognized but merely it was a statute that required the performance of a ministerial duty, the same as we have the bureau of vital statistics. That bureau is a bureau that merely performs ministerial duties, they keep a record of events, and so it is with the marriage license laws of this Commonwealth and many other states of this nation, and in spite of those laws all of the courts of the United States have held common law marriages valid.

Mr. President, I am speaking thus and building my argument against voting for this bill because there is a section in this bill that seeks to abolish these common law marriages, this institution that has been known to the English speaking people and the people of all the world for centuries and centuries. I speak not in favor of the common law marriage, I speak not against abolition of it because of any insincerity, but because I feel that you can not abolish common law marriage on a piece of paper or in a legislative body.

Mr. President, where the common law marriage must be abolished is in the homes, and I have been amazed in watching the passage of this bill through this body to see the people who are interested in having it passed and no rhyme or no reason can cause them to relent or to see any wisdom or any justification in not abolishing common law marriages.

This bill is a bill that a group of people pride themselves as having written up and finally had introduced in this General Assembly. I do not speak unkindly of that group. That group represents a great group of mothers in this Commonwealth, but I do feel and I say this in all kindness to them, that I think here is no place for them. When we look over the history of our nation, if we go back to the last World War, the World War of 1917, with more than five million of the youth of these United States of America called to the colors, how many of them were rejected as being physically unfit? Match that score with what is happening today, what the cold facts show to us today in this present emergency that we are in under this national conscription law. We are told that approximately fifty per cent of our youths that go to those draft boards are turned down—turned down as unfit, unfit to be a part of the armed forces because of something that is wrong with their eyes, with their teeth, with their hearts or with their feet.

Statistics do not show it is because of syphilis or anything else but statistics show that there is something wrong somewhere in our nation, and whenever people do not have good eyes, when they do not have good teeth, when they do not have good hearts and stomachs, good feet, there is something wrong, in my opinion, in the home; there is some deficiency in the homes of America, something that we had better pay some attention to.

I honestly and sincerely believe that a lot of these women, a lot of these mothers who are down here today fighting to abolish an institution that has been with man ever since man was created, if they were home taking care of those homes, making better homes, we would have better men in this United States of America, we would not have this high percentage of draftees turned down if these women would be more interested in the home than down here trying to tell us how to legislate.

Mr. President, the only argument in fact this good body of women put up that we must abolish the common law by force or statute is they say it is a health measure, to try to eradicate syphilis from this Commonwealth, from this state. If that is all they are interested in—I tried my level best to reason with them—and if that is the only thing they have in mind we could very well abolish that by amending this bill. Section 13, by making it read like this, page 14 of the bill:

"No common law marriage may hereafter be legally entered into in this Commonwealth, and all such marriages hereafter entered into shall be null and void unless at the time such marriage is contracted the parties thereto exchange one with the other a statement of a duly licensed physician as required by clause F, Section 2, of this act."

That is the most that anybody could ask, if their purpose was to guard against the marriage of one with syphilis but, Mr. President, even in the face of that these women will be highly disappointed in this matter because you can not prevent men and women from pursuing the law of God. Men and women were made to be companions, they are going to be companions, and if you try to keep them apart by a mere piece of paper, by statute, they will find ways of getting together and we will still have children of those people that you say should not be married. Those children will still be with us and I ask you the honest question, assuming that we will abolish the common law marriage as put forth in this bill, men and women will still cohabit, they will pay no attention to this act but will continue to follow the human equations as they have for centuries and centuries; they are going to get together and they are going to have children.

Now, Mr. President, these parents will die off and the only thing we have left are the children. Whom is this act penalizing? Does it penalize the people that you say should not have been married or does it penalize innocent beings, beings upon whom God Almighty has said that he will visit the iniquities of the parents upon the children even unto the seventh generation, and who are these mothers and who are you and I who would add to that punishment by stigmatizing them with bastardy and saying you shall not inherit from your parents because you were born out of wedlock?

Now, to sum up, Mr. President, my argument may not sound very concerted but I am sincere in this because I am an attorney and I do follow the legal profession and I know to what extent this institution that we call the common law marriage is rooted in the jurisprudence of the world, and here by a mere scrap of paper we are going to undertake to abolish that institution.

I would be in favor of abolishing it if by passing a bill it would prevent men and women from cohabiting together as husband and wife and propagating children, children who are to be the future citizens of this Commonwealth and this nation, but I say to you it is futile, it is futile to try to legislate by paper against something that God Almighty has founded in his laws, the thing which God Almighty made men and women for, to cohabit together, to be companions and to propagate the human race, and here we poor mortals are assembled here today, being urged on by a group of women who would be better off in their homes, improving the conditions around their homes, but who are here trying to tell us how to legislate. We would be better off if they would stay at home and I am sure there is no man in this body so debased and so demoralized that when this subject is put fairly before us that we can not consult our Christian souls, our Christian minds and our Christian hearts, and formulate a bill and pass a bill consistent with what is right, but I say to you that this bill is godless in its provision; this section that seeks to abolish the common law marriage is not founded on the laws of God but is merely the product of narrow-mindedness, bigotry and fanaticism, because human experience ought to be sufficient to warn you and I that you can not prevent men and women from cohabiting together.

Mr. President, I would vote for this bill, I would even take a chance on it, if they would have included in it a severe penalty for men and women who cohabit together as man and wife without taking out a license. I would take a chance that the knowledge of the severity of the punishment might deter men and women from cohabiting together, the same as we passed a law saying that a man found guilty of murder of the first degree shall be punished by death or by life imprisonment. We can not prevent men and women from committing murder. We have passed laws inflicting the death penalty but still they continue to murder and this proposition before us, Mr. President, is the same kind of a proposition; you can legislate but you will never prevent men and women from joining together and propagating the human race, whether they do it in the temple of God, or whether they do it out on the ocean or at the north or south pole, that is going to continue to go on.

You have no penalty in this bill for them doing so, and this is simply something that is going to cause us trouble in time to come. You are not punishing the two individuals that are guilty but you are going to visit upon the offspring of this union a punishment that I say to you godly people ought to feel that is more than God would want to inflict.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, the Senator from Fayette made one mistake in his eloquent address which I would like to call to his attention: when our first parents were in the Garden of Eden, starting at scratch, an Orphan's Court at that time would have been as superfluous as the Common Pleas Court No. 7 is at this time in Philadelphia.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

PRESENT—1

McCreesh,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the House is requested.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that further consideration of Senate Bill No. 730, (House Bill No. 647), on third reading, entitled:

An Act relating to the bonds to be given by county officers their deputies clerks and assistants in counties of the second class the amount and conditions thereof, the sureties for such bonds, the payment of the premiums, therefor, and the recording and custody thereof.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I desire to ask my colleague from Allegheny what is his purpose in requesting that Senate Bill 730 be placed on the postponed Calendar?

Mr. GELTZ. Just to allow a few of these bills to cool off, Mr. President, for a little while.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I do not care to interrogate the gentleman any more but I would like to make some remarks relative to the necessity of passage of this bill for the county of Allegheny.

I am sure the county of Allegheny has not very much time to cool off. It just so happens that in the office of the prothonotary of Allegheny county, the office of the clerk of the Courts and the office of the register of wills, there are many employes who handle money under the present status of the law and the clerk of the Courts, the register of wills and the prothonotary are not authorized to bond those men.

The result, of course, has been that we have found something must be done in order to insure the funds of those various offices and this simple little bill has that desired effect.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Cox.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COX. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Allegheny who is to pay the premium on those bonds?

Mr. COX. The premium on those bonds will be paid by the county of Allegheny. At the present time the premiums on the bonds are paid by the individuals who are bonded. For instance, in the office of the Clerk of Courts of Allegheny County there are six county clerks who handle money. There is no provision in the law which would permit the county of Allegheny to pay for the bonds.

Mr. REED. And this bill will require the county to pay the premiums for the bonds of those various employes; is that right?

Mr. COX. That is exactly right. The premiums, I think, total the grand sum of one hundred fifty dollars a month.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that further consideration of Senate Bill No. 813, (House Bill No. 896), on third reading, entitled:

An Act authorizing county commissioners to sell seated and unseated lands purchased at tax sales, upon which the period of redemption has expired; and validating certain sales heretofore made be postponed for the present.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, is the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, interested in the government of Allegheny County?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I consider that an impertinent question.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, it is just as impertinent as the answer the gentleman from Allegheny made to our colleague from Allegheny, Mr. Cox.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will confine himself to the motion.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded as voting "no."

The PRESIDENT. The vote of the gentleman from Allegheny will be so recorded.

REQUEST THAT SENATE BILL No. 859, (HOUSE BILL No. 724), BE POSTPONED

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I request that Senate Bill No. 859, (House Bill No. 724), be placed on the postponed Calendar.

Mr. COX. I object, Mr. President.

MOTION TO PROCEED WITH HOUSE BILL ON SECOND READING

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed with the second reading house bills.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 472, (House Bill No. 690), entitled:

An Act to further amend sections 402, 411, 703, 704, 705, 707 and 903 and to repeal Section 706 of the act approved the first day of May one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 905), entitled "An act for the protection of the public safety, regulating the use of highways and the operation of vehicles, tractors, street cars, trackless trolley omnibuses, bicycles, pedestrians and the riding of animals upon the highways of this Commonwealth, providing for the titling including liens encumbrances and legal claims registration of certain vehicles and licensing the operators thereof, upon payment of prescribed fees, prescribing and limiting the powers of local authorities to deal with the subject matter of this act, conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Department of Revenue the Department of Highways, peace officers, mayors, burgesses, magistrates, aldermen, justices of the peace, the courts and the clerks thereof; owners of vehicles and garage keepers providing that records are admissible as evidence, imposing upon owners counties, cities, boroughs, incorporated towns, townships within the Commonwealth liability for damages caused by the negligent operation of their motor vehicles, imposing penalties imposing certain costs upon counties, providing for the disposition of fines, forfeitures, fees and miscellaneous receipts making an appropriation and providing for refunds," providing for the registration and fixing registration fees of commercial motor vehicles, truck tractors trailers and semi-trailers according to gross weight and certain motor buses and omnibuses with pneumatic tires according to equipment, fixing the maximum gross weight of such vehicles which may be used and operated on the highways and eliminating existing provisions relating to the chassis of such vehicles.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend bill, page 23, by inserting between lines 2 and 3, the following:

Section 10. Subsection (c) of section one thousand two of said act, as last amended by the act, approved the twenty-seventh day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (P. L. 1135), is hereby further amended to read as follows:

(c) Subject to the provisions of subsections (a) and (b) of this section, it shall be unlawful for the following kinds, types, and classes of vehicles to be operated at a greater speed than hereinafter provided.

Commercial motor vehicles and truck tractors R class, fifty miles per hour.

Motor buses and omnibuses, forty-five miles per hour.

Commercial motor vehicles and truck tractors S, T and U classes, forty miles per hour.

Commercial motor vehicles and truck tractors V and W classes, thirty-five miles per hour.

All other commercial motor vehicles and truck tractors, thirty mile per hour.

All combinations of commercial motor vehicles or truck tractors and trailers or semi-trailers, thirty miles per hour.

None of the vehicles, the maximum speed of which is fixed by this sub-section shall be operated on the highway at a speed of less than fifteen miles per hour except when starting or coming to a stop and if for any unavoidable reason the speed of any such vehicle shall be decreased to less than fifteen miles per hour such vehicle shall, upon signal from the driver of any following vehicle, pull to the side of the highway and allow any following vehicle or vehicles to pass.

Amend sec. 10, page 23, line 3, by striking out the numeral "10" and inserting in lieu thereof, the following: "11".

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I simply want to explain to the Senate just what this amendment does or hopes to do, which is to promote more safety on the highways. I do not think there is anything more dangerous than any vehicle. whether it is a truck or whether it is a private pleasure car, that can not negotiate a hill at any more than four or five miles an hour, when we have such conditions existing, especially on Sundays or at times when there is a great deal of traffic on the road, when people anxious to get some place will pull out of line and come into a head-on collision with some other motor vehicle coming down the hill.

Now, Mr. President, all this amendment would do would be to require any motor vehicle to be able to travel at least fifteen miles an hour. The amendment is also fair in that if there is any kind of a mechanical disturbance he can signal to the party in the rear and, as soon as opportunity presents itself, pull off on the berm and let traffic that can travel at reasonable rates proceed on its way.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Blair.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Blair permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MALLERY. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. I desire to ask the gentleman from Blair whether it is not true that at the present time there are tractor-trailer units that can not travel at the minimum speed suggested by the gentleman from Blair.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I do not know what rate of speed tractor-trailer units travel at.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I would like to suggest to the gentleman, under the present act, regardless of the final disposition of House Bill 690, there are tractor-trailer units which would be seriously inconvenienced or eliminated by the minimum speed that has been placed in this bill. I also suggest to the gentleman from Blair if it is not true this is the first time in any safety code a minimum speed rather than a maximum speed has been inserted.

Mr. MALLERY. It may be something novel, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. It is very novel, Mr. President.

Mr. MALLERY. But I believe it is a worthwhile amendment.

Mr. WALKER. I would also like to suggest, Mr. President, the amendment as I gather it is to a section of the act, which is not included in the amendments incorporated in House Bill 690; is that not so, Senator?

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I do not understand the Senator's question.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I asked the gentleman from Blair if it is not so the amendment which he is offering it an amendment to a section of the act that is not incorporated in the amendments that are accomplished by House Bill 690.

Mr. MALLERY. I am sorry, Mr. President; I can not state whether that is so or not.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, as I followed the amendment as it was read by the Clerk, it is a section of the act which is not included in the amendments offered to House Bill 690 and I would like to suggest to the gentleman from Blair that in my opinion the minimum rate of speed which he has suggested will seriously inconvenience the trucking industry in the discharge of their responsibilities.

It is somewhat of a hackneyed phrase in this present Session of the Legislature to mention national defense, because as we have said repeatedly we are even milking our cows under the guise of national defense, but I think the proposed amendment of fifteen miles an hour as a minimum speed would not serve the purpose that the gentleman desires. The trucks that he suggests which go at a low rate of speed could be pulled over now on the highway and so permit pleasure cars and faster moving vehicles to pass, and that is take care of under the present code and the amendment suggested for imposing a minimum rate of speed in my opinion is rather superfluous.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I was not thinking of national defense when I offered this amendment, but if those trucks we are going to depend upon for national defense can not travel any more than fifteen miles an hour why then we are in a bad way.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WALKER. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. I meant, Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of the amendment, the Senator from Blair.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Blair permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MALLERY. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I did not hear the reading Clerk correctly and I do not know whether or not the title was amended. Is there any amendment to the title of this bill?

Mr. MALLERY. I do not know, Mr. President, beyond the thought I had in mind which I communicated to Mr. Frey. What paragraph of the bill would amend the title, frankly I cannot say.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Lackawanna will state his point of order.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I am rising to the point of order that the gentleman is including some subject matter in the bill which is not clearly expressed in the title. Without going into the question of the merits of the amendment proposed, my impression is before this amendment can be put in the bill the title must likewise be amended to indicate the subject matter the gentleman proposes to include in the bill.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I suggest we proceed with the Calendar. I believe there is nothing before the Senate. There was no seconding of any motion.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I asked unanimous consent to introduce an amendment and I heard no objection.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Lackawanna inquired of the gentleman from Blair whether there was an amendment to the title. The question before the Senate is the adoption of the amendment as read.

Mr. CARR. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WALKER. With pleasure, Mr. President.

Mr. CARR. Mr. President, I would like to ask the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, whether he has received communications favoring passage of a bill covering high weights, in which it was indicated if higher weights were granted the slow moving tractors and trailers would be removed from the road by getting power units able to haul over our hills at a reasonable rate of speed.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, may I answer the gentleman from Butler by saying I have received communication favoring the passage of House Bill No. 690, and there have been statements made by the proponents of the bill that the higher power units would be able to take care of the additional weights requested in the bill. I do not know whether or not that completely answers the gentleman's question.

Mr. CARR. I think that is the answer, Mr. President. I should like to further interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. WALKER. Still with pleasure, Mr. President.

Mr. CARR. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, as a Senator and not as a lawyer, as to whether or not in view of his connection with the trucking interests as their attorney, and my connection with the Pennsylvania Railroad as an employe, whether under the Constitution that would prohibit either one of us from voting on this proposition.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, in answer to the gentleman from Butler, it is a well known fact that we are both deeply interested in this bill. I am deeply interested in it because as a lawyer I represent a number of trucking companies and I understand from first hand information the gentleman from Butler is an employe of a rail carrier, and may I say to him, for what it is worth, in my opinion that does bar either the gentleman from Butler or myself from voting on this bill. As I understand from my interpretation of the Constitution there must be a direct benefit and I do not think either one of us will benefit directly from this. May I refer the gentleman from Butler to the very complete report of the Committee on Judiciary General of the House in regard to House Resolution No. 9, which has been placed on the desks of the members of the Senate? I think that question of interest, personal interest, in legislation was very carefully gone into and I think the conclusions arrived at are correct and I think the conclusions arrived at would permit both of us to vote on this bill.

May I further say to the gentleman from Butler that if lawyers are barred from voting on bills merely because they represent clients, there are a lot of us that have transgressed repeatedly and there are lots of bills many of us could not vote on at all and I do not think an interpretation of the Constitution extends that far.

Mr. CARR. May I say to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, I have read the very apt conclusion which the gentlemen of the House Committee on Judiciary General arrived at in connection with this matter, and I thank the gentleman from Allegheny for his free legal advice, concerning his predicament and mine.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WALKER. It is still a pleasure, Mr. President.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I presume that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, has received the same literature the other Senators of this Senate have received over the course of the last two months relative to this bill. Among that literature have been reports, very voluminous some of them, some of them have forty or fifty pages. Daily those reports have been coming in.

Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, tell us who is furnishing the money to circularize the propaganda to the Senate and House members on this bill?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, my answer to the gentleman from Fayette, of course, comes second hand—I know it did not come from me and I know it did not come from the gentleman from Fayette.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. I am positive of that, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, may I suggest the propaganda which I have received on both sides of this very controversial question probably weighs in the neighborhood of a ton apiece and I am assuming those who are interested in the trucking industry furnished the propaganda on the one side and the rail carriers furnished the propaganda from the other side. There may be disinterested people who get enthusiastic about legislation who have furnished some cards, but they would be in the minority. I am assuming both sides have paid their printing bills and have sent the material to us.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I thank the gentleman from Allegheny for his explanation.

I am inclined to agree with the amendment offered by the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Mallery, for this very simple reason: most of the arguments in favor of this bill are predicated upon a commercial, a material consideration, without regard that the public highways of this Commonwealth must be used by humanity also, by men, by women who do not haul big loads on those great big trucks loaded down with tons and tons of materials, and I really think that the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Mallery, has that in mind, and his amendment speaks of that very proposition. He is trying to at least regulate the speed and the manner by which these heavy loads are going to be dragged over our highways.

Certainly poor puny man in the presence of a fifty thousand pound load or probably more than that ought to have some protection, some show, and I think this amendment has humanity in view and I do think that if we should continue to drive over these highways the big trucks ought to be regulated to some degree; I think there ought to be some safety for us on the highways.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I do not want to prolong the debate on this bill and I concede that there are people in the Senate who are rightfully interested on both sides of this question, but I do want to assure the members of the Senate that I am sincere in presenting this amendment. If the bill is going to pass then I think it should pass in proper form. Safety on our highways is something that I have been interested in from the time I first came to the Senate. In 1935, I presented a highway safety commission bill, which was voted upon favorably by every member of the Senate, and when it went over to the House there was only one person that voted against it there. The Governor saw fit not to sign the bill because he said the matter was being adequately taken care of.

In 1939 I introduced a similar bill which was voted upon favorably by everyone in the Senate, with the exception of one Senator, and it went over to the House and died in committee, but the Governor did do one thing and that was to fix immediately a speed limit of fifty miles an hour on the highways. I think that was a mighty good ruling. When we came to increasing the speed on the new super highway it was with a great deal of hesitation that I gave my support to that bill, but on the other hand, I think that any motor vehicle, whether it is a pleasure car or a truck, can be just as much a menace on the highway by traveling at a rate of four or five miles an hour, especially on up-grades.

And the question recurring.

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. MALLERY and Mr. CARR, and were as follows, viz:

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Warren, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, newspapers tell us that less than 2500 grizzled veterans of the Civil War listened to the muffled drums and saw the flying flags on Friday last when Memorial Day was observed throughout the Nation. It was a proud observance, although tinged with memories that tugged at heart strings and caused a tear to trickle down the cheeks. The massed flags, the skirling bands and the marching feet all proclaiming to the world that Uncle Sam does not forget his armies of blue, gray, khaki and the naval blue, and as I stood watching the ranks march by, I had pass through my mind that old saying of Hamlet "We know we are; but know not what we may be."

All too secure in our wave-locked nation we feel. Most of us by years of fat living have come to regard the position of the United States as impregnable and unassailable. Prone to be a nation of easy livers, we are not hardened to sacrifice. Even in the depths of the depression, from which we are awakening, due to the defense program, we did not sink to the depths in which most of the people of Europe know as their normal stage of life. We continued to enjoy our radios, our homes, our automobiles and our amusements, and with the swelled payrolls of the plants engaged in defense work, we are further blinded to the dark days which I feel we are entering.

There must be an about face. President Roosevelt in his radio speech last Tuesday proclaimed that to all of us. More people heard that speech perhaps than had ever listened to my speech since Edward, King of England renounced his throne for "The woman I love." But President Roosevelt did not speak in the halting, emotion choked tones of Edward. His voice was that of the finished orator, speaking in ringing tones. The Commander-in-Chief of the armed forces of the nation had in his voice more depth, more sincerity and more conviction than in any speech I have ever heard him make. Round the world on short wave it traveled. Into the halls of the despots it rolled, telling them in no uncertain words that we will have none of the dictators. To Hitler, Mussolini and the Emperor of Japan it carried defiance.

The speech was worthy of the diplomatic audience that heard it in person and the world wide radio listeners. It was written with all the art of great speech maker. It marked another forward step of the entry of our nation into the bloody conflict that is raging. To the interventionists it was a disappointment; to the isolationists it was a disappointment. One group hoped for words that would spell convoys, troops sailing for Dakar, the Azores and other strategic places. To the Tories it failed to exhibit a more cautious and restrained attitude toward war.

To me the speech was a fire brand that surely will ignite the flames of war for our nation. But let us pray that the entry into the war must be delayed for at least another year. At the present time we are unprepared even after a year of appropriations, plans and discussions. Our war effort is bungled and we are not getting the tanks, guns, planes and equipment. Our armies are as yet not wholly trained. You cannot turn out a well organized army in one year. And in the camps of the nation there are few tanks, guns, planes and equipment with which to train our boys. We cannot become familiar with the operation of mechanized war material that is "on order."

We hear our leaders prate of "priorities to come," "civilian needs," etc., but if war is close to our doors, there should be a thumbs-down on talk and a thumbs-up on action.

If the war entry can be delayed until the Fords of the nation get into action, we will wax stronger as Hitler's might wanes. Recently a speaker before a group here said that "Hitler was building more airplanes than the United States and England together." If that is true, we must redouble our efforts. And it can be done if there is a singleness of purpose and oneness aim.

Our one, and one-half ocean navy is growing and from our shipyards will pour forth during the next year, an ever increasing stream of destroyers, submarines and fighting ships as well as merchant vessels. Efforts here must be augmented.

Into our army camps are pouring more and more men but they are untrained and unarmed. Our new army rifles are not coming as they should, and the Colt Arms Company has felt the loss of thousands of man hours due to strikers slowing down the wheels of the industry. Strikes must go. President Roosevelt who has built his vast power on the foundation of "labor" must see that his friends do not ruin our nation with their struggle for power and bigger wages.

Crete now has fallen to the German forces but at a terrific cost. Huge quantities of material were lost, masses of the young German soldiers have died in the struggle.

But with every triumph Hitler is growing weaker. His power was at its crest after the fall of France. He is still strong. But his forces are scattered and each new conquest stretches his lines of communication. No matter how thorough the planning of the Germans is, in their campaigns the fact is still true that an army marches on "its belly" and gasoline has now been added to the needs of conquering hordes.

His conquest of Yugo-Slavia and Greece have weakened him. His armies of occupation are ringed by a circle of enslaved peoples in whose hearts is black hate for the goosestepping Germans. His soldiers occupying the conquered nations are growing homesick and war weary. The short war that Hitler promised is growing into a longer one. Napoleon had strong armies of occupation but weariness and longing for home sapped the strength of the fighting men and had a dire effect on the troops.

Years will elapse before peace comes. I anticipate that this war will be a longer one than the last World War. Ten years may elapse before the forces of the dictators are beaten down.

And in an effort to shorten this conflict we must become accustomed to hardships. We must forego our luxuries. Simple life will make us strong and into each heart must come the conviction that individuals must sink their identity into that of the whole nation for victory.

The spectacle of politics being played in the nation's capitol in the war effort is, heart rending. The idea of making the lives, liberties and homes of the people of the United States footballs in the political arena is something that must be stopped.

In long hours of the night I have given thought to the things being done at Washington. Contracts to favorites, pats for men who are in a struggle for power, hamstringing the armament program and bickering and purgings in high places. The high sounding phrases of the President's speech are not in harmony with the actions of his coterie handling the situation.

I have pondered carefully his words and I can't make out how much responsibility he feels for the world as compared to the responsibility he feels for his own country.

I quote: "We will not accept a Hitler dominated world. We will not accept a world, like the post war world of the 1920's, in which the seeds of Hitlerism can again be planted and allowed to grow. We will accept only a world consecrated to freedom of speech and expression—freedom of every person to worship God in his own way—freedom from want, and freedom from terror. Is such a world impossible of attainment?"

I do not know whether or not such a world is impossible of attainment but I do know that unless our nation marches in unison and its strength is conserved and made available, victory may not be attained and Hitler may be triumphant.

Almighty God, we praise Thee for the ever-renewing splendor of the world; for the eternal miracle of the spring, for the gracious dignity of trees and flowers, for the unending pageant of the skies, for the charm and glory of the fields. These things Thou hast made. They are good and we rejoice in them.

We look out upon the earth and behold its beauty, blighted with our sins. Given love, we choose hate; given freedom, we prefer slavery; given intelligence, we rest in stupidity; given goodness, we cherish evil; given life, we elect death; given opportunity to bring heaven to earth, we decide to bring hell.

Forgive us, O God, wherein we have failed Thee. In Christ's name we pray. Amen.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. GATES and BRETHERICK.

RESOLUTION No. 100

In the House of Representatives, May 28, 1941.

Whereas, The Government of the United States is, by the provisions of the Lease-Lend Bill, committed to a policy of material aid to Great Britain in her present struggle against totalitarian Germany, thus linking the fortunes of our own country with those of our sister democracy; and

Whereas, Great Britain's strength and hope of survival lies in her navy, to which the loss of the battleship Hood was a serious blow remediable only by its immediate replacement; and

Whereas, The United States has recently placed in service the battleship North Carolina, a more modern and effective ship of war, which can be used in immediate action against the common enemy with much better result than by saving her to meet the enemy alone at some later date; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby memorialize the Congress of the United States to enact legislation, if need be, to authorize the President, under plenary powers, similar to those now possessed under the Lease-Lend Bill, to give the battleship North Carolina, outright to the British Government, without reservation; and the House of Representatives further hereby requests the President of the United States to make such gift forthwith, if such power he already have; or in any event, as soon as the power necessary thereto has been granted by the Congress; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk of the House to the President of the United States, each of the presiding officers of the two branches in Congress and to each United States Senator and member from this Commonwealth.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Dauphin will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I wish to thank you for the very beautiful bouquet of flowers which has been placed on my desk, and for the very kind note that accompanied it. The trouble with me is that I am usually about a step or two behind. I have acquired the reputation of frequently being a little late. I certainly cannot criticize anybody for being a jump ahead, and the Speaker as customary in many things, is just a jump ahead. While I do not wish to criticize him for giving me the flowers a day early, I will just enjoy them over the entire day of my birthday tomorrow instead of just part of the day, as I would have, if they had been delivered tomorrow.

I was born June 4, 1904 at four o'clock in the afternoon, while the state Senator of Dauphin County, M. Harvey Taylor, was celebrating his twenty-eighth birthday on a baseball field in Millersburg, pitching for the Millersburg team, while my father was doing the umpiring. And so as I celebrate my birthday tomorrow, I cannot help but recall, not of my own recollection, but of hearing of the circumstances on that day of June 4, 1904, while M. Harvey Taylor was throwing and my father was calling them. Again, Mr. Speaker, I want to thank you for the very kind sentiments and the very beautiful flowers.

The SPEAKER. The Chair extends the wishes of the House to the gentleman from Dauphin, wishing him many happy returns of the day tomorrow.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. RUSH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of the bill, Mr. Welsh.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ELLWOOD B. WELSH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. RUSH. Is this not the bill, Mr. Speaker, that was defeated a few weeks ago by a vote of sixty to ninety-four?

Mr. ELLWOOD B. WELSH. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. RUSH. The original intent of this bill, Mr. Speaker, I believe was to stop the sale of package medicine in the country stores.

Mr. ELLWOOD B. WELSH. That was not the intent, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. RUSH. But it did contain those provisions, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ELLWOOD B. WELSH. Originally, Mr. Speaker, the pink bill would have stopped them. Amendments were made to cut that out.

Mr. RUSH. Mr. Speaker, under the provisions of this present bill, with the rules and regulations to be set up by the State Board of Pharmacy, could not that same thing be accomplished in this bill?

Mr. ELLWOOD B. WELSH. No, it could not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. RUSH. Mr. Speaker, does it not give the State Board of Pharmacy the power to set up rules and regulations by which package sales of medicine could not be handled?

Mr. ELLWOOD B. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, the State Board of Pharmacy now has that power.

Mr. RUSH. Is it possible, Mr. Speaker, for them to make provisions by which the package sale of medicine could be made so difficult it would drive out of business those little stores that handle package medicine?

Mr. ELLWOOD B. WELSH. It is hardly likely, Mr. Speaker, because they are specifically exempted in the bill.

Mr. RUSH. Mr. Speaker, the organized druggists of Pennsylvania have been trying to accomplish for a number of years, by introducing legislation in this House, the prohibition of the sale of package medicine in certain stores throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. While this bill today does not definitely state that, yet under its provisions it gives the State Board of Pharmacy the right to set up rules and regulations whereby they can accomplish the original purpose of the bill by making rules and regulations so difficult in the handling of package medicine it would be almost impossible for small stores to handle the things. I think this bill is a bad piece of legislation and should be defeated and I am going to ask the members to vote "no."

Mr. ELLWOOD B. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, it is rather a matter of regret that I must come to you, fellow members, and ask you for the second time to vote for House Bill 1094. If it were not for the fact that I am deeply convinced, this bill does not do the injury the gentleman from Delaware County has pictured; if it were not for the fact that I have worked many days and many hours to perfect this bill so it would be agreeable to all concerned, I would not feel inclined to come before you, but it seems altogether unfair that the Pennsylvania manufacturing druggists, citizens of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, should be compelled to bow their knee in response to the opposition of men who sell drugs in this Commonwealth, but do not manufacture them, who have principal offices in other parts of the world, principally in Canada and in New England.

It seems to me the only remaining opponents of this bill are those manufacturers from outside this state. I ask you to consider your local manufacturers. This, in itself, is purely a manufacturer's bill. It deals with things that are manufactured and it makes some provision for those who manufacture them by taking out a license and submitting themselves to an examination by the State Pharmacy Board. The remaining opposition was on the floor of this House this morning going from desk to desk. Perhaps their representative was at your desk, imploring you to defeat this bill, not because it would do them any immediate injury, because as I have stated they are saying they do not fear anything from this bill, but they do fear a bill of a similar nature, and this same group may come back before this legislature some two years from now, and demand further and more stringent legislation, which may have the affect of ruling them out. They are basing their contention on something yet unborn.

It seems to me that you as live and wide-awake legislators should weigh this argument with considerable care. The remaining opposition to this bill was permitted to write in their own amendments, and a letter from the opposition which I received last month tells me this:

"In the first place, I wish to thank you for the courtesy you extended me when I was in Harrisburg last week. Had expected to write you sooner than this with further reference to House Bill 1094.

"As you may already know, this bill is a very complex one. The State of Pennsylvania already has adequate laws that afford all necessary protection to public health and safety, all arguments to the contrary. And for this reason, the bill under consideration simply adds to the complexity of the situation."

That is the local picture, but the further argument by which they hide behind a smokescreen is the argument which is set forth in the concluding paragraph of this letter which says:

"Our attorneys have requested further time in which to study the bill, saying that the amendments that I proposed did not adequately clear up the uncertainties of it. While I am not aware of any efforts on the part of others to obtain immediate consideration of the bill, it is hoped that you will be willing to allow further time in which to study it."

Almost two months have passed since then giving that party time, and the same opposition comes into this House today telling one Member they know there is no harm in the bill, but after all they are opposing it on general principles. One remark was made to the effect that they came to this House in 1939 and stopped a similar bill, and are going to continue their opposition. This opposition comes from outside of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and I call upon you as loyal Pennsylvanians to settle this once and forever by voting for House Bill No. 1094.

Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Sarraf.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SARRAF. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ELLWOOD B. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, is there any opposition to this bill from the medical profession?

Mr. SARRAF. No, there is not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ELLWOOD B. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman know of any reason why this bill should be opposed by any of the kindred professions of the drug trade?

Mr. SARRAF. I do not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ELLWOOD B. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, is there any reason why the people in the gentleman's district would have legitimate opposition to this bill, if the gentleman knows?

Mr. SARRAF. Mr. Speaker, my particular district, no, no reason whatever.

Mr. ELLWOOD B. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, is it true that the Grocer's Association of Pennsylvania is also in sympathy with this bill?

Mr. SARRAF. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

lating to inns taverns and retailers of vinous and spirituous liquors" are hereby repealed

All other acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McLANAHAN. Mr. Speaker, this bill is to modify a bill that was enacted on March 11, 1934. The penalty on the books today is five hundred dollars or one year in jail for this petty gambling. This is a vicious bill. My bill reduces this to a three hundred dollar fine or one hundred and twenty days in jail.

Mr. Speaker, during these serious times of this country today, it is important that our men are at their work and not lying in jail or lying around the court-house. Being a Justice of the Peace and sponsor of this bill, I do not wish to vote on this bill and I retire from the floor and call for a vote.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 788, as follows:

An Act to promote the general public health and welfare by regulating the business of "strip mining" or mining coal by removing the overlying soil or strata therefrom authorizing the Department of Mines to issue permits for "strip mining" operations requiring those proposing to engage in strip mining operations to file a bond with the Department of Mines to secure the leveling and replacement of the surface soil imposing certain additional duties upon the Department of Mines and the various mine inspectors and providing penalties

Whereas "strip mining" or the mining of coal by shifting or removing the overlying soil or strata so that the coal can be excavated without the necessity of underground digging is a frequent practice in various portions of the Commonwealth and

Whereas there are certain hazards and detrimental effects resulting from that type of mining which the general public welfare requires to be eliminated or regulated the following legislative findings of fact with respect thereto are hereby made

(a) It is a common practice in the conduct of strip mining operations to fail to replace the overlying soil or to bring the surface into substantial conformity with its pre-existing contours after the coal has been removed

(b) This frequent failure to replace or level the surface soil or overlying strata causes or aggravates soil erosion in many instances with resulting increase in the hazards of floods and a resulting counteraction of efforts to preserve soil and protect natural resources

(c) This failure to replace or level the surface soil or overlying strata causes the accumulation of stagnant waters which in turn results in pollution of the various lakes rivers and streams of the Commonwealth and in other detrimental effects upon the health and enjoyment of the citizens of the Commonwealth

(d) This failure to replace or level the surface soil or overlying strata permits the indefinite and unguarded existence of pits ditches gulleys piles and mounds which constitute dangerous hazards to life and property

(e) This failure to replace or level the surface soil or overlying strata is otherwise injurious and detrimental to the general public health and welfare therefore

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 Strip Mining Without Permit Unlawful It shall be unlawful for any person firm association or corporation intending to engage in the business of strip mining or mining for coal by uncovering or removing therefrom the surface soil or overlying strata to undertake any strip mining operations unless he or it shall first obtain a permit from the Department of Mines of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to conduct such strip mining operations

Nothing contained in this act shall be deemed to require a permit for "strip mining" where such mining is not conducted primarily for profit but is only performed incidentally in connection with or preparatory to some material change in or relocation of surface structures or improvements or in connection with some material change in the use of the surface. Provided however That the change or relocation of structures or improvements on the surface or the change in use of the surface is such as will prevent or obviate those detrimental effects of "strip mining" which this act is designed to eliminate.

Section 2 Application for Permit Application for permit to conduct strip mining operations shall be made on forms to be provided by the Department of Mines. Such application shall set forth the location description and area in acres of the property whereon the applicant proposes to conduct strip mining operations. The department may require in addition that the application shall set forth such other information as is deemed pertinent and necessary. Every application for such permit shall be supported by the oath or affirmation of the applicant and shall be accompanied by a filing fee of five dollars ($5.00).

Section 3 Bond to Accompany Application Every application shall be accompanied by a corporate surety individual surety or collateral bond to be approved and on the form prescribed by the Department of Mines in the amount of two hundred dollars ($200) for every acre or portion thereof on which the applicant proposes to conduct strip mining operations.

Such bond shall be conditioned upon the replacement and leveling of the surface or overlying soil subsoil or strata after the removal of coal has been completed or after the strip mining operation has been discontinued such replacement and leveling to be completed within a reasonable time to be determined by the Department of Mines and such replacement refilling and leveling to be done in such manner as to minimize the hazard of floods pollution of streams and water accumulation of stagnant water and destruction and erosion of soil and in such manner as to restore so far as practicable the preexisting contours of the surface.

Every bond filed by an applicant for permit shall be payable to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and shall bear a warrant of attorney authorizing the Attorney General of the Commonwealth to confess judgment thereon in the event of non-compliance with its conditions.

Section 4 Issuance of Permits Upon the receipt of a properly completed and executed application together with the required filing fee and a bond satisfactory as to the amount and security the Department of Mines shall issue a permit in duplicate authorizing the person firm association or corporation named to conduct strip mining operations upon the property specified and described therein. One copy of such permit shall be posted in such manner as to be protected from the elements in some prominent spot upon the property on which the strip mining is conducted.

Section 5 Appeal from Refusal of Permit Any applicant for a permit to engage in strip mining whose application is refused may by petition filed within thirty (30) days after notice of such refusal appeal to the court of common pleas of the county wherein the proposed strip mining operation or the larger part thereof was to be conducted. A copy of such appeal petition shall be filed with the Department of Mines. The various courts of common pleas in the Commonwealth are hereby vested with jurisdiction to hear and determine such appeals de novo and any decision by such courts as to whether a permit should be issued or refused shall be final.

Section 6 Department to Adopt Rules and Regulations and Enforce Act The Department of Mines is hereby authorized to adopt such reasonable rules and regulations as may be necessary for the proper administration of this act.

It shall be the duty of the various mine inspectors in the Department of Mines to investigate and examine strip mining operations in the respective areas to which they are assigned and to make such reports and recommendations to the Secretary of Mines as may be necessary for the enforcement of this act.

Section 7 Forfeiture of Bond Upon failure of the holder of any permit to fulfill the conditions of the bond filed in securing such permit the bond shall be forfeited and shall be turned over to the Department of Justice in order that judgment may be confessed or suit instituted thereon as the Attorney General may determine.

Section 8 Penalties Any person firm association or corporation failing to post the strip mining permit as hereinbefore required shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine of not more than fifty dollars ($50) or to undergo imprisonment of not more than ten (10) days or both in the discretion of the court.

Any person firm association or corporation conducting any strip mining operation without securing the permit required by this act or conducting any strip mining operations on areas not covered by the permit secured or otherwise violating the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine of not less than five hundred dollars ($500) nor more than one thousand dollars ($1,000) or to undergo imprisonment of not more than one (1) year or both in the discretion of the court.

Each day's failure to comply with the provisions of this act shall constitute a separate and distinct offense punishable as herein provided.

Section 9 Injunction The Attorney General at the request of the Department of Mines may in the name of the Commonwealth institute proceedings in equity in the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County for the purpose of enjoining the conduct of strip mining operations in this Commonwealth contrary to the provisions of this act and for such purpose jurisdiction is hereby conferred upon that court. In such case the Attorney General shall not be required to give bond.

Section 10 Effective Date This act shall become effective sixty days after final enactment and shall apply to every strip mining operation started or undertaken after the expiration of such sixty day period and to every extension of existing strip mining operations into new areas occurring after the expiration of said sixty day period.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Carbon, Mr. Dolon.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Carbon permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DOLON. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Gallagher.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Carbon, Mr. Dolon yields to the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Gallagher. Does the gentleman from Philadelphia desire to interrogate the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Gallagher?

Mr. SHEPARD. Yes, Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will proceed.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Luzerne if this bill would not bring about some increase in the price of anthracite coal?

Mr. GALLAGHER. Mr. Speaker, I do not think so.

Mr. SHEPARD. That is all.

Mr. Speaker, in reading over this bill and from what I have been told by persons familiar with mining processes, this bill will ultimately cause a rise in the price of anthracite coal to the consumers. We have voted for several bills supposedly to better conditions among the miners, but there are times when we must call a halt because of the fact that this is going to bring about an increase in the price of coal to the consumer at a time when the cost of living is gradually going up. We can ill afford to bring about today anything which will cause a rise in the price of coal, particularly to the people on relief in some of our large cities. As much as we would desire to help out the coal districts we cannot afford to do so at this time at the expense of the people on relief and many of the consumers in our cities. I understand there is a possibility something can be worked out along this line to help out the situation without bringing about the resultant increase in the price of coal.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Mines and Mining for the purpose of further study.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. GALLAGHER. Mr. Speaker, I believe every method known has been attempted for some unknown reason to have this bill put back into Committee for the purpose of a natural death. I do not agree with the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shepard, when he says this bill will add an additional cost to the consumer of anthracite, because I believe this bill, if enacted into law, will not even cause a hardship or additional cost of any account on the anthracite operator. As I understand this bill, the bill only requires the stripping contractor to put back into the stripping the rock and soil they have removed as overburden from the coal. That is done as the coal is taken out.

Mr. Speaker, any one who has had the opportunity to witness stripping operations will know all that would be required by the contractor is to have a bulldozer, and the great majority of stripping contractors have bulldozers right on the job, and all that is required is possibly one shift, a shift of seven hours, to put back into this stripping the overburden the other two shifts of that particular stripping put out on the bank.

Mr. Speaker, I might say that any of you gentlemen who have had occasion to drive up through the anthracite region have noticed on the highways many large strippings and many high banks that have been placed there by the removal of the soil and rock from those strippings. All this bill asks the stripping contractors to do is to put that back. Strippings at this time are at the back door of the people living in the anthracite region. This bill requires those strippings to be filled so they will not accumulate water and become a hazard to people who are walking from their neighbor's door or people who want to cross the street. Eventually, these people will have to go up a bank, down the stripping, over on the other side to the other bank in order to get across the street. That is all this bill is going to do. We have heard many men in this House ask the question in reference to silt banks in reference to old strippings. This does not force contractors who have already abandoned their stripping work to go back and fill their stripping. The only thing this bill does, it takes care of the immediate stripping.

If the gentleman from Philadelphia is interested in this bill, he can help by giving his assistance to the people in the anthracite region or to the people in the bituminous region, I believe, in trying to have federal projects put into the anthracite and bituminous regions by the Federal Government, whereby these silt banks may be put back into the strippings, and the water that is now lying there dead, creating all kinds of hazards to the school children, inducing the school children to use those same strippings as swimming holes, then I think the gentleman from Philadelphia will be doing something that will be of benefit to the people of the anthracite and bituminous regions.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Gallagher.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Luzerne permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GALLAGHER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Luzerne how long have these holes been in that section of the State?

Mr. GALLAGHER. Mr. Speaker, I might say some of them have been there twenty or twenty-five years and others are being made at the present time. I might further answer the gentleman by saying at the present time mining in the anthracite region has been petering out to the extent that the majority of these strippings are right there in the community, the towns, cities and boroughs where people are living.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, if the people have been going around these holes for twenty or twenty-five years, in view of the increased cost of living, I think they might go around them a little while longer without a great deal of handicap. At the same time I would certainly be in favor of having a W. P. A. project close up those holes, but at the same time, I cannot see the wisdom of causing extra shifts in the coal fields that will ultimately bring about a higher price of coal for the consumers at a time when they can ill afford it.

Therefore, I ask the Members of the House to recommit this bill in order that it might be given an opportunity for further study. It may be that something can be worked out to take care of the situation, and at the same time not bring about an increase in the price of coal to the people on relief and to the people in our large cities who are going to face additional hardships this winter anyway because of the increase in other prices in the cost of living. We might save them this cost for the time being. I ask the Members of the House to vote to recommit this bill.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose the motion to recommit this bill. As one coming from the soft coal region, we have had in our territory these strippings where they pile up ten, twelve, fifteen or twenty feet high along the highways of the stripping project. We have bills in this House, we have the women's organizations throughout the State introducing bills to eliminate signs along our highways, because they are destroying the beauty of the state of Pennsylvania. If any of you people who are interested in the beauty of the state of Pennsylvania, will go out and look along our highways where the stripping operations are being performed, I think you will agree with me that they are not helping to beautify the state of Pennsylvania.

My good friend, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shepard, is worried about the increased cost of coal to the people of the State of Pennsylvania at this particular time. I might say to Mr. Shepard that regardless of whether these stripping companies must put back into place the earth they take out it will not make much difference so far as making the people of the State pay more money for coal is concerned. Mr. Shepard says that he would be in favor of a W. P. A. project to fill up these holes. Does the gentleman realize that the people of the state of Pennsylvania and the taxpayers pay for W. P. A. work that is done, not only in this state but in every state. I say to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shepard, as one who has always fought in the interests of the people since I have been in Harrisburg, that the people of the state should not be compelled to fill up the holes that are left after these mining corporations take out the coal and make big profits.

For that reason I rise to oppose this motion, because I feel there will be very little added cost to the strippers who put back the earth that they remove at the time they take the coal out of these holes. It is a matter involving a very short time. Those places can be beautified and made to look almost as they did before. For that reason I ask the Members of the House to oppose the motion to recommit this bill.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Lovett.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LOVETT. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Westmoreland suppose the operators are required to put back the earth into these holes, will there be enough earth to completely fill up the holes. Won't there still be a hole left there just the same?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I might say in answer to the gentleman from Philadelphia, there possibly would be some ravine still left, but over a period of time you would hardly notice the difference in those particular sections, but as it is today it would be impossible to grow trees or anything else, because the good earth is at the bottom and the stones are on the top.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, if they take out one hundred tons of coal and then they put back the earth that has been removed, with what will they fill the rest of the hole.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I must say to the gentleman from Philadelphia while there will be nothing left to fill up the rest of the hole but air, I say to him that the mountain of earth they put back into the hole at least is not facing the public highway.

Mr. SHEPARD. In other words, Mr. Speaker, we will still have the hole. Additional work will have been done and additional cost will have been passed on to the consumer and the hole will still be there. I think if we recommit this bill a better way can be worked out without bringing about an increase in the price of coal to the consumer and we will ultimately find a way by which the hole can be completely filled up.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I did not expect to take the floor on this particular bill, but I might say for the information of the Members of the House that I oppose the motion to recommit it. I come from the bituminous mining field and I want to dispute the point that Mr. Shepard raised when he said this would increase the price of coal, and due to the fact that the cost of living is going up, it would be a burden on the poor class of people throughout the state of Pennsylvania and the nation.

I might say for the information of the Members of the House that strip mining is done for about half the cost of mining which takes place underneath the hills. We have large overhead expenses in the other forms and methods of mining that the stripping operators are able in their stripping operations to take the top off the coal and remove it with just about half the cost. They have large steam shovels that take out as high as three or four tons in one lift, and therefore it is not going to increase the cost of coal because of the fact that the stripping operators today are selling their coal at the same price as the other operators in the bituminous fields. They would not dare increase the cost over and above what the other operators sell their coal for, because of the fact that they would lose their markets if they did.

Mr. Speaker, I might further say that a great many of you gentlemen probably do not know the way a coal bed lies under the ground. This is known as crop coal where it comes out near the surface. In most instances it is level. In other types of mines the coal rolls, it is either up-grade or down-grade. In some places it is steeply inclined, but in these places it is mostly level. They may have perhaps twenty-five or thirty men. If they work it properly, they can take out their first stripping, as they call it, and after that they can take their shovel right on top of the coal bed, and take the dirt and place it in the hole out of which they have already taken the coal. In so doing they can make it uniform without using a bulldozer, because these gentlemen who operate the steam shovels and the electric shovels, can do a wonderful job in moving earth. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I see no justification in recommitting this bill. It is a good bill.

Mr. Speaker, I might further say for the information of the Members of the House that the Coal Operators' Association, the mine stripping coal operators' association in Washington and Beaver counties are in favor of this bill. They want to see it passed so there might be some regulation on strip mine operations.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shepard.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHEPARD. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman from Philadelphia if he has ever seen one of these stripping operations?

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, I have not seen the stripping operation but I have seen some of the holes up there.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman if he has ever seen some of the mountains they pile up along side of the hole.

Mr. SHEPARD. Yes, Mr. Speaker, I have seen some of them.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman from Philadelphia rather have a big hole or a small hole?

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, in reply to the gentleman from Philadelphia, I would rather not have any hole at all, but if it is a question between whether we shall have a small hole or no hole, and having the people in the cities keep warm at reasonable prices, I say let the hole stay there a while so that the people may get warm at reasonable prices. People all like to see the state of Pennsylvania beautified but this is no time for beauty. This is the time for us to try to keep the price of living down so that people can live through this emergency and later on when we get out of this emergency, when we have plenty of money and we have plenty of time we can spend it on projects to beautify the state of Pennsylvania.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, did the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shepard, ever try to dig a hole in the ground and then try to put the ground back in the hole he dug?

Mr. SHEPARD. Yes, I have, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, did the gentleman get all the dirt back into the hole he dug?

Mr. SHEPARD. Sometimes, Mr. Speaker, I didn't want it all back in there.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Philadelphia please answer my question? Can he put it back?

Mr. SHEPARD. Yes, I can, Mr. Speaker, if I try hard enough, but it requires a great deal of extra effort that I do not care to expend.

Mr. LOVETT. That is all, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GALLAGHER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shepard.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHEPARD. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GALLAGHER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know what the position of the gentleman from Philadelphia would be if W. P. A. or some other crew would dig a hole fifty or sixty feet deep either in front or in back of his home, and then decide they were going to leave it there for the rest of possibly Mr. Shepard's life.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, I cannot answer that question. They would have a difficult time digging that hole, or finding that much space in front of my house or behind it either, to dig a hole of that size, but in case of emergency I would just go around that hole until such a time as we could get it filled up.

Mr. GALLAGHER. Mr. Speaker, I would like the gentleman from Philadelphia to answer the question. I did not hear his answer.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, I would like the gentleman from Luzerne to ask the question again.

Mr. GALLAGHER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know what would be the position of the gentleman from Philadelphia if WPA or some other crew dug a hole fifty or sixty feet in depth, either in the front or back of his home, and then having dug the hole decide to leave it there until possibly Mr. Shepard's death, and there wouldn't be any coming back to fill it up. I would like to know what the gentleman from Philadelphia would think about that?

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, being desirous of creating as much WPA work as possible I would seek to get another WPA project started to put back the dirt into the hole.

Mr. GALLAGHER. Mr. Speaker, I would appreciate if the gentleman from Philadelphia would answer my question.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, I would consider it an opportunity to get more people employed putting the dirt back into the hole. That is the only way I can answer the gentleman's question. I do not know how I would feel. That is a matter of psychology. I don't know how I would feel. If that is what the gentleman is asking, I cannot answer his question.

Mr. GALLAGHER. That is all, Mr. Speaker. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, if it were hot weather and there were water there, I might feel it would be an opportunity for me and the kiddies to go out and take a swim, rather than go out to the swimming hole. I do not know how I would feel at the time.

Mr. GALLAGHER. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Shepard has raised the question of the cost of coal to the consumer if this bill were enacted into law. Let me say to the Members of this House it is my opinion this bill will not add any additional cost to a ton of coal. I base that, Mr. Speaker, on the fact that ten or fifteen years ago in the anthracite region stripping contractors were paid by the yard for the removal of this overburden on the coal. At that time they had employed on the shovel possibly ten or eleven men. The stripping contractors in late years have been buying new equipment, more modern equipment, and by doing that they have displaced possibly eight or nine of those men, and because of that fact, they have entered into competition among themselves that has been more or less cut-throat competition. However, at this particular time, the stripping contractors in the anthracite region are not paid for overburden, but are paid by the car for coal received from that stripping. The cost of that coal has not been made any greater, in fact it has been reduced to the extent of possibly nine or ten employees. These stripping contractors when they start to strip a certain area, when they get enough overburden off that they reach the coal they have these bulldozers there and they use them to make runways down into the stripping for the trucks, and we who have seen that process know it is not going to add additional cost to the ton of coal to the consumer.

With that thought in mind, Mr. Speaker, I ask the Members on both sides of the House to oppose the motion to recommit this bill and, Mr. Speaker, I ask for a roll call.

Mr. BONEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose this motion to recommit. The only sad feature of this bit of legislation today is that it was not done twenty or twenty-five years ago. These strippings have a tendency to decrease the valuation of properties in the respective boroughs in which these stripping operations exist. They cause an unsightly nuisance. In the district I represent, we have had a number of stripping operations in the past and the debris and the dirt that has been excavated from these strippings has arisen in mounds almost as high as the ceiling of this hall. When the wind blows it creates a terrible dust nuisance; when it rains it has a tendency to wash dirt into the highways, and that there are not more serious accidents and fatalities is a miracle. They strip right out to the edge of the road and after they have finished their stripping work, they construct a small delicate wire fence. In some cases we have men go through them with automobiles, and some have been killed or seriously injured. In some cases stagnant water accumulates. Children have gone swimming in them and have been drowned. Therefore, I say, Mr. Speaker, this piece of legislation has been late in coming, but although late it is very good.

Before I arose I had a letter handed to me. It is postmarked Hawthorne, Pennsylvania. The letter says:

"There has been some strip coal mining done in the borough. It has left some water holes which are filled up to several feet deep with red sulphur water and in summer it is a breeding place for mosquitoes and gives off a bad smell. Also as these strip mines are above the town it is believed that the sulphur water is seeping down into the wells of the borough, in fact some are unfit for use now."

Under those circumstances, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I ask you to oppose this motion to recommit.

Mr. REGAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose the motion to recommit this bill on the ground that one bill was re-committed last night, House Bill 492, which was forgotten about by the members of the Anthracite Producers Association in consideration of House Bill 788. I feel sure if the Members of this House want to do a real service they will oppose the motion to recommit this bill, and pass this legislation.

I realize that the gentlemen who spoke before me have well described this situation and I sincerely hope the Members of this House will oppose this motion and pass this bill.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Boney.

Messrs. MAXWELL, LESKO and PETROSKY asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. JAMES. Mr. Speaker, House Bill 568 seeks to further amend the Act of June 1937, P. L. 1168. In order to discuss intelligently the bill that is presently before us, it seems desirable to go back a little into history to 1937 when the Labor Relations Act was enacted. We do not need to tax our memory very greatly to recall the great labor unrest that existed in the state of Pennsylvania just prior to the enactment of the Labor Relations law, and we do not need to tax our memories very much to recall how at that time the upsurge of strikes became of proportions that were really alarming. After the enactment of the Labor Relations law in 1937, there was a still further upsurge of strikes until the strikes in the state of Pennsylvania reached the highest point of all time, both with respect to the number of persons involved and with respect to the amount of damage done.

At that time it almost seemed that the enactment of the Labor Relations Law was a green light signal for certain labor leaders, certain labor groups to go ahead with ruthlessness of all sorts in strikes, and it was at that time the villainous sit-down strike found its highest expression. All of this was brought about, I believe, because in the Labor Relations Act of 1937 only one side of labor disputes and industrial disputes had been considered. There is no occasion at this time to quarrel or find fault with those who framed the act of 1937. It was a new thing and it provided for many contingencies in the relationship between labor and industry. But one thing it failed utterly to do, it failed to recognize that if labor disputes were to be solved permanently there must be two sides to the question of any labor dispute.

The law was written so that only the employers could possibly be guilty of unfair labor practices. Strikes were so vast and so damaging in the state of Pennsylvania that finally the outraged public arose and demanded some remedy. It was just about that time that the state of Pennsylvania entered into a great political campaign in which was involved the election of a Governor of this state. The Republican Party, recognizing the cry of the public for a remedy for the dangerous conditions that had been brought to this state by the incessant strikes and the loss of hundreds of millions of dollars, not alone in wage envelopes but in damage and absolute destruction of plant equipment and machinery.

The Republican Party in the 1938 campaign as a major plank in its platform put a provision that there should be equal justice to labor and capital alike. One of the first things that was done in the General Assembly immediately after it convened in 1939, was to offer for the consideration of this House an amendment to the act of 1937 which encompassed among other things, writing into the law a provision that labor could do wrong as well as capital. There was written into the law then a number of citations of unfair practices on the part of the employee.

Now, Mr. Speaker, after the enactment of the amendments to the 1937 law in 1939 there was a very definite and a very notable falling off of strikes. There was a falling off of labor disputes and it seemed for a time that the law as amended was a real remedy and would provide for peace between industry and labor. It seemed at that time that at last capital could come before the Labor Relations Board which was set up in the act of 1937 on an equal footing with labor and be heard. Prior to that time,—you will remember this well,—it was utterly impossible for an employer to secure even a modicum of justice, because the 1937 law allowed the Labor Relations Board no latitude whatever. In other words, it was often said that before a capitalist or an employer in industry could go before the Labor Relations Board, he already had two strikes called on him before he went to bat. That is an absolute fact and is borne out by the records between the years 1937 and 1939 in connection with the Labor Relations Board.

Now, Mr. Speaker, coming down to today we have before us House Bill 568. This bill does several things of minor importance, but it does one thing of very great importance and very great injustice. It does a thing that if this bill becomes law cannot help but fly back in the face of labor and those who sponsor it today, because there can never be any enduring understanding or peace between employer and employee until and unless both can stand on common ground with equal rights before the law. If this bill is enacted into law it will say in effect that it is no longer an unfair labor practice for an employee or a workman to "intimidate, restrain, or coerce any employee by threats of force or violence or harm to the person of said employee or the members of his family or his property for the purpose and with the intent of compelling such employee to join or to refrain from joining any labor organization or for the purpose or with the intent of influencing or affecting his selection of representatives for the purposes of collective bargaining."

Further, Mr. Speaker, if this bill is enacted into law, it will no longer be unfair labor practice in Pennsylvania on the part of an employee, "during a labor dispute to join, or become a part of a sit-down strike or without the employer's authorization to seize or hold or to damage or destroy the plant equipment, machinery, or other property of the employer with the intent of compelling the employer to accede to demands, conditions, and terms of employment including the demand for collective bargaining."

If this bill is enacted into law, it will no longer be unfair labor practice on the part of an employe, "to intimidate, restrain, or coerce any employe by threats of force or violence or harm to the person of said employe or the members of his family or his property for the purpose and with the intent of influencing or affecting his selection of representatives for the purposes of collective bargaining."

These are the amendments that were written into the Labor Relations Law in 1939 as a fulfillment of the pledge in the Republican party's platform that there should be equal rights for labor and for the employer before the law in Pennsylvania. That the amendments of 1939 were successful is somewhat admitted by a little statement that appeared in the Philadelphia Inquirer this morning, dated Harrisburg, Pa. and written by Mr. Gerson H. Lush and I read as follows from that article:

"Declaring that Pennsylvania has an 'outstanding record' in having less labor trouble than other industrial states, James L. McDevitt, President of the State Federation of Labor, today took issue with John B. Kelly, Philadelphia Democratic Chairman, for urging abolition of all strikes in the defense industries."

Mr. McDevitt was looking into the question and his statement is in the present tense. It is very definitely true that Pennsylvania, since the enactment of the 1939 amendments, has been fairly well on its way to a complete understanding between employer and employe. It is true we have had, we always will have, I presume, differences which may be hard to adjust. No one today on the side of the employer will for one moment state, if he is sincere and serious, that all of the troubles are the cause of labor's position on one or any number of things. It is recognized by employers generally today that a law such as we have in Pennsylvania, the Labor Relations Law, including the amendments of 1939, is a valuable and a worthwhile thing. Both labor and industry can come before the board that is set up under the law and can make equal claims and they receive equal justice.

I believe, Mr. Speaker, that the other minor amendments that are included in House Bill 568 are made for no other purpose than simply to strengthen the position that has been taken by the sponsors with respect to the elimination of all unfair labor practices on the part of the employe.

There is another provision that was in the law, which is now stricken out in this proposed bill, and that is the provision that no member of the Labor Relations Board "shall engage in any business or commercial enterprise of any kind nor be an officer in any labor organization or be engaged in any political activities."

In other words, Mr. Speaker, if this amendment should be enacted and become law, then a man serving as an umpire or as a referee between employer and employe could be a member of a labor organization, and therefore biased in favor of any labor organization or labor person who might have occasion to appear before him. Further, by eliminating the restrictions that such a person, being a member of the Labor Relations Board shall not be engaged in political activities, is a very definite menace to the integrity and to the services of the Labor Relations Board.

Mr. Speaker, I desire to still further call your attention to another provision which it seems to me to be wholly unwarranted and unnecessary and one that cannot be justified by any reasoning. It is provided in this amendment that "no findings shall be made on the basis of evidence relating to acts which occurred prior to the original passage of this act" shall be eliminated from the law. That means in effect any unfair labor practice committed by any employer at any time prior to the enactment of the original law in 1937, may even now be the subject of a complaint before the Labor Relations Board.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, particularly those of you who are sincerely and honestly interested in the forthrightness and in the square deal standing of labor, I ask you to vote against this bill.

MR. TURNER IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. LEONARD. Mr. Speaker, as one who has given his entire life in the interest of the worker through the facilities of the American labor movement, possibly I could stand here for quite a long time and relate some of the conditions with which the worker has been confronted because of the unfairness of the employer without any laws to back him up.

Do you remember the black lists put into effect by the employers of the state of Pennsylvania, when if you dared to open your mouth to complain of the conditions you had to endure, somebody carried that word back and the next day you were discharged. Now that would not have been so bad, but they put you on the black list and that ended you as far as getting employment in Pennsylvania was concerned. We of labor were hoping that the question that has been raised in opposition to this bill would have been allowed to die and forgotten about, but inasmuch as the argument has been made again in opposition to this bill, it is only natural for all of those who participated in the interests of the workers in the American labor movement to remind you, in case you might forget, that I am one who has suffered from these things. At one time I got on a street car going out of the heart of the city of Pittsburgh to answer a request from employes of the city of McKeesport. I was taken right off the street car by a city policeman and immediately returned back to the city of Pittsburgh without ever having opened my mouth.

We of labor have had many experiences, so many in fact that it is impossible for me to remember them all. I will give you another instance, two employees of another plant in the Pittsburgh district wanted to go into McKeesport to try and see if they could organize for the purpose of placing that organization in a position to improve its working conditions and increase its wages. They could not do that because of the competition which was so bad that the union employer could not possibly meet the prices that he offered. Two men working at their trade got on a street car in this particular town in Allegheny county and went into McKeesport. They were taken off the car by a city policeman and locked in the jail for twenty-four hours without allowing them to use a telephone.

Now, we are coming back to the capitol of Pennsylvania where we are now. At that time Pinchot was the Governor of the state of Pennsylvania. We immediately came over and made an appointment and saw the Governor. The Governor called the Attorney General in and after the complaint was laid before the Attorney General, he retired and came back later and announced that nothing could be done. Here was a one hundred per cent rank violation of the constitutional rights of the people, but the courts, the state, the city, nobody would do anything to see that these people got their rights.

Mr. Speaker, we of labor could hardly believe ourselves when the present administration took over in this country and immediately put into effect the N. I. R. A. A lot of men who gave their lives in the interests of the workers through the facilities of the American labor movement must have turned over in their graves when they found out that the government of this country, by its action told the worker if he so saw fit to affiliate himself with his fellow workers for the purpose of making himself a part of the same plane as the employer he might do so. The employer has always been one hundred per cent organized; he belongs to all the associations that have for their purpose the protection of the business in which he is interested, and they are always on the alert to see and to add to the strength of the different associations for their protection.

Why then should not organized labor do the same thing for the worker? The worker has been suffering long and hard in maintaining the association he established at the cost of his job and in many cases of the Coal and Iron Police clubs. We are very glad at this time there is an administration in charge of the affairs of our government that knows and believes that regardless of what your occupation in life is, you have the same privilege under the Constitution that governs our country.

Now, Mr. Speaker, we believe this amendment to the law will strengthen the position of the workers and help to pay back for the suffering that the workers have undergone prior to stable administration. I am asking the Members of this House, whether you are Republican or Democrat, to look at it from the standpoint of the constitutional rights of the citizens of the state of Pennsylvania and try by your vote to undo the black mark that lies against the state of Pennsylvania, throughout the length and breadth of this country because of the atrocities committed against the workers and allowed to exist by the officials in charge of our government in the past. The records of the labor movement are as high as the ceiling regarding the atrocities that were permitted by the employer to be practiced upon the workers and thereby deny them the right of organization and deny them the right to put themselves in a position on an equal plane with the employer in the matter of collective bargaining, what they shall sell their labor for and what the working conditions shall be. The employers' organization tells you what you are going to pay for their products. Why should not the worker be in the same position? When we leave this Assembly Hall this afternoon we will more than likely go to a restaurant or a hotel for our lunch. we will not tell that hotel keeper or that restaurant keeper what we are going to pay for our lunch. He will put a bill down in front of us and say, "Here is what the bill is." The employer does the same thing with his product, but up until 1933 the workers of the country did not have that right unless they were successful in maintaining their organization.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, we are only asking you to help increase the strength and the position of the worker especially now. I can not agree that the organized worker is deliberately doing things detrimental to the defense program by direct action. We have that condition in all classes of people that compose the one hundred thirty million people of the United States. We have some highly recognized bank officials and other high officials who are today, through their manipulation, resting nicely behind bars. Naturally, there are so many workers, some fifty-four million, I believe I put on the record once before, and that is a lot of people. Those are the people who turn the wheels of industry and make possible prosperity in this great country of ours. Those are the people that are preparing this country to resist attack from the outside; those are the people that you and I will look to when the emergency arises.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I ask you to support this bill.

THE SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. JAMES. Mr. Speaker, I find very little fault with the remarks of the last speaker. It is true, however, that he went back a considerable distance into history to recite a lot of things that have been done in the past to labor. I do not believe that anybody would stand in this House today and deny that wrongs were committed by capital against labor. Least of any in this House would I speak to defend or condone the activities of the so-called mine police and the hoodlums and ruffians who beat down the working man at a time when he was not strong enough to defend himself. I would like to say to this House that I too have followed the labor movement in this country. I am almost attempted to say, although it is none of your business, that I too suffered considerably in my younger days because of the unequal and unfair conditions that existed between capital and labor.

The one point in Mr. Leonard's remarks, however, to which I take exception is the point where he asked us to vote for this bill to be vindictive, to get back at capital, down through the corridors of time for all the injuries labor has suffered. Nothing we here can do will ever heal the wounds that were suffered by men long since dead in the cause of labor. We here today must look on this world as we find it; we must meet the conditions that immediately confront us, and the only way in which we can meet them is with an honest attitude, one toward the other. I maintain that it is wrong, that it is an incentive to further trouble between capital and labor to vote for any thing that is intended to be a clubbing back for a clubbing received in the past. Today we have entirely different conditions. Labor is no longer exploited by the employer, and if there was no other reason for making that statement, let me say to you that it is no longer profitable to exploit labor. That is a fact that appears on trial balances and on profit and loss statements in every industrial enterprise. Industry wants peace, and labor most certainly should want peace because in the end where there is no peace labor is the greater sufferer.

I believe, Mr. Speaker, that no good purpose can be served by saying in a law of Pennsylvania that one side of a great industrial question and of our great economic problem, can be guilty of unfair practices and that the other side cannot be guilty of unfair practices, and that Mr. Speaker, is what this amendment does.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, the bill now before the House is known as House Bill 568 and also known as the State Labor Relations Act of Pennsylvania. I cannot see why there should be so much fuss about the passage of this bill today because of the fact that it takes the law back to 1937 and makes it conform with the law now on the statute books which is known as the National Labor Relations Act.

I say, Mr. Speaker, in this time of trouble when the world is full of unrest, we should especially in labor legislation have uniformity of law between the states and the national government. That was one of my purposes for introducing this particular bill. We know, as Mr. Leonard has stated, that prior to 1937, and as the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. James has admitted, labor was kicked from post to post; it was kicked all over the lot. That was what brought about the National Labor Relations Act of 1933 and that is what brought about the State Labor Relations Act in 1937. I heard him make the statement here that because of the fact that labor has been punished that is no reason that the employer should be punished. There is no intent on the part of labor to punish industry itself or capital itself, whichever way you desire to put it. It is only the intention of labor to ask for a square deal in the passage of the National Labor Relations Act and the State Labor Relations Act. If the Republican Administration were so desirous of giving labor a break in legislation why did they not do it in the Session of 1933 and 1935? The Republican Administration has never been in favor of labor legislation. In 1939 they went as far as they dared go in amending the law so that it might be used against labor instead of being used to protect labor.

Mr. Speaker, I want to say that in 1939 they gave the employer the right to petition for an election. Now, that is one of the most comical controversial things that can ever be done in labor legislation, especially where anybody who knows anything about labor is concerned. An employer who thought that organizers were going to come into his plant to organize it immediately set up his propaganda machine and immediately petitioned the Labor Relations Board for an election before the organizers had an opportunity to organize the plant. The amendment there permitted them to operate a company union, which is contrary to the National Labor Relations Act. The State Labor Relations Act had no effect on any corporations engaged in intra-state commerce; it only had an effect upon the corporations who were operating in inter-state commerce. Of course, those are the ones they desire to protect.

I want to say that prior to 1937, being a coal miner, I fought against that type of legislation which was granted to the working people of Pennsylvania by the Republican Party. Down on the picket line in some companies in the coal mining industry in the bituminous fields we were not even permitted to be on the state highways to picket. We were not free American Citizens. We were not given the privileges granted to us by the Constitution of the United States and by the Constitution of Pennsylvania. We had no protection whatsoever, and in fact labor was not liberated until after the passage of the NIRA and the National Labor Relations Act became a law.

I might say that the gentleman said that today there is a good relationship between industry and labor. He said that industry today does not care to exploit labor. I ask him what Henry Ford has been doing during the last four years when he stated all over the country that his employes did not want a union. He fought the union through the courts. He said, "My employees do not want a union." But finally when it came to the end the National Labor Relations Board and the Supreme Court of the United States said there must be an election held and it is now history as to what happened. Did his employees uphold him in the statements he made? The same thing will soon happen in the Bethlehem Steel Corporation of Pennsylvania, which corporation just a few weeks ago had the State Police down there trying to stop the men from carrying on picketing at the plant, where they are asking for collective bargaining which was denied by the corporation. It was defying the National Labor Relations Board and the Supreme Court of the United States. But they come into these legislative halls to protect the corporations and then stand before the public saying that the employers of the United States of America do not care to exploit labor. They only care to take from labor everything they can take from them. The only way we have to combat these people is not as individuals but collectively.

I might say for the information of the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. James, that labor does not really want a strike and labor only uses it as a last resort. Of course, we have had some instances when a situation has gotten out of control, but they are very rare, and our labor leaders have been chastized by their officials for having acted without being authorized to do so. I might say to you that in the amendment offered in 1939 permission was not going to be granted to any member of organized labor or any officer of organized labor affiliated with the union at that time to be a member of the State Labor Relations Board. I ask you, would that be a Labor Board without labor being represented on that Board?

I might also say for the information of the gentleman from Delaware that the politicians were represented because a politician took the place of our own District president, Pat Fagan, when he was left off the Board in 1939. The gentleman from Delaware said it would be non-political. I say further that the Act of 1933 and everything that has been done since that time, insofar as the National Labor Relations Board Act is concerned, has kept closely affiliated with labor and it has also taken care of industry insofar as perfect fairness is concerned. I ask the gentleman from Delaware right now if the Mediation Board put into effect by the President of the United States is not doing a good job in helping settle strikes? In the Act of 1939 in Pennsylvania they did not want labor to be represented on the Board, but now the President of the United States in setting up his Mediation Board has named members of organized labor on those boards in order that they might assume responsibility for the activities of organized labor.

I might say further in all nations where labor has been ignored, where labor has been trampled into the dirt in this turmoil that is going on today, those nations have fallen one after another. I ask you to look around this world today and you will find in no place other than England, where labor has been recognized and where labor has a voice in the government of England and the British Empire, is labor better appreciated. Labor in the United States of America is willing to take its place, labor is willing to fight to the last ditch to preserve this democracy of ours, because we all know that although in our state Legislature we have had some reactionary measures passed, in spite of that the federal government has protected labor, but despite all of that labor will do everything in its power to preserve this democracy of ours.

In 1917, in the last World War, when we did not have any of these labor laws on our books, labor felt the same way about it because they were living in hopes. I am glad to stand before this microphone and say that the union with which I am affiliated has today the largest service flag of any organization in the United States of America. That was in effect in 1917 and in 1918. This service flag has eighty six thousand stars on it, and they were not back from the lines twenty-five miles but they were out in the infantry battling to save this democracy. They appreciate all our gifts and the advantages of democracy. I say, if you will only listen to labor, if you will only go along with labor, that labor will save this nation in spite of Henry Ford and the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and a few of the other controlled organizations. They are the ones who are trying to retard the program, they are hiding behind the national defense program to create a feeling against organized labor in order that they might gain their point. I ask you to open your eyes and place on the statute books laws that encourage the people, the moral fiber of the nation and help preserve our democracy.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I rise at this time in support of the measure that is before this body for its consideration because I feel that I would be lax in my duty if I would not point out to the membership a brief history concerning labor legislation and the crippling amendments that have been placed upon the statute books by the Republican administration in 1939.

Mr. Speaker, I well recall that throughout the campaign of 1938 for the governorship of the state of Pennsylvania the different remarks that were placed in the record by the now Governor of the state of Pennsylvania, in stating to the people of the Commonwealth that he would burn the labor legislation that existed upon the record books. I say that in doing this he has been one great force in retarding the national defense program and has added greatly in retarding those things, the completion of which we cherish. I say, Mr. Speaker, in the history of these acts there should be included along with the words of my good friends and colleague; the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Williams, the fact that we can only be consistent in aiding that program by aligning our legislation that we place upon the statute books to conform with that of the national government.

May I further state, Mr. Speaker, and may I also answer the gentleman on the other side of the House and endeavor to present my views of the conditions that confront each of us? It is my contention that in every phase of endeavor in this great United States of ours we find a few ambitious, greedy and vengeful instigators of dissension; working toward an end to create disorder in the schedule of a program sponsored by the great patriot and leader, Franklin Delano Roosevelt. The roots of discontent that are planted in the minds of our poorer people.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is not speaking on the bill.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will confine his remarks to the bill.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I am endeavoring to place before the membership of the House the real necessity of returning the State Labor Relations Act to the form in which we are endeavoring to put it by removing the amendments inserted in the act of 1939, and placing it in the status that it was in 1937. I will repeat, Mr. Speaker, the roots of discontent that are planted in the minds of our poorer people, the imprint of hatred stamped on the heart of the laborer, the falsification of fact forced upon our white collar peoples, the disgusting impositions upon our small business, the greed and lust for power of our industrialists, and the high handed tactics of the money changers in this nation, all should be condemned with a sincerity of purpose toward a common goal, and that is a more secure America for all Americans.

Mr. Speaker, I say to you that we can only have a program of national defense through the efforts, through the co-ordinated efforts, of both the employer and employee. The crippling amendments to the 1937 State Labor Relations Act were placed upon the statute books of this Commonwealth by the membership on the other side of the House, which enabled that process to come about.

Therefore, I say to you, Mr. Speaker, in order to get this greater cooperation, in order that we may be consistent with the national legislation that is on the statute books, in order that we may greatly aid in the greatest of all projects that is facing the people at this time, I ask the membership of this House to vote back the 1937 status of the State Labor Relations Act and help us to make a more secure America for those true, righteous and loyal citizens, who comprise the working people of this Commonwealth and this nation, and to give them the rights that have been guaranteed to them under the Constitution.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. James.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JAMES. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. James, if it is not a fact that House Bill 568, Printer's No. 683, concerns itself with labor practices and unfair labor practices?

Mr. JAMES. I should say that it does, yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BROWN. Does the gentleman agree, Mr. Speaker, with the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States that has held that sit-down strikes do not constitute unfair labor practices?

Mr. JAMES. No, I do not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BROWN. I want to thank the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. James.

Mr. Speaker, I simply wanted to ask those two questions. I think we have gone far afield in the discussion of the bill. No one in the House would oppose any bill that would give any consideration at all to sit-down strikes more than I would. However, it is my impression that this matter should never have been placed into this bill in the original amendments inserted in 1939. The Supreme Court has held that sit-down strikes do not constitute unfair labor practice. Sit-down strikes are a crime. Sit-down strikes, the Supreme Court has said in the Fansteel Case, are simply in the nature of a conversion of goods and are an unfair labor act. The question here is labor practice and unfair labor practice. It seems to me we can not make an unfair labor practice out of a thing that has already been stated by the Supreme Court is a crime. It had no purpose in the act originally; it has no purpose in the act now, and I want to say for the benefit of those who might be disturbed and feel that they are voting for a sit-down strike because this deals with unfair labor practice, that sit-down strikes do not come under the heading of labor practice or unfair labor practice.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. James, stated that before the amendments placed in the Labor Relations Act of Pennsylvania by the Republicans in 1939, the employer had two strikes called on him before going before the Labor Board. I want to add that after the Republicans got through in 1939 the employee did not have a bat to use when he was called to bat.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Delaware during his debate stated that in 1938 there was sent to the Legislature in Harrisburg a Republican majority because of the act of 1937 causing disturbances. I cannot agree with him on that particular point.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. JAMES. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. JAMES. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is mis-stating me deliberately and grossly.

The SPEAKER. If the gentleman wishes to quote a member he should quote him exactly.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, the inference has been left during the debate on this bill that a Republican majority was sent to Harrisburg by the Act of 1937, because of labor disputes that were in effect during that period. If that be the case then I say that in 1940 there was a Democratic House returned to Harrisburg by the activities of the House in 1939.

Furthermore, I might say that the people whom they are desiring to protect by trying to defeat this bill are persons who have been unfair to labor and who today are unfair to labor. I might mention that they are not working and acting in the best interests of democracy.

I mentioned that the Henry Ford Company some time ago had an opportunity to build six thousand airplane motors in order that democracy might be preserved. He was in a position that he could build them a lot quicker than anybody else. There wasn't enough profit in those orders for the six thousand airplane motors, with the result that he refused to accept the orders. I might say that the same thing is true of other corporations; they are only hiding behind a smoke screen and are acting for the defeat of this particular bill in order that they might delay and retard the organization of labor further.

Mr. Speaker, I ask the Members of the House again to vote "aye" on this particular bill.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, no one can get up here and tell any member of this House anything in connection with this bill. I am not going to stand here and go back into history. I am simply going to ask all the Members of this House to vote "Aye" on this bill because it is a good bill and one that should not have been wrecked in the 1939 session.

(During the calling of the roll).

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of information.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, having discovered an error in the bill, would it be in order to make a motion to place the bill on the postponed calendar?

The SPEAKER. A motion can only be made at this time by unanimous consent.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent of the House to make a motion.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent for the making of a motion to place the bill on the postponed calendar? Is there objection? The Chair hears none and consent is granted.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

SENATE MESSAGE

APPOINTMENT OF CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ON HOUSE BILL No. 616

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has insisted upon its amendments, non-concurred in by the House of Representatives, to House Bill No. 616 entitled:

An Act to amend section seven of the act approved the thirty-first day of March one thousand eight hundred and sixty (P. L. 427) entitled "An act to Consolidate Revise and Amend the Laws of this Commonwealth relating to Penal Proceedings and Pleadings" providing for the fixing of bail and the admission to bail by magistrates committing magistrates justices of the peace or aldermen and the fixing of bail by coroners in certain cases involving involuntary manslaughter

And has appointed Messrs. Becker, H. I. Wilson and Haluska a committee of conference to confer with a similar committee of the House of Representatives (already appointed) on the subject of the differences existing between the two houses in relation to said bill.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. TROUT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, it is rather unfair to take advantage of a man who is not present to make an accusation which either he or his family might resent. For many years I was a reader of the "North American" a Philadelphia newspaper, and when that paper discontinued publication I hung my fortunes on the "Philadelphia Inquirer" and I have been reading it ever since. Periodically I read a column written by John Cummings and by accident he does say some rather funny things and periodically gets a joke that might be considered good, but in his serious moments he casts reflection upon some people as was illustrated here last week on the floor of the House when he ruled out the administrative position of the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, and seriously injured his feelings. But lately he has taken opportunity to cast reflections upon the actions of the Members of the House and Senate while in Harrisburg, and even has gone so far as to say that because of lady lobbyists the Session has been continued beyond what it probably would have been.

In going through some papers on the floor at my desk just a little while ago I happened to pick up a letter which was addressed to Mrs. John Cummings, and after reading it I thought it should be submitted to the House for the benefit of the record, and by your permission, Mr. Speaker, I should like to read it. It is addressed to Mrs.

John M. Cummings, 3324 Diamond Street, Philadelphia, Penna. and reads as follows:

"Dear Mrs. Cummings:

"Newspaper columnists, we are led to believe, write their columns through personal experience and we believe that the columns of Mr. Cummings on the doings at Harrisburg are based on facts gathered by actual experience.

"If ever a man has been missed at Harrisburg, by the beautiful lady lobbyists and the blonde sirens at the Hotel Bolton, that man is the celebrated John M. Cummings, a past master at entertaining the ladies at Harrisburg. So, it was no surprise to some of the members of the House, who know of Mr. Cummings' dark and evil past, to see that he is again living over his many years in the night life of Harrisburg. When a man becomes old, he loves to relive those days when he was the talk of the boulevard cafes.

"I can remember my first session in Harrisburg, and my first visit to one of Harrisburg's night clubs. There was the celebrated Mr. Cummings sitting at a ring-side table, entertaining, with wit and story, all the female lobbyists of the House, for remember, female lobbyist must have the proper newspaper publicity to secure the action they require on special legislation. It was to that great dean of newspaper writers, Mr. Cummings, that these female lobbyists flocked to in great numbers, and I might add, it was only this week that I learned that Mr. Cummings is not a bachelor.

"Mrs. Cummings, on behalf of the legislators of Pennsylvania, I want to compliment you on not permitting your spouse to continue his playing around at Harrisburg, and for your ability to keep him close at home. We hope that you have read both of his columns and will read between the lines that he is merely again living over his many sessions in the State Capitol. He certainly is a man of experience."

BASEBALL CHALLENGE

The SPEAKER. The Speaker has been asked on behalf of the Democratic Members to challenge the Republican Members to a game of softball, the Republican floor leader to pick out a captain. For information of the Members Democratic Members asked the Speaker to play with them but the Speaker refused, saying it is a "sissy" game.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. SKALE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, about a month ago I received a request from a group of newly naturalized citizens who were coming for a visit to the Capitol. They came to Harrisburg this afternoon but unfortunately they were delayed because of an accident enroute to Harrisburg. They were sitting up in the gallery and could not stay very long.

Mr. Speaker, I ask permission of the House to offer my few brief remarks of welcome to these visitors and I ask consent of the House to have them spread on the record.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the Journal of the House.

Mr. SKALE. Mr. Speaker, it is with a deep sense of honor and pride that I extend on behalf of the Members of this House a sincere welcome to the visitors from Philadelphia. To you people who have felt the love and appreciation of this land, who have learned to enjoy its privileges, its hopes and responsibilities and who are glad to say "I am an American"—I welcome you.

You now have an opportunity of seeing where and how representative government in this Commonwealth operates. Those of you who have already become citizens will soon enjoy the opportunity of selecting people to represent you in this body and other governmental bodies.

I am sure that it is with a sense of pride and feeling that you can now say "I am a citizen of the United States", because as a citizen of the United States you have certain responsibilities to your country. You have recently taken an oath of allegiance to the United States—it is not an allegiance to any one person, unless it be to God—not an allegiance to those who temporarily represent this great government. You have taken an oath of allegiance to a great ideal—to a great body of principles—to a great hope of the human race and while you may have come from many countries, you come with a purpose of leaving all other countries behind you, bringing what is best of their spirit, but not looking over your shoulders and seeking to perpetuate what you intended to leave behind in them.

America was created to unite mankind by those passions which lift and not by those passions which separate and debase. Before you came to this country you dreamed dreams of what America was to be and I hope you brought the dreams with you. No man who does not see visions will ever realize any high hope or undertake any high enterprise. Just because you brought dreams with you, America is more likely to realize dreams such as you brought. You are enriching us if you came expecting us to be better than we are.

About a year ago, President Roosevelt sent a message to new citizens and reminded them of their duty—"always to think first of America and at the same time to think in terms of humanity."

We in the United States, are given to the doctrine of human equality. We refuse to be led by a king, we believe in equality before the law. Education became universal for the first time in the history of the world. We declared that all men had the right to happiness—to pursue it. The state was made for the man—not man for the state. And while mistakes have been made, our country has grown and has had a good life. We have created and controlled our own Legislatures, our own schools. We have built and worshipped in our own religious institutions. We have a free press and we speak when we want and say what we want. JUSTICE pervades our courts and the same law applies to all men. We have not taught our children the hatred of other races—we have not taught our young men the goose step—we have not taught our people to raise their hands in a salute of fear—we have respected individual freedom.

To the new citizens, I say that we face a great issue—an issue between worlds which no nation can escape. The aggressor is attacking not only with planes and tanks, but with fear and propaganda. In order that the issue may not be confused, we must—new and old citizens alike, beware of propaganda which attempts to destroy the history of Democracy in America.

You, new citizens, and you who are on your way to citizenship can bring to your new responsibilities a persuasive insistence that we face this great issue as fellow Americans—not as Democrats or Republicans, but as Americans. If we do not, then we will play into the hands of those who are attempting to disorganize and confuse us—who are attempting to confuse the real issue before us.

There must be the single purpose of living as we choose to live; the determination to hold steadily the faith in our own ideals. Ideals like ideas are curious things. They work only if you do. America is a nation of nations, united in the belief and love for the democratic way of living, with its respect for and guarantee to the individual citizen.

You new citizens bring to us new hopes and new dreams and a fresh realization in this grave time in the history of the world of "what privileges and safeties of citizenship" mean to us who are still free men and women.

It is our avowed purpose to stand shoulder to shoulder for the preservation of our ideals and free American government.

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, June 4, 1941.

The Senate met at 2:00 o'clock, p. m., E. S. T.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS, offered the following prayer:

Our blessed God, how fitting it is for these Thy servants placed in positions of great public trust and responsibility to be found in prayer with Thee before beginning the work of another legislative day! And how wonderful and exceedingly helpful these few minutes may become to us all as we ask thy holy presence in our minds and hearts as we struggle with the many vexatious problems confronting us! May we truly seek Thee in spirit and truth. Clothe us with humility and steep us in penitence for we have gone far afield from doing Thy will.

Keep us from presumptuous sins. Let them not have dominion over us. Cleanse Thou our hearts from secret sins and renew right spirits within us. Then shall we be glad and rejoice in Thee all day long. Then will our burdens be lightened and our hearts find peace.

And, Father, may our prayers never cease to ascend unto Thee nor Thy blessing to descend upon us for we are Thy creatures even though disordered at times. Forgive us of our sins and, in sequence, place in our hearts the sweet consciousness of forgiven sin through Jesus Christ, Our Lord, Who liveth and reigneth with Thee and the Holy Ghost, ever one God, world without end. Amen.

Resolved, That the members of the Senate express their felicitations to the Honorable M. Harvey Taylor, Senator from Dauphin County, on this, his natal day; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Senator Taylor with the further thought that

In the Senate, May 27, 1941.

Whereas, Nationally organized milk and dairy products interests have proclaimed the month of June, 1941—the first to thirtieth, inclusive—as JUNE DAIRY MONTH; and

Whereas, This event is designed to increase the consumption of milk and dairy products during the period of peak production and thereby decrease the milk surplus that depresses the milk markets, such surplus milk adversely affecting the dairy farmer's cash income; and

Whereas, Pennsylvania is a leader in the dollar value of milk produced annually; and

Whereas, Milk purchased from dairy farms in Pennsylvania's sixty-seven counties exceeds $100,000,000 annually, the largest single cash farm income received by the farmer; and

Whereas, There are more than 125,000 farmers owning cattle herds producing milk in every one of Pennsylvania's sixty-seven counties; and

Whereas, Milk manufacturers and distributors, grocery, drug and variety stores, restaurant and hotel operators, and various other vendors in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania have organized for the purpose of cooperating with milk producing farmers in this intensive JUNE DAIRY MONTH Campaign; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the State Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania endorses JUNE DAIRY MONTH and calls upon the consumers of the State to help Pennsylvania's milk producing farmers materially increase their market for milk and dairy products during JUNE DAIRY MONTH.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I now call up Senate Resolution, Serial No. 55, which was reported from Committee on Agriculture, and move its immediate adoption.

The motion was agreed to.

The Resolution was read as follows:

In the Senate, May 27, 1941.

Whereas, Nationally organized milk and dairy products interests have proclaimed the month of June, 1941—the first to thirtieth, inclusive—as JUNE DAIRY MONTH; and

Whereas, This event is designed to increase the consumption of milk and dairy products during the period of peak production and thereby decrease the milk surplus that depresses the milk markets, such surplus milk adversely affecting the dairy farmer's cash income; and

Whereas, Milk purchased from dairy farms in Pennsylvania's sixty-seven counties exceeds $100,000,000 annually, the largest single cash farm income received by the farmer; and

Whereas, There are more than 125,000 farmers owning cattle herds producing milk in every one of Pennsylvania's sixty-seven counties; and

Whereas, Milk manufacturers and distributors, grocery, drug and variety stores, restaurant and hotel operators, and various other vendors in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania have organized for the purpose of cooperating with milk producing farmers in this intensive JUNE DAIRY MONTH Campaign; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the State Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania endorses JUNE DAIRY MONTH and calls upon the consumers of the State to help Pennsylvania's milk producing farmers materially increase their market for milk and dairy products during JUNE DAIRY MONTH.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I desire to make a brief statement.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will proceed.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I ask permission to have spread in the Legislative Journal a statement concerning The Moore Institute of Art, Science and Industry.

The PRESIDENT. If there is no objection the statement of the gentleman from Philadelphia will be spread in the Journal.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President and Members of the Senate:

Several months ago, during the placid days of this session, Senator Coleman of Lackawanna delivered a stirring and memorable address wherein he justly criticized certain passages from a book entitled "Pennsylvania—A Guide To the Keystone State", compiled and edited by Pennsylvanias Writers' Project under the auspices of WPA and published by Oxford University Press. These passages, in condensing to capsulesize the description of Scranton—Pennsylvania's coal-metropolis—utterly failed to include therein the descriptive essentials and salients, thus underestimating the role of a great Pennsylvania city.

I have recently undertaken a careful perusal and study of that section of the WPA "opus" that deals with Philadelphia generally, and its seats of culture in particular. Fully cognizant of the fact that during the closing days of this session, each legislative minute is precious, I am constrained to compress my remarks to a general statement that also in the case of Philadelphia I have detected several flagrant omissions in the description of the role of some of our great centers of learning in the advancement of Pennsylvania.

The case of the Moore Institute of Art, Science and Industry, located in the City of Philadelphia at Broad and Master Streets, is the most illustrative example. Thus, on page 117 the "Guide" states, inter alia: "—The Philadelphia School of Design For Women, founded in 1844 and known as the Moore Institute of Art, Science and Industry (1844) opened in Philadelphia during a period of marked material development." And further on Page 289 it states as follows: "78. The Moore Institute of Art, Science and Industry, S. W. Corner Broad and Master Streets, was known as the Philadelphia School of Design For Women from 1844, when it was founded, until 1932, when it was merged with the Moore Institute, founded in 1921 in accordance with the terms of the will of the late Joseph Moore, Jr. The oldest school of Applied Art for Women in the United States, it occupies a building of which one part was the home of Edwin Forrest, the famous Shakespearean actor. Large classrooms and studios have been added. A five-year course in technical and industrial design, interior decorating, textiles, and period furniture leads to the Bachelor of Fine Arts degree."

These two passages, in my opinion, have flagrantly omitted the most essential descriptive feature that would be of interest to Pennsylvanians: namely, the role of the institution in the cultural life of the Keystone State, and above all, the service rendered by this great School to our citizenry.

The School is exclusively for girls and women, since the management believes that in the studies of design, better results can be obtained without co-education.

To accommodate pupils coming from outside of Philadelphia, the School evolved a perfect dormitory system which retains a warm atmosphere of home-life. The Residence Houses for out-of-town students are located on the south side of Philadelphia's classic Logan Circle, facing the Parkway, the main library of Philadelphia, and in close proximity to the Franklin Memorial, the Academy of Natural Sciences, Rodin Museum and the Philadelphia Museum of Art. I am sure that many of my colleagues who from time to time avail themselves of the generous cooperation of the authorities of the Moore Institute that enables them to send thereto a gifted constituent, will attest to the great service of this dormitory system, which is second to none and was never excelled in any other institution in the United States.

Completing now its 96th year, the Moore Institute offered during the 1940-1941 academic year multi-faceted courses in Design, Fashion Arts, Interior Decoration, Jewelry, Puppetry, Decorative Design and Crafts and Weave Formation and Jacquard Drafting. In addition thereto, the Moore Institute offered a comprehensive and complex course for the preparation of Art teachers in public and private schools and colleges. The curriculum is three-fold: First, the development of knowledge and skill in Design, Fine Arts, and Crafts; Second, academic studies, including Science, Psychology and Education, History and English, which supplement the Art studies throughout the course, as do also Methods of Teaching and practice in the public school.

It was because the "Guide" failed to mention the great service rendered by this fine seat of culture in shaping the artistic advancement of Pennsylvania that I deemed it to be my duty to rise this morning and voice this brief criticism.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, And the amendments made having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. REED. Mr. President and members of the Senate, this bill is one of the outstanding measures of interest to the people of Pennsylvania at this session. I believe, as a member of the Committee on Highways to which this bill was assigned, that I received several hundred communications with reference to this bill. Those letters and telegrams and other written communications came from all parts of the state and from all walks of life and I believe on account of this high interest that something should be said on this piece of legislation. I have no interest in this bill other than it affects the general welfare of the people of Pennsylvania. I am not interested as an attorney for any trucking corporation or any railroad corporation or any other corporation that is directly interested in this proposed legislation.

In the committee and out I have listened attentively to all arguments bearing upon this bill. In our committee we had men of prominence discussing this bill; we had men from the Highway Department to give their views on this bill; we had men representing the big trucking industry give their views on this bill, and in all of this discussion I listened with an open mind, trying to decide what would be for the best interest of all the people of Pennsylvania.

I have made that decision and at this time I want to submit my views to this body for its consideration.

Now, Mr. President, as was stated in the committee at the time of the hearing, Pennsylvania has a large highway system. I believe it was stated that Pennsylvania has something like forty thousand miles of road improved in either the primary system or in the secondary system, and in addition to that we have thousands of miles of road in Pennsylvania that are not improved at all. We have highways running into the various farming districts of this great Commonwealth; we have highways running into many of our small industrial centers of this Commonwealth. I think sometime ago I was told by one of the men in the department that we have eight thousand five hundred miles of unimproved roads in Pennsylvania at this time. So you can see how large the highway system in Pennsylvania is.

That part of the highway system that is improved runs into all parts of the state. That improvement began twenty years or more ago, and as we consider this measure we must also consider the highway system that belongs to the people of this great Commonwealth at the same time.

This bill has to do with our highway system. It proposes to increase the weight both on the axle and otherwise. We have been told by men high up in our Pennsylvania highway system that this should not be done, and in the transcript of testimony you will find the reasons why those men say it should not be done. They claim that our highway system will not stand the passage of these heavy trucks over our highway system.

They gave reasons for their views. Mr. Frame said that our highway system is such that it needs now in many places reinforcement and improvement. He stated how much money it would take to improve our highway system, and we should consider this when we consider this measure.

Now, Mr. President, if our highway system, as the Highway Department claims, is not of sufficient strength to carry these additional loads, then that should be one of the factors in our consideration when we pass upon the worth of this bill.

It has been argued very strenuously by those who favor this bill that we need this additional weight on our trucks in order to help national defense. Now, is that the real reason for the introduction of this measure? Let us analyze that proposition for a moment. Most of us know the sizes of the trucks that operate over our highway system today. Now, suppose you increase the carrying weight to forty-two thousand pounds, as this bill proposes. What effect will that have on our highway system in a time of defense? What we want to do in time of defense, as every man who served in the army knows, is to move our freight or our men or whatever loads we care to carry over the highway system promptly. Suppose we take the views of the Highway Department, and I believe they are supreme in their sphere, that our highway system will not carry this additional weight. Then suppose we begin to move heavy trucks over our highway system for the purpose of defense and the highways break down. I say to you members of the Senate that this will create a greater danger, a greater contingency than what we have today. Suppose in a time of need we want to move heavy trucks over the highway system and those trucks are so large they will break it down; you will have right there and then a stagnation in the movement and you will get a worse condition than you have today, so I doubt very much whether that argument will stand the acid test.

What we want in time of war is highways over which you can move rapidly, and I say I would sooner see smaller trucks and more of them moving over our highways rapidly and promptly reaching their destination in due time than to have a few large trucks going over our highway system and then when halfway to their destination, on account of weight and on account of the highway, break down and stop the traffic at that point.

It has been argued that this bill will help labor. I have turned that proposition over in my mind for more than a week. I have always believed in the Democratic processes of government; I have always believed that the little man should have his opportunity; should have his day; should have his year. I have always believed that the little business man should have his opportunity as well, and I have not changed my views on that phase of politics down to the present time. I still believe that the little trucker has the same right on our highways as does the big man who starts a fleet of trucks from California and runs them into the metropolitan city of New York.

If we permit a few large truckers or a few trucking industries to corral a major portion of the business of the nation and of the state, then you are going to put out of business those little truckers and those little truck owners, and I say to those who believe in the Democratic principles of Jefferson that is directly against his views. I repeat that every man, whether in business or not, whether big or little, has the same right under our government as the other fellow.

Now, Mr. President and members of the Senate, suppose our highway system does break down under this increased weight, as the Department of Highways says it will. Who is going to repair those highways? Who builded those highways in the beginning? Was it the large trucking industry from Chicago or Sacramento, California or Texas or some other state I say to you that the people of Pennsylvania builded those highways; I say to you it was not the big trucking industries that built our fine highways in Pennsylvania.

Statistics show that the big trucking industry only involves two per cent of the industry. I read in an editorial from a paper up in Erie that this industry only pays two and eight-tenths per cent of the revenue that goes into this line of activity.

Now, Mr. President and members of this Senate, if our highway system breaks down the people will have to pay for its repair, the people will have to pay for its maintenance. Should we then, with our highway system in that condition, grant greater powers to a few large trucking industries that want to use our highways for their own selfish purposes. The people built those highways in order that all the people could use them. It was never the intention of the early founders of our highway system to grant to any corporation or any company the right to use those highways to the injury of others for their own selfish purposes and I say to you at this time, even with the size and the weight of the trucks that we have today, that certain big trucking industries are using our highways, are using the people's highways, for their own selfish purposes and to the injury of many other people of our state who are entitled to and do travel over those highways.

As the gentleman from Blair, Senator Mallery, stated last night, get in behind a truck today as it goes up one of our hills and sometimes there will be fifteen or twenty cars ahead of you and you can determine without using your eyes what is tying up that traffic; you know from experience what is tying up that traffic, it is some big van ahead, maybe from California or Illinois, from Iowa or Texas, going through to the coast with a load of freight. Our highway system was never contemplated and was never made for this kind of use. Our people never contributed their money in order that certain commercial interests might utilize our main highways for their own selfish purposes.

If we analyze the testimony of Mr. Frame of the Highway Department or Mr. Hughes of the Highway Department, we must come to this conclusion, that this increased weight should not be permitted because it will break down our highways. If it breaks down our highways then they must be repaired, and if they are to be repaired that takes money and who is going to pay for that improvement. There is only one answer. It is the people of Pennsylvania and those are the people that we should be interested in today.

The sentiment against this bill comes from all over the state, comes from all walks of life. I have gotten communications here from borough councils urging me to vote against this bill, to work against this bill in order that their streets might be protected. I have received communications from cities urging me to vote against this bill and to work against this bill in order that they might protect the streets and highways of their municipipalities. I have received communications from farmers urging that I work against this bill in order that the welfare of the people might be preserved. I have received letters even from Chambers of Commerce urging me to vote against this bill and to work against this bill for the best interests of the Commonwealth. I have received communications from automobile clubs of the state urging that I work against this bill for the good of the common cause. From up in Reverend Ruth's district I received a letter urging me to work against this bill, and in that letter it was stated that twenty some thousand members of that organization were against the passage of this bill.

Now then, if that is the sentiment in Pennsylvania who is back of this bill? Who wants this bill? Can anyone tell me? If you can not I will tell you. It is a small trucking industry, that part of the trucking industry that operates big trucks, that operates fleets of big trucks; that is the industry that is sponsoring this bill. If it were not big that bill would not be on our desks today. The fact that that bill is in the Senate today is proof positive that the interests that are back of this bill are strong and powerful. Read the record of the discussion of this bill when it was in the House of Representatives. Read your newspaper accounts of how that bill passed through the House of Representatives. Read your newspapers on how it was urged upon the members of this Senate for passage in this body, and then you will come to the conclusion that those who are back of this bill are a powerful group, a powerful, well organized body or organization, and just in the last few days it was very apparent that the power back of this bill was immense.

I have been in this Senate for several years but never in my life in this Senate have I seen so many people in this body urging the passage of this bill. I have never seen—in the vernacular of politics—so many lobbyists sailing in and out of this Senate as I have during the time this bill has been in this Senate for consideration. There is no sound argument in favor of the passage of this bill.

There is no argument that it will affect the welfare of all the people of Pennsylvania, in supporting this measure. It will take from the railroad men much employment if you permit the passage of this bill, because two years hence the proponents of this bill will be back here for more and later on they will be back for more, a further extension of the provisions of this act.

Now, Mr. President and members of the Senate, I want to read a couple of short articles bearing on the nature of this piece of legislation. First I want to read an article from the Harrisburg Patriot of May 12, 1941. It is headed "Mysteries Back of 'Box Car Bill.'" In part that editorial is as follows:

HARRISBURG PATRIOT

May 12th 1941

The amazing thing is that there should be even a faint prospect that such legislation should be approved by representatives of the people. It has been opposed almost universally by the newspapers, reflecting public sentiment in their territories. But the most significant opposition, positive and unequivocal, comes from State Highway Department officials. These have testified against the bill. They have asserted that the State's roads were not constructed to meet such ponderous loads. They have declared that bridges will collapse under the heavier truck burdens.

Does such testimony mean nothing to the legislators? Who in the Commonwealth is better qualified to pass judgment on roads and bridges? How can legislators justify their indifference to the plain verdict of highway experts that such legislation, if enacted, will mean such an expenditure of public funds to rebuild roads and bridges as to imperil the whole highway building program?

In the face of all this, it is all the more amazing that a bill which will wreck the highway system, can clear one legislative hurdle and proceed toward another one. There have been some powerful lobbies on Capitol Hill, but they look tame compared with the forces back of the so-called "box car" bill. Surely if a lobby can mesmerize legislators in such fashion, only the Governor's veto pen can save the roads for the overwhelming majority of their users.

There is another short article along the same lines from the Sunbury Daily Item of May 2, 1941, which is headed "These Lobbyists." It reads as follows:

SUNBURY DAILY ITEM

THESE LOBBYISTS.

Indications that an investigation will be made of the lobbying efforts of Pennsylvania motor truckers' organizations in behalf of the so-called "box-car" truck bill reflect a decidedly tardy realization in Harrisburg that high pressure tactics in behalf of legislative proposals should be abolished or drastically curbed.

The motor truck operators, it has been alleged, have spent a huge sum in entertaining the state's lawmakers and in various other efforts to win favor for a bill which has created a storm of protest that, unfortunately, is not so concisely concentrated, or represented or financed as is the truck lobby. This measure would increase materially the weight limits permitted by law for trucks operating on Pennsylvania highways.

It is no secret, of course, that the various interests, including the railroads which are strongly opposed to the truck weight limit measure, also maintain lobbies although it is not often that the high pressure tactics to gain a legislative end are so obvious as in the present instance. Even the charitable and welfare groups have their lobbyists who go to great lengths to accomplish their purposes.

Aside from the fact that officials of the State Highway Department have opposed the scheme of legalizing even heavier "box car" trucks than those now in operation, the public has had no representation in the controversy, except, of course, that it has elected to office and is paying the salaries of the men with whom rests the final decision. In that fact lies the explanation for most of the abortive laws on the statute books today.

Now I shall read from the Erie Daily Times of May 3, 1941, from an article headed "The Truck Problem" and which reads as follows:

ERIE DAILY TIMES

THE TRUCK PROBLEM

There is pending in the present session of our legislature a bill to increase the amount of tonnage which can be carried by heavy trucks. This proposed legislation is of especial interest to Erie County because of the fact that two of the main highways traversing it are national avenues of traffic and are now constantly cluttered with heavy trucks twenty-four hours a day and seven days a week.

The highways referred to are what are commonly known as the Ridge Road and Buffalo Road and the East Lake Road, east and west highways. Our north and south highways are but little better off. It is a common sight, during hours of heavy travel, to see private passenger cars bunched for a quarter of a mile or more behind one of these motor box cars, waiting for passage, and it is a matter of record that our highways are dotted with the scars of fatal and near fatal accidents directly traceable to truck operations.

Eighty per cent of our improved roads were built before 1930 and consequently were neither wide enough nor durable enough to take care of present day traffic. According to statistics only 2.8 per cent of vehicular revenue in this state comes from heavy trucks as against 97.2 per cent from passenger cars and light trucks.

Calculating road damage and wear and tear done by each class would be a little difficult but we venture to say that if we invert these figures we will not be far off; in other words the 2.8 per cent revenue producers do 97.2 per cent of the damage.

By reason of its geography Erie County is harassed more by trucks from foreign states rather than its own so if it alone could be considered as a unit for purposes of computation and census the figures which have just been given would be even more damaging to the big vehicles by reason of the ubiquity on our roads of so many stranger trucks.

Trucks are here to stay and legal provision will have to be made for them, whether they are local or foreign, but their growth and tonnage capacity should be synchronized with road improvement. That wider and heavier vehicles go hand in hand with wider and heavier roads.

Now, I think, Mr. President, most of the large newspapers in this Commonwealth have taken up the fight against this measure. I believe the sentiments of the people are against the passage of this measure. Then why, Mr. President, why should I support a measure which the majority of the people of Pennsylvania are against? My duty is clear.

My duty is to vote for what is to the best interest of all the people of Pennsylvania and my vote, Mr. President and members of the Senate, will be recorded against the passage of this bill. I have no interest other than the interest that serves all the people; I have no animosity or hatred against those in favor of the bill; it is their right to have it presented; it is their right to discuss it, but when it comes down to the right, when all the evidence on both sides has been presented and considered, our duty, as one of these articles has so well said, is to vote for what is best for all the people of Pennsylvania.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Like my colleague from Washington, Mr. Reed, I have no interest, direct or indirect, in the passage of this bill, other than the interest I must assume as a member of this body, that is, the interest of the people of this Commonwealth. This bill, as we know, is an amendment to the existing motor vehicle laws on our statute books. I think that we should all agree that the vehicle code in its present state is an evolution of the motor vehicle traffic on the highways of this Commonwealth. The present vehicle code is the result of the experience of the men who have dealt with that subject over the course of many years, and I am not ready to say that the wisdom of the men who in these legislative halls have brought the vehicle code to where it is today was bad wisdom. I think they used very good judgment in their compiling of the code that we have up to this time, and I really believe that we would be remiss in our duties if we should act at this time inconsistent with that wisdom and judgment used by those who have brought this vehicle code to its present status.

Like the gentleman from Washington, I like to be guided by wisdom, if of wisdom I can be assured. I do not want to act hastily in this matter because of the great importance of the subject here treated.

It has been the policy of honest men in this body, the honest principle applied by them on many bills, to always inquire of the department that might be affected by the legislation, as to just how wise the passage of the legislation might be. You men on the other side have done the same thing. We have considered bills or pieces of legislation which involved the Department of Health and justly you have gone to those who have operated that Department for years and years, who are versed in the subjects handled by the Department of Health, and you have accepted their judgment on many matters. We have done the same thing when bills have come up before us dealing with education, and we have done the same thing when bills have come up before us dealing with revenue. I hesitate to depart from that principle at this time on a subject so important as the one before us.

I have stated on previous occasions on the floor of this Senate that I think honestly that the Secretary of Highways in this state, the present Secretary of Highways, has done an excellent job on the highways of this state. He has in my judgment done more than has been done by any secretary of highways for many, many years, and he has maintained our highways in very good shape throughout winter and throughout summer, and I would not feel that I have done my duty to the people of this Commonwealth, should I upon consideration of this bill cast to the winds the judgment of the Secretary of the Department of Highways.

I am not an engineer, a construction engineer; I know nothing about gravel or asphalt or concrete; I know nothing about road construction; but I say that my sober duty is to use such judgment as I am capable of mustering in this matter, and that common sense leads me to the conclusion that I should accept the judgment of the Secretary of Highways on this very important subject.

I do not belong to that group of individuals in this Commonwealth who think they can hold back the way of progress. I believe sincerely and honestly that motor transportation is here to stay, and that we should pass laws touching upon that subject; we will have to bear that in mind and will have to act accordingly. I am firmly convinced that motor transportation will increase, will have to be permitted to progress; I hope that the day may come when this industry or this problem of motor transportation will have reached its peak and I would think myself an obstruction in the way of progress should I act in such a way as to impede the progress of motor transportation.

We have had members of this body who have made the argument that we should build these great turnpikes and highways because many countries of Europe have gone into that business and Germany has been held out as a pioneer in the construction of these long and wide turnpikes for motor transportation. Well, I have no fault to find with that particular part, but I think that the gentlemen who argue that point fail to recognize the fact that in countries like England, in countries like France, Germany and Spain and Russia, the railroad transportation systems do not belong to private capital but they are conducted and owned and operated by the government itself, and no doubt that in itself was the result of the conclusion of those governments that transportation was a national problem, transportation was something that affected every man, woman and child in the nation, and I think that they were not wrong in that.

I really think that this problem of transportation is a very fundamental problem for our government to handle, but here where we believe in the principle of individual initiative, where we believe in private ownership of property, the transportation system of our government has been that of the railroads. The railroads have been built by private capital and many men and women, many orphans and many widows have money invested in stock belonging to those railroads, and you can readily see the clashing thoughts a man may have when you say with one breath that you are perfectly in accord with permitting motor transportation to progress and blossom and at the same time you have a consciousness of those hundreds and thousands of men and women who have private interests in the railroads of this state and this nation.

Wisdom would say, would dictate, that we ought to handle this subject with some degree of justice and equity; see if we could solve this problem so that all may have justice. I think that those who framed the vehicle code did use good judgment, did use good wisdom; I think that they looked forward to the expansion of the motor vehicle industry. Take, for instance, Section 905 of our present vehicle code. That section reads as follows:

"The Secretary of Highways of this Commonwealth, and local authorities in their respective jurisdictions, may, in their discretion, upon application in writing accompanied by the fee provided in this act, and good cause being shown therefor, issue a special permit in writing, authorizing the applicant to operate or move either a vehicle or combination of vehicles, or a vehicle and load, or a combination of vehicles and their load or loads, of a size or weight exceeding the maximum specified in this act upon any highway under the jurisdiction of and for the maintenance of which the authorities granting the permit are responsible."

Gentlemen, I think there was great wisdom in that enactment, and I really think we should not depart from that. I think what we should have done, if greater weights must be allowed to pass over our highways, would have been to have expanded that section. We could have amended that section to give the Secretary of Highways more power, if necessary, to permit the passage of heavy loads over our highways, or give him the power to say over what highways these heavy loads might be permitted to pass. I think if that would have been done then the Department of Highways here, that is entrusted with the duty of keeping these highways up for the safety and the prosperity of the people, would surely know over what highways these heavy ponderous trucks might be permitted to travel, and we could give a mandate to the Secretary of Highways to hereafter construct highways with the express idea in mind of permitting this expansion in motor transportation to permit this increase in these weights.

Now, Mr. President, I must agree whole-heartedly with my colleague from Washington, Mr. Reed, that the interests of the people are not the powerful interests here promoting the passage of this bill. We have observed many activities around this Senate and the House of Representatives, in the lobbies of the hotels and everywhere else on this bill. Some activities have been such that the suspicion of any sober man could have well been aroused. Taking all our knowledge of what has conspired in the halls of this General Assembly, in the newspapers, in the hotel lobbies, Mr. President, I have come to the conclusion that this bill is an iniquitous off-spring of bribery, conspiracy and corrupt party leadership; its introduction and passage by this General Assembly has been promoted by cash paid on the barrel-head by vicious and powerful interests. It is no secret that vast sums of money have been spent by the trucking industry to litter the desks of each assembly member with false and misleading statistics and reports. It is publicly admitted that persons having private indirect interests in the passage of this bill are members of this General Assembly, who display no shame or hesitancy about promoting its passage, even though the plain provision of the Constitution makes doubtful their right to participate in the way of discussion upon the bill.

But, casting aside all partisan demarcation, the corrupt and venal Democratic leadership of Philadelphia and Allegheny, make no secret of their lust for the cash that the corrupt Republican leadership of Pew and Grundy have placed on the barrel-head; their presence and activity during the last few days among the members of this General Assembly and in the committee and caucus rooms of this body, has been open, notorious and shameful; the most woeful sight to the onlooker in these halls has been the plight of the numerous Democratic members who, like so many scurvy slaves, whipped and cowed, have followed a corrupt party leadership to the dark dungeon of Kings Grundy and Pew to feast their eyes upon the cash that covers the barrel-head, the cash that the poor scurvy slaves may covet but the touch of which is reserved exclusively to the venal and corrupt party leaders.

Sound thinking, Mr. President, can prophesy nothing but woe and disappointment for any political party that entrusts any phase of its leadership to the hands of men who publicly invite and solicit boodle. A fair example of this type is the "I would have damn well taken it," gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Melchiorre. Now, Mr. President, that gentleman has been very active, not only in his own side of the House but here on this side of this Assembly, on the streets of the City of Harrisburg and the City of Philadelphia. No more than a fortnight ago while peacefully wending my way to my room in the hotel I was boisterously and insultingly approached by this individual and taken to task because of my vote on a bill on the floor of this Senate. I raised no riot with him. I left him in his boisterous and insulting attitude and went my way.

I am also informed, Mr. President, that much needful and wise and just legislation that has been passed in this Senate and been sent over to the other side, its passage or its report from committee depends upon the caprice and whim of that individual. That has been openly and brazenly told to us, some of us, here in the halls of this Senate and on the streets of Harrisburg, that bills, Senate bills, in committees over on the other side, must have at least, as one approval, the approval of this notorious man.

Now, Mr. President, I do not know how other people of this body might feel, but I do say that any man that has a spark of honesty about him should not ask a gentleman like my colleague from Washington County to give obedience or to hearken to the voice of any party leader that would entrust the policies of the Democratic party in the hands of such a man.

Mr. President, it is politically axiomatic when one sees the outstanding political leaders of either party soaring like vultures in and out of the halls of this Assembly and intermittently swooping down to scourge into line their political slaves, it is proof positive that some legislative child of the people has been marked for the kill.

Now, Mr. President, I merely want to emphasize the picture so ably painted by my colleague from Washington. The best interests of the people require that we use wisdom in treating this subject and that we should not permit arbitrarily here the use of our highways by those ponderous trucks, I mean to increase their weights, in opposition to the wisdom and judgment of the Department of Highways.

I think that the sound way and honest way to approach this subject is to confer upon the Secretary of Highways the power and authority to permit excessive weights on highways designated by him, and in that way our Department of Highways can in time lay down the proper road paving, road base, that the engineering department or division of the Department of Highways is satisfied will hold those ponderous trucks.

As to the argument about national defense, Mr. President, why, I do not know of a single military equipment item or military equipment owned either by our National Guard or the armies of the United States, that will weigh twenty-one tons; there is no army equipment that weighs that much, and I would like to see the day come hereafter when we will have army equipment much heavier than twenty-one tons. I would like to see the day come when we will have armored divisions of tanks that have on them dreadnaught armament, heavy and powerful, and have the highways sufficiently strong to permit the movement of such equipment, but there is no necessity for taking a chance at this time of increasing those weights and breaking down our highway system that has been able to hold and permit the passage over it of the equipment that our army now has.

Mr. WOODWARD. My first thought, Mr. President, is that Senator Cavalcante has offended against good manners. I listened with interest the first twenty-five minutes but I gave up the second. In this celebrated case of the Commonwealth against the truck lobby the distinguished and progressive firm of Reed, Cavalcante and Reed, and Cavalcante again, have presented what is generally called a brief. In this case the word fails to describe the argument, for as I look at the clock I know the word "brief" is a misnomer. I would say if we took the gross weight of the words we have heard it would far exceed the forty-two thousand pounds that have been talked about.

Now, Mr. President, the only thought I am contributing is this: that I have talked privately to several members of the Senate who are opposed to the bill and I said to them, "If you are opposed to the bill why don't you expect to vote no?" and they said, "Well, because we think a majority of our constituents are in favor of this bill."

The point I am making is that we are here as an example of representative government. I cannot say that of the House of Representatives but I say that of the Senate, it is a far higher function to be a representative than it is to be a mere delegate; that if we are here merely to run errands—that is pretty important—I say to the delegates in the sense that we try to estimate the desires of the majority of our constituents, one way or the other, and vote as we are delegated, I think that is not fulfilling the high functions of representative government.

I have one more thought here. As dean of the Senate I would definitely suggest this firm of Cavalcante and Reed condense their statement in much briefer time, and my advice to the senior member of the firm is to expend a few dollars on the purchase of a book written by Emily Post called "Rules of Etiquette," and present it to his junior partner, opened at chapter thirteen, which is entitled "How to Behave."

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I have been accustomed to considering legislation in a clear, calm and dispassionate manner. Today on the floor I have felt that one of the members, probably in passion or probably in an excess of enthusiasm, was carried far afield from the subject at hand. Accusations, serious accusations, have been made by this member on the floor. Those accusations involve the integrity of the leadership of both parties. As a member of fact, they involve the integrity of each and every member of the Senate of Pennsylvania.

Mr. President, I believe that every member of this Senate — honestly believe — is the representative of a number of people back home and that when Senators on this floor vote upon a bill they try to vote as they feel is the wish of their constituents back home. I do not believe there has been any member of this Senate, in my association here since 1936, who has ever voted otherwise.

In order to clarify this situation I believe what Pennsylvania needs is to invite from private life men who have been successful, men who by their private lives and their success in business have established somewhat of a reputation back home, and I think that the members represented here in the Senate of Pennsylvania do qualify in that respect, that they all are and have been successful men back home, and have been selected by a majority vote of the people to represent them in the Senate of Pennsylvania, and I do not believe it is fair and I do not believe anybody is honest with himself who makes a broad assertion involving integrity alone, without being asked to make some specific charge.

So, Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Fayette, Senator Cavalcante.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Fayette permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Certainly.

Mr. MUNDY. Senator, I understood you to attack the integrity of the leadership of both the Democratic and Republican Parties; is that correct?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. If you call Mr. Pew and Mr. Grundy the leaders of the Republican Party—that is correct.

Mr. MUNDY. There was an attack upon certain Democratic Senators—who followed like slaves a certain leadership?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Yes sir.

Mr. MUNDY. Will you be specific and name, by name, that leadership?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Any part of the Democratic leadership that tolerates an admitted solicitor of boodle like the gentlemen from Philadelphia, Mr. Melchiorre, should have their integrity impugned.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I am not rising in defense of Mr. Melchiorre, but I wish to ask the Senator from Fayette what leadership does Mr. Melchiorre represent in the Democratic Party?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. I am amazed the gentleman from Luzerne, being in the inner circles, does not know. The gentleman knows that same leadership organized and selected the leaders of the House. I think the gentleman from Luzerne knows that leadership.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, Mr. Melchiorre was one of seven members elected in a democratic fashion by the members of the House, and as one of seven members elected on the steering committee of the House he registers one-seventh of the opinion of that House, which under Democratic rule does not constitute leadership.

I still press for an answer: who is a leader of the Democratic Party, in the Senator's opinion, who is dishonest?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Well, I am sure that it is not Mr. Myers, but if the gentleman from Luzerne will look into those supposed leaders who were not selected by the rank and file of the party he will find the people to whom I refer.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I still repeat that I am not of the type of man who convict individuals without a fair trial by an impartial judge or jury of their peers. I still press for an answer. This statement has been made, I still press for an answer, because I am interested in the Democratic Party and the Democratic leadership and if there is leadership in the Democratic Party that is crooked or dishonest I propose to move to dig them out and I want the Senator to say if in the lists of the Democratic Party there is any individual leader dishonest, to lay his name before this Senate, to mention the name.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. I do not have to mention names because I know the gentleman from Luzerne knows that I have my own personal reasons; I have my own personal knowledge. I have been publicly and openly told by this gentleman from Philadelphia, and that gentleman from Philadelphia has openly and publicly stated, that bills having my name, having passed the Senate and having gone to the House, will never find their way out of committee, and it seems that the fact that they do not come out and that they are sound legislation, is proof positive the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Melchiorre, must be one of the leaders over in the House. I was told on the floor of this Senate yesterday by members of the House that there has been a committee organized over in the House which supersedes the committee chairmen and duly appointed committees of the House, and that no bill will come out of that committee unless this super-committee gives assent, and on that committee, Mr. President, we who are trying to be honest Democrats, we who have the interest of the people at heart, must tolerate the presence of an admitted solicitor of boodle in this state, and never will I submit to leadership that permits a situation of that kind, whether it is Jack Kelly, Dave Lawrence, Meredith Myers, or the gentleman from Luzerne, or anybody else.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President—

Mr. CAVALCANTE. It is a shame and a disgrace to the Democratic Party we must tolerate a man of that character.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I asked a question and I am entitled to an answer and not an oration and I still press for my answer before this body. I ask him as an attorney of record in a court whether he wishes to try a case on rumor or hearsay or talk or whether he wants to present to this jury here the facts

Mr. CAVALCANTE. This is not a jury. I will take up my matter with the Attorney General when the time comes. As a member of this body I have honestly felt there has been a conspiracy, and a criminal conspiracy, existing between some members, leaders, of the Democratic Party and the members of the General Assembly, to stifle good legislation and to permit only legislation to pass that will benefit groups of individuals who may prove very satisfactory as contributors to the political campaigns, and I do not regard that as honest leadership.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, did it ever occur to the Senator that the gentlemen on the committee in the House might be exercising their own judgment as to whether or not this is good legislation?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. As I have said to the gentleman from Luzerne, we were told right on the floor of the Senate by members of the House as to what has happened there and the system that is now prevailing.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I want to take up another serious phase. In the committee, as the gentlemen of the committee know, I vigorously, and I think most vigorously of all the members of the committee, fought this bill; I talked and worked and acted against adoption of this bill in the committee. I do not think anybody disapproved of the bill in its original form as much as I did, —but the ridiculous and the absurd statement that men of the type of Jim Clark of Philadelphia, who in my opinion is beyond reproach, Jim Flanagan or Harry Davis, if you please, those gentlemen as far as my association is concerned, have a right to discuss with me legislation—but when it is said here on the floor there is a lot of money put in here to pass this bill, to my mind that is absurd and ridiculous and I consider it an insult to the intelligence and to the honesty and integrity of every Senator here, for a member to get up on the floor and make a vague suggestion that some Senator or some Representative was approached by these interests, these gentlemen whose integrity I say he has questioned in any financial transaction, they are gentlemen of business who are coming up here to ask the Senate for rights they think justly belong to them and I say, as a most bitter opponent to this bill, in all fairness and in consideration of the gentlemen who have been attacked, they have spoken to me and I must say in a very general way and in a manner no one could criticize whatsoever, and I have been very fair and frank in saying to those gentlemen I opposed the bill in the Senate, and still it did not alter that situation of their friendship one iota as far as I am concerned, because they knew where I stood.

This did happen: we considered this bill in committee very fairly and honestly, expressed our honest convictions pro and con; we seemed to reach an impasse and some of the better minds decided the best thing to do was probably to compromise and send out a compromise amendment on this floor.

Now, gentlemen, I subscribed to that compromise amendment in that committee and on this floor I propose to vote for the bill as is, because I am not going to compromise the men in that committee to whom I gave my word and subscribed to those amendments. I shall register my vote.

I decry and I hope that while I am on the Senate floor, or continue on the Senate floor, that I never see the sad spectacle of a Senator, who should represent something back home, by vague insinuation and innuendo impugn the honesty of decent individuals in his own party, and I shall never subscribe to saying that the leadership of the Republican Party is dishonest until I have some proof and can mention the names, and not spectacularly, gentlemen, but I rise in defense of those gentlemen and I rise in defense of the honesty and integrity of every member of the Senate of Pennsylvania.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I had not intended to get into this argument at all but I think perhaps a man in his enthusiasm can go far afield when he takes the attitude everybody is dishonest but himself.

The matter of passing legislation, particularly this so-called industrial legislation, is one that always calls for increased activities on the part of interested parties, pro and con.

Of course, under a strict interpretation of the rules the gentleman from Fayette wants to lay down, I probably would not be able to vote on this legislation, because they happen to make tires in my home town and I happen to sell a few—darn few during legislative sessions, and I think such an interpretation of that law or of that ruling or of that constitutional provision would be very narrow on the part of attorneys who will in this Senate vote for enabling legislation and laws and then go home and represent individuals or corporations or municipalities and receive fees for so doing. I want to say pretty nearly every piece of legislation passing across the desks of members of this Senate can in some way be used by an attorney to make himself a handsome fee, but we men who are ordinary laymen and business men back home have to watch our P's and Q's, because otherwise we are accused of dealing across a barrel-head. Well, if there was any money passed I did not know where it was, because I did not just happen to get there. Maybe the persons who saw it passed did not let the rest of us get there.

Some statement was made about the Secretary of Highways. I happen to have been a member who served on the sub-committee, and we took into consideration a great many vital points that have not been raised yet in the matter of this legislation. Progress has been made by Pennsylvania. Pennsylvania is a great state, in spite of stand-patism and narrow-mindedness on the part of a great many legislators, past and present.

Eighteen years ago a law was passed specifying the weights on trucks. Are we dishonest because we use a God-given intelligence, to us, to ourselves and to the rest of the Senate, to realize that certainly in eighteen years there have been improvements in truck design, in brake design, in power automotive design and in road building design, to allow for additional weights in truck legislation, when the seventeen surrounding states in this great nation allow axle weights from 22,400 up to a total overload or top-load of 65,000 pounds? Do you mean to tell me that we have employed men in our Highway Department that do not have the necessary engineering ability or the necessary ordinary good common intelligence and good sense to build types of roads similar to our surrounding states? Do you mean to tell me they have been building roads in Pennsylvania that have not been in keeping with the needs of the times and the demands of industry? Is this not an industry? Are we legislating here one against another, or are we trying to do an intelligent thing and amend a law that was passed as far back as 1923?

For many years workmen's compensation suffered from the same illusions. Year after year they came into the Senate and House and stopped any amendments in the compensation law that would give to injured workmen greater and better benefits, and yet the cost of living and standard of living had risen two or three times above the standards of costs as they were when the original bill was passed, but they did not pass any additional increase and kept sitting tight and standing pat and in 1937 a bill was passed that a great many industries in the state felt they had to reject because it was too drastic.

I say we have got to do things moderately, we have got to add amendments to laws when they become inadequate, when they become useless; in the modern scheme of things you have got to add necessary amendments to bring them up to date.

Did the gentlemen in that Senate in 1923 have more intelligence then we have? Where did they get the figures, where did they get the arguments to substantiate the figure of 38,000 total load and 18,000 axle weight, when every man here knows that trucks in 1923, other than small trucks, were solid tire vehicles, single wheel brakes and heavy oak bodies?

Today you have the genius of automotive design embodied in the trucking industry. I tell you it is an industry, and as an industry it should not be insulted on the floor of this Senate by any individual who just does not happen to see eye to eye.

I have been approached—I will not say approached, I think that is the wrong word—men have talked to me from both sides on this question; in fact, I thought it was my duty as a Senator and as Chairman of the Sub Committee to talk to the interested parties, both labor on the railroad, labor in the trucking industry, the owners of railroads, and the owners of trucks. I have talked with all the groups interested.

I went back home and talked to the city engineers, councils and the mayors, and tried to do the job intelligently and honestly, and I do not think there are any hard feelings on the part of those who are not satisfied with my vote. I do not remember at any time when any of them approached me with any suggestions that my vote could be bought. I would say if the gentleman was approached on that score he should name the persons who approached him. I think perhaps sometimes every one of us dispassionately can be honest to one another. I do not care how any man in this Senate votes on any bill. I trust he does so because his conscience and heart and intelligence tells him that is the proper way to vote. I have not always voted with the members of this Senate or with the majority of the members. When I think I am right I will stand on this Senate floor and vote one way or the other if I know that vote means oblivion to me. That to me is a small matter. What I do here and what I leave here in the way of a record will far outlive my own individual stay on earth, and if I have been decent to myself and decent to the people of Pennsylvania that is the only reward that I personally desire, and I think it is a disgraceful shame to say that the Highway Department disapproves the increase when your own Secretary of Highways says he would agree to somewhat higher truck weights than those in the present law. He said he would be willing to approve 45,000 pounds for a truck and semi-trailer now limited to 39,000 pounds.

As far as the axle increase is concerned any person who has ever been around trucks knows you cannot put additional weight upon a truck without allowing for increased weight upon the axle.

This is good legislation; it is modern legislation; I disapproved of the fifty thousand pounds because I thought the step was too great. I do not think any intelligent engineer can successfully build up an engineering argument and say that an additional three thousand pound increase, spread over a distance of thirty-five feet, with the increased road contact, with new pneumatic balloon tires, will in any way injure the roads of the State of Pennsylvania.

Frost and freeze and rain and sleet and other elements of nature are the greatest enemies of our road system, and if our Highway Department has not done a good job building roads they should not come panty-waisting to the Legislature to protect them from the results of their short-sightedness.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 686, (House Bill No. 598), on second reading, entitled:

An Act requiring the council of cities of the Section Class A to fix the salaries of the officers and members of the police department; and establishing minimum salaries.

be recommitted to the Committee on Municipal Government.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I object, and I desire to interrogate the gentleman who made the motion to recommit this bill.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman who made the motion the reason for recommending the bill.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, the reason for recommending the bill to the Committee on Municipal Government, the committee from which it came, is to permit further study.

Mr. COLEMAN. The gentleman probably is well informed on this particular bill, but if he will permit me, I shall be glad to give him all the information necessary. This is one bill which does not require any great study.

I desire to interrogate the gentleman further, if I may.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman if he remembers how he voted on a similar bill for the firemen of the City of Scranton in the 1939 session?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, my memory is not that good.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, if the gentleman will permit, I will be delighted to refresh his memory. He was one of forty-five members of the Senate who voted "aye" on a bill to give the firemen of the City of Scranton minimum salaries, and now the policemen are merely asking the majority floor leader and forty-nine other members of the Senate to give them the same thing.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, it may be I will vote for this bill when the time comes but I do not know that now.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I oppose the motion to recommit this bill and if the gentleman from Allegheny will reconsider and if he will withdraw his motion and permit me to make a motion I will be delighted to have it on second reading on the postponed calendar. I have a dread of a bill going back to committee in the closing hours of a legislative session; I have a justifiable suspicion a move of this kind has behind it the purpose of bringing about its ultimate death by strangulation in committee and I would like awfully much if the gentleman from Allegheny will permit me to have it on the postponed calendar.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, my motion was that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Municipal Government—not the Committee on Public Health.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, there is an old saying if you want to get a thing across, if you get people laughing they will stop thinking. I am really serious about this and I will again ask the gentleman from Allegheny if he will not withdraw the motion to recommit this bill and permit me to go into a huddle with him at which time I will endeavor to furnish him with the proper information.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I ask for the question on the motion.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I object to the motion to have this bill recommitted. This is not the type of bill that requires any further study. It is a very simple bill—only two pages—and I ask my colleagues of the Senate to oppose the motion to recommit the bill and I ask for a roll call.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Coleman and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—29

Bartlett,	Edmonds,	Letzler,	Taylor,
Becker,	Farrell,	Mallery,	Thomas,
Carr,	Geltz,	Miller,	Tyler,
Chapman,	Heyburn,	Scarlett,	Walker,
Crider,	Homsher,	Snowden,	Wilson, H. I.,
Crowe,	James,	Stevenson,	Woodward,
Deltrick,	Kerhart,	Tallman,	Ziesenheim,
Ealy,

NAYS—14

Barr,	Dent,	McCreesh,	Reed,
Cavalcante,	DiSilvestro,	McQuiddy,	Ruth,
Coleman,	Jaspan,	Mundy,	Stiefel,
Cox,	Lanlus,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

BY Messrs. LESKO and HABERLEN.

RESOLUTION No. 101.

In the House of Representatives, June 3, 1941.

Whereas, It is possible, if one purchases a round trip ticket on any of the railroads of this Commonwealth, for such passenger to disembark at intermediary points going to and from his destination, without being compelled to purchase new railroad tickets; and

Whereas, Present practice on the new Pennsylvania Turnpike is to refuse to permit motorists who have round trip tickets to leave the turnpike at intermediary interchanges, and to return thereto without the payment of a new tariff; and

Whereas, If the practice were permitted of allowing such motorists to drive off at intermediary interchanges, and to return to the turnpike without the payment of additional fares, it would increase the use of the turnpike considerably, and, therefore, add greatly to the revenue of the said turnpike; be it therefore

Resolved, That the House of Representatives request the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission to inaugurate a practice of allowing motorists holding round trip tickets to drive off the road at intermediary interchanges, and to return to the turnpike without paying any additional fare; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be mailed by the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives to the Chairman of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

(During the verification of the roll and before the affirmative result was announced.)

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask that the affirmative roll be called again, please?

The SPEAKER. The re-reading of the affirmative roll may only be done by unanimous consent.

Mr. MORAN. I ask unanimous consent, Mr. Speaker, to have the affirmative roll called again.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny asks unanimous consent to have the affirmative roll called again. Is there objection? The Chair hears objection and consent is not granted.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, may I request that the rule be suspended so that we may have the affirmative roll called again on verification. I did not get a chance to record the names on the first calling of the roll and that is the reason I ask that it be repeated. I do not want to take up the time of the House in having this roll call read the second time, but I did not have a chance to get the names down as they were called. Therefore, I ask that the affirmative roll call be repeated.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Allegheny, the clerk called the roll very clearly. The chair directed him to do so at the request of the gentleman from Allegheny.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I did not make the original objection. The objection came from across the House. I arose because I was not in the House at the time the roll was called and I wanted to find what my position was. While I think it is unusual, I do not recall its ever having been done, the roll being read the second time, but since the gentleman requests it, as far as I am concerned, if the gentleman from Allegheny did not get an opportunity to check the roll he should be given that opportunity. I would therefore ask that the objection be withdrawn.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is of the opinion that the time of the House would be saved by re-reading the affirmative roll. One hundred five votes are required to suspend the rules. If the objection is withdrawn the clerk will be directed to read the affirmative roll slowly the second time. The Chair hears no objection. The Clerk will proceed to read the affirmative roll slowly.

QUESTION OF INQUIRY

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware will state his question of inquiry.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that the clerk is now merely reading the affirmative roll?

The SPEAKER. Yes, for the second time.

Mr. TURNER. It has already been verified, has it not?

The Speaker. No, the roll has not been verified.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would object to any re-verification of the roll, but if the gentleman merely wants information that would be all right

The SPEAKER. The roll has not been verified, the clerk will proceed.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. YESTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his question of information.

Mr. YESTER. Mr. Speaker, can the clerk give a copy of the roll to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Moran?

The SPEAKER. That cannot be done. If the gentleman wants to use his own tally, he may do so. The Clerk will read the affirmative roll.

(The affirmative roll was read the second time and verified. The negative roll was verified.)

SPEAKER'S PICNIC

The SPEAKER. For the information of the Members the Speaker's picnic has not been called off. There will be indoor sports. The Chair would also like to invite the Legislative engineers to attend the picnic.

Mr. McLANAHAN. Mr. Speaker, I think that is where House Bill No. 1070 might be accommodating.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. CHARLES H. BRUNNER, asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that we are having a picnic this afternoon and in view of the fact that we will be confined indoors for the duration, I would like to make a motion that the provisions of the penal code be suspended for the duration of the Speaker's picnic.

The SPEAKER. They are suspended. The gentleman from Beaver, Mr. McLanahan objects.

Mr. McLANAHAN. Mr. Speaker, that is the cause of my bill being defeated.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware has just told me he is an indoor sport.

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Mr. FRENCH. Mr. Speaker, we are not talking about picnics just now, we are considering House Bill 909. For the benefit of a lot of the Members, myself included, will you appoint some—

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Mifflin, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shepard thinks the picnic has started.

Mr. FRENCH. Mr. Speaker, will you please appoint some person here to explain just what this bill does and what it does not do so that we can intelligently vote on it?

The Speaker. The Chair recognizes the sponsor of the bill, the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Leonard.

Mr. LEONARD. Mr. Speaker, House Bill No. 909 provides for increasing and establishing definite minimums for employes of the Liquor Control Board employed in the stores.

I have a complete Survey on the subject matter consisting of three parts, which is self-explanatory in nature and the information contained in it gives the facts in the set-up in the System today.

In addition to the fact contained in the Survey I wish to further state that—

The three members of the Liquor Control Board receive $10,000 each annually. It is their duty to oversee the entire administration of the industry in Pennsylvania through their various department heads.

The salary of the Secretary to the Board, has been increased from $6,500 per year, received by his predecessor to $7,500 per year or an increase of $1000 per year. In addition he has an assistant who received $6,000 annually which makes a total increase for this position of $7,000 per year.

The salaries in these categories seem to compare with those received in other departments.

Personal policy. At a meeting between the Liquor Board and State, County & Municipal Workers of America in November, 1939, Mr. W. M. Cauffield, Director of Personnel, admitted that the Board had never had a classification of store personnel up to that time. No set policy had been adopted since that time. On the other hand, supervisors for the board whose duties cover the operation supervision of certain districted groupings of stores claim that there is a definite classification of employees and always had been one. They defend the Board's failure to fill existing vacancies on the ground that certain positions may be eliminated under a revised reclassification which has been pending since Mr. Frye was appointed Secretary more than eighteen months ago. As a result of this confused policy of personnel manipulation nobody knows just what to expect when vacancies exist.

All arguments that the State is unable to pay equitable salaries is based upon a fallacy, because the Legislature appropriates the Liquor Board's profits and not its receipts. At the present rate of sales, profits for the next biennium will exceed $42,000,000, while the Governor has merely estimated $36,000,000 in the budget submitted to the Legislature. In addition, I feel it unfair to ask one particular group of state employes to carry part of the relief load for the state by accepting less than their actual worth, while others in the department have received wage increases or at least have suffered no reductions.

I feel that the present House of Representatives does have an exceptional opportunity to correct the laxity and neglect which has been prevalent in the administration of Liquor Board Personnel policies by amending the Liquor Act so that basic salary minimums will be established for the operators in the stores, which includes the clerks, assistant managers, and managers. It is my opinion that the salaries of these employes, who have actively participated in making the Pennsylvania Liquor Control System the model for all systems, should be revised to allow these employees to at least receive a wage which approximates that required to maintain an American standard of living. If salaries for the higher bracketed administrative employes can be adjusted upwards, why cannot the lower ones be similarly adjusted?

I make none of these points or observations with the purpose of attacking any particular individual, but purely from the point that a deplorable lack of consideration does exist in the matter of personnel administration, thereby preventing the employes from justly participating in the benefits they so richly deserve.

I have in my possession copies of letters addressed to the Honorable Governor Arthur H. James and the Honorable Joseph O'Brien, Chairman of the Committee on Liquor Control completely outlining the desires of the employes in the Pennsylvania Liquor stores in addition to the Survey which appears in three parts.

In a check up of other states I find that none pay less than Pennsylvania, therefore I ask the Members of the House to vote for House Bill 909.

Mr. FRENCH. Mr. Speaker, the speech I am going to make is going to be a very short one, but I would like to call to your attention a comparison between this bill and the one which was acted on not very long ago. I refer to the teachers' salaries in the fourth class school districts. These two things do not correspond, Mr. Speaker, with each other. I am only too sorry I am not able to discuss this thing in the way it should be discussed, but I hope somebody will follow me and discuss this question in the light in which it should be discussed. I know in my own heart and in my own opinion that the comparison is too wide-spread. We are very reluctant to raise the teachers' salaries for the fourth class districts, the people in whose charge and in whose hands it is to lay the foundation for the moral uplifting of the generation coming on. Very little consideration was given to them as far as salaries go. Now, we come along with a bill to raise the salaries of people who dispense liquor throughout the Commonwealth. It is not quite right, I do not think, in my opinion, to make the comparison. These people are getting a fair living wage, I would say larger than a good living wage, while the teachers have been, I might say, ignored entirely. They have been given a little measly raise in their salaries, but not enough to compensate them for the time and the money they have expended in getting an education to prepare themselves for the very important work of their jobs, that we have entrusted to their care. I am not talking against this bill. I want to make a comparison so that you men can see the job we in this House have done, which I think is an unfair comparison.

Mr. LEONARD. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Mifflin, Mr. French.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FRENCH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LEONARD. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Mifflin know what the liquor store clerk gets today?

Mr. FRENCH. Well, Mr. Speaker, I did know but I have practically forgotten. It is more in comparison with what they have to spend for equipping themselves for the job than what the teachers have to spend to equip themselves for their jobs, I know that. I think it is about $21 a week.

Mr. LEONARD. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Mifflin, Mr. French. There is no comparison between the employes of the liquor stores in the state of Pennsylvania and the teachers. The teachers' salaries are paid out of the taxes of the people, while the liquor stores employes are paid out of profits made by the state on the sale of liquor by the state. I want to say for the benefit of the Members of the House that the average salary for the clerks is $23 a week. Is that an American standard of living to be paid by the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania? Personally, I do not think it is. Does anybody here have an idea what the duties of the clerks of these stores are? One minute they are sweeping the floor, in another minute they are unloading trucks or cleaning a window; in another minute they sweep the pavement, and in the next minute they are handling the cash, while other officers are out on some other duty. That is the responsibility of the clerks who get $23 a week. If this were coming out of anything but the profits, there might be some argument against the bill. This has been a favorable bill from the time it was introduced in this House, this is the first objection, if you can call it that, that I have heard since the bill has been on the calendar. I, therefore, ask the Members of the House in the name of the state of Pennsylvania, to pay these employes a decent wage.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, House Bill 1630, Printer's No. 806, you will notice has been amended since it first reached the calendar. There seem to be some objections on the part of certain Members of the House to the effect that it may disturb the budget. You will recall the bill subsequently was amended to start as of January, 1941. This bill is in keeping with the provisions of the added mark up on any anticipated Federal taxes. Quite a few of our state newspapers have carried stories to the effect that as a result of this tax upon a tax, we have been driving some of the citizens of this Commonwealth into other states for the purpose of purchasing liquor. This bill will not disturb in any way the budget, and all objections so far as that feature is concerned have been withdrawn.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I concur with the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. O'Brien. I have been worried for a considerable time. During the work of the Joint State Government Commission we had a number of meetings with the Liquor Control Board. When the Federal tax was put on the Liquor Control Board felt that because of the law in Pennsylvania they had to mark up by adding the Federal tax on the price, then making a fifty percent mark up on that price. I am convinced we are going to have a number of other taxes and with the increased price of liquor I feel that the state store returns are in danger of a diminishing return, because when the price goes up the people won't buy because they will be driven to buy cheaper liquor or buy such things as gin or wine which are very much cheaper, and the profits thereon will not be in the Liquor Stores.

The gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, has told us he counts on a four million dollar increase in the next biennium in profits from the State Liquor Stores. If you are going to continue every time the Federal Government adds a tax because of certain conditions in the world today, to increase the price of liquor and mark up on top of that, you are going to drive the price to a point where you are going to encourage the bootlegger. In the second place you drive people into other states and bootleg into Pennsylvania for their own consumption. In the third place you are going to drive down the market. We in Pennsylvania have a very distinct stake, to the amount of about thirty million dollars that we get from the sale of liquor in State Liquor Stores which constitutes a very substantial part of our budget. Therefore it seems to me that if the Board feels that under our law they are compelled to add that to the price and then make their mark up on top of that, the bill before us is a timely bill and I think should be passed. There may be some question regarding the practical application but that can be easily worked out during the passage of this bill through the Legislature.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I wish to confirm the remarks of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. O'Brien. The amendments to House Bill 1630 were inserted in the bill at my request and for the purpose of not disturbing the budget estimates which were submitted and which I presume were also arrived at by the administration in their figures.

NAYS—0

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1424, as follows:

An Act prescribing the degree of care to be exercised by the driver of any vehicle at the crossing of a highway and a railroad or railway at grade providing that the failure to stop shall not in itself constitute negligence or contributory negligence and providing that the issue of negligence or contributory negligence in such case shall be a question of fact for the jury.

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows:

Section 1 Whenever the driver of any vehicle approaches the crossing of a highway and a railroad or railway at grade such driver shall exercise the degree of care that an ordinary prudent man would exercise under like circumstances

The failure of the driver of any vehicle to stop before entering upon the crossing shall not in itself constitute negligence or contributory negligence but the issue of negligence or contributory negligence in such case shall be a question of fact to be determined by the jury after weighing all the circumstances

Section 2 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. JAMES. Mr. Speaker, my attention was drawn to this bill by its brevity. As I see it, this bill either packs a lot of dynamite or it is no good

I would like to ask the sponsor, Mr. Presley N. Jones, to give the House a brief idea what the bill would do.

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the interrogation of the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. James, the bill is quite brief. Section one of the bill states as follows:

"Whenever the driver of any vehicle approaches the crossing of a highway and a railroad or railway at grade, such driver shall exercise a degree of care that an ordinary prudent man would exercise under like circumstances."

In other words, gentlemen, it deletes from what is known as the old Pennsylvania rule the word "stop." It has been shown by the very astute Justice Cordoza as being an utterly ridiculous law, in support of which I will refer you to U. S. Supreme Court 292, Page 98, Section 103, in which the Justice cites that fact.

It is idiotic to assume that a man would approach a crossing, disengage his gears, set his brakes, walk up to the tracks, look both ways, listen and turn his back on the track. We all know quite well should there be the slightest bend in that road, a quarter mile beyond the man's vision that a train traveling at the rate of thirty miles an hour would within the space of thirty seconds in the distance of a quarter of a mile be at that crossing. It is physically impossible for a man to turn his back on the track, return to his car, open the door, reseal himself, release his clutch, release his emergency brake and descend upon the crossing within thirty seconds. It is a very excellent bill, it is a fair bill, it is very brief and all that it does is to make it a matter for the jury to arrive at the decision. If I may continue, Mr. Speaker, after this bill is passed if a man does not stop at the crossing he is non-suited.

Mr. JAMES. Mr. Speaker, within the last five years a law was repealed about as brief as this one. It said that whenever two trains shall meet at any intersection or crossing of tracks neither train shall proceed until the other train has passed.

Mr. HEWITT. Mr. Speaker, Abe Martin said he could never figure out how a fellow could arrange his schedule to be there when a train came.

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. Speaker, I feel this is a very meritorious bill and should be given consideration by all the Members. I recommend it to their favorable consideration. I think it is streamlining the "Stop, Look and Listen Law" which has long ceased to be practical in this day and age of fast traveling on modern highways. I think it will bring the law up to 1941. I think it is a good law and ought to be passed.

Mr. BENTLEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to interrogate the sponsor of this bill, the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Jones.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lawrence permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BENTLEY. Mr. Speaker, as I understand the present law it is mandatory for all buses to stop at railroad crossings before proceeding across. Will this bill, if enacted into law, have the effect of repealing that provision?

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. No, it would not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BENTLEY. Mr. Speaker, if it is a valid safety measure for a bus to stop before proceeding across a railroad crossing, is it not also equally valid as a safety measure for vehicles driven by persons other than bus drivers to also stop before proceeding across?

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I think the rule or regulation for buses to stop at grade crossings happens to be a regulation promulgated by the Public Utility Commission. As to the gentleman's question as to being valid, I think you will find that throughout the State our courts, the majority of them, adopt the rule that the traveler must look and listen, and the duty to stop depends upon the circumstances and hence, generally, even if not invariably, it is left to the judgement of the jury.

MR. TURNER IN THE CHAIR.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET
DURING SESSION

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Judiciary Special to meet during the session of the House.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. TURNER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, because of other matters that required my absence from the House at the opening this morning, I was not present when House Bill 771 was passed finally. I had intended to make some remarks on that bill. The members on this side of the House voted in favor of the bill merely because they felt the thing to do was to let it go to the other side, it would have to come back through a Conference Committee, if it is to be passed finally, and in order not to hold up the proceedings, they let it slide along. I feel, however I ought to make some statement on this bill and I am going to ask the indulgence of the House for a few moments while I do so.

The Unemployment Compensation Law of Pennsylvania requires civil service for employees in the Bureau of Employment and Unemployment Compensation.

The administrative costs are paid out of a fund provided by Congress and allocated by the Social Security Board. The fund is known as Pennsylvania Administration Fund.

The benefits paid to employees come from the Unemployment Compensation Fund created by taxes on employers in Pennsylvania.

All the costs of administration, that is, payment of salaries to employees and general expenses of the Bureau, are paid from the administrative fund by the Department, that is, the Secretary of Labor and Industry.

The Social Security Act as finally amended requires that civil service be provided for in order that the states may receive their share of the administration expenses; these monies go into the Administration Fund. Therefore, Pennsylvania with a civil service system, is safe in getting this money.

The Pennsylvania law provides for a system of requisitioning and accounting of the expenditure records in the Bureau of Employment and Unemployment Compensation as approved by the Department of Labor and Industry, the Treasurer and the Governor. In the prior administration, under Governor Earle, the appointment of such employees who were paid out of this Administration Fund by the Secretary of Labor and Industry, were permitted to be made by the State Treasurer and for some reason or other it was approved by the Secretary of Labor and Industry, Mr. Bashore and Governor Earle. These appointments were made without civil service, although they are paid out of this administration fund by the Secretary of Labor and Industry, and it is approved and countenanced by the Social Security Board.

The Attorney General of Pennsylvania has ruled this is not proper because the act requires that all the employees of the Bureau of Employment and Unemployment Compensation paid out of this fund shall be under civil service. The Social Security Board is winking at that but they don't wink at the Health Department when only a small part of the money to pay Health Department employees comes from the Social Security Board.

You know, Mr. Speaker, in this administration the Secretary of Health is asking that certain employees of the Department be placed under civil service because the Social Security Board is demanding that those employees who are paid partly by general funds shall be under civil service, but in this instance in the Treasury, the employees under Unemployment Compensation, the board says nothing about it.

When House Bill 868 was introduced, which was supposed to be a bill in the interests of labor to give them benefit increases, the Democrats, when the bill was reported out of committee, ignored the fact that it was a labor bill and insert amendments to Sections 602 and 603 to freeze out of civil service over one hundred employees.

The Democrats are still worried about their political appointments, so when House Bill 771, came up for second reading in the House on Tuesday, May 27th, it was amended and the provisions which have been added to House Bill 868 and S. 80 (H. 1208) are now added to House Bill 771.

House Bill 771 is supposed to provide increases in salaries for the employees of the Bureau of Employment and Unemployment Compensation. The Democrats in the guise of slipping through this salary increase for "labor" puts in, for the third time, the provision for keeping this or a hundred or more political jobs. Where are the labor leaders—the leader of the C. I. O. and the A. F. L. State Employees Union, who bring drives here for extension of civil service and its protection. Are they politically minded or labor minded? Do they approve of what the Democrats do when labor is affected?

The Democrats are still a little worried that possibly the Social Security Board may finally be forced to take a consistent point of view and the Democrats are worried about these political jobs for their Democratic workers. They are also afraid that possibly this administration will insist that something be done immediately. The administration has been insisting, but it cannot get cooperation from the Social Security Board that those employees, even though they were permitted to be employed by the Treasurer, should be under civil service. They then take the clause which requires that the system of accounting, and so forth be approved by the Governor, the State Treasurer and the Secretary of Labor and Industry and place it under the control of the State Treasurer with the approval of the Social Security Board.

This is purely a camouflage because the Social Security Board has been winking at this arrangement and does not require that they be under civil service. One amendment would also make them State Treasurer employees and not employees of the Bureau of Employment and Unemployment Compensation who must be under civil service.

In other words, they are going to cut out the Governor and the Secretary of Labor and Industry and put part of it in the Social Security Board down in Washington.

It seems to me this is a most unusual proceeding and it is merely a camouflage to hide a situation that is keeping one hundred employes out of civil service, who in all fairness and according to all the rules and regulations of the Social Security Board, as they have been insisting upon in all the departments,—they are winking at it, and I ask you therefore whether there is any honesty in that situation.

NAYS—0

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1248, as follows:

An Act providing for proceedings by petition in non-support and desertion cases

Section 1 In addition to the remedies and procedure now provided by law in non-support and desertion cases any court of record having jurisdiction in such cases may proceed therein upon the petition of any person or persons concerned or of anyone in their behalf presented to the court and setting forth the facts of said desertion or failure to support and shall render judgment and afford relief in such cases with the same force and effect as though the proceeding had been by information and warrant as heretofore provided by law

Section 2 Upon presentation of such petition to said court the judge thereof shall fix the time for hearing the complaint and shall make an order to procure the attendance in court at the time so fixed of the person or persons against whom said petition has been filed and to that end may direct that notice by personal service of the time and nature of the hearing be given to said person or persons or may forthwith issue a warrant of arrest for the apprehension and detention of said person or persons and require said person or persons to enter into a recognizance with surety in an amount fixed by said judge conditioned for the appearance of said person or persons at the hearing in court upon said complaint

Section 3 If at the time of hearing the person or persons against whom the petition was made do not appear whether there be due proof of the service notice of the time and nature of the hearing upon him or them or not the court may issue a warrant of arrest or other appropriate process to procure the presence of said person or persons at an adjourned session of said court to which the hearing of the complaint may be continued

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STOCKHAM. Mr. Speaker, this bill is a brief one. It is a new procedure possibly in the courts. It is designed to help save the expense particularly of some poor or helpless mother or other person in desertion, save the expense and time under the present procedure and allow action directly in the courts. I understand there is some opposition to this bill on the part of the justices of the peace. I think that it is without real foundation in fact because their opposition could not be sustained even in their own minds because this bill presumes to extend a helping hand to those that need help. The saving to persons proceeding under this act directly in court is not any great loss to the justices of the peace in any remuneration coming to them, but rather is helpful to the one who needs the help.

I would ask, Mr. Speaker, if I may yield the floor for any further discussion of the details, the legal details of this bill, to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Homer Brown.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I don't know whether it is an honor to take the floor on a bill of this kind or not. However, I do appreciate the remarks of the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Stockham. Because of the opposition to this bill I want to say to the Members of the House that this is a real attempt to save costs and to eliminate a procedure which is long outmoded in our state. We are following this procedure in Allegheny county and I think rather successfully. The old procedure, of course, in the beginning of a desertion or non-support case is to make an information, have a warrant issued for the arrest of the defendant, have a trial in a court of summary jurisdiction and then refer the case to a court of proper jurisdiction. In many cases of non-support there is absolutely no necessity for such procedure. In Allegheny County, in the County Court, which is the court that has jurisdiction over desertion and non-support cases, a notice is sent upon complaint made by the wife or by the party who is not being supported, as the case might be, and the defendant is asked to come in. That, it seems to me, is a very fair thing to do. There is no reason to commit a man to jail by information, holding him for court, and putting him to the expense of getting a bond, when the thing demanded is support. The procedure contradicts the remedy sought, because the man has to pay for his bond and wait until the case comes to trial before some minor judiciary or before a court of proper jurisdiction, and a lot of time is wasted and a lot of money is wasted. It does seem to me that this bill ought to be passed and sent to the Senate. I think the bill has merit and it is a real attempt to straighten out some of our criminal procedure, which, as every Member of this House knows, is long past due.

Mr. Speaker, I therefore highly recommend this bill to every Member of this House.

Mr. McLANAHAN. Mr. Speaker, this bill for non-support is a cruel bill which they are trying to introduce here. It drags the poor person from the far end of the county into court. They are attempting to tell the people that it is a saving of costs, which is not true. I hear dozens of these cases and they do not go to court. We do not put them under bond because they are not capable of giving a bond. We allow them to go to court on their own recognizance. This is nothing but a lawyer's bill, that is all it is, and it attempts to drive a lot of people into court. I say to the gentlemen of this House that this is a nonsensical bill and I ask the Members of the House to vote against it for the benefit of the poor devil who cannot find money to go to the court house.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, of course it is very desirable to give help to those in non-support cases and in desertion cases, in which the husband walks out on his family or something of that sort. It seems to me that the magistrates' courts and the justices of the peace are closer to the people and in many cases they can settle these family differences and disturbances without having to send a person to court where he will have a record made against him, and all that sort of thing. The magistrates' courts very often settle this kind of family difference. While most of us try to be good husbands, we do not facilitate or make it any easier for wives to come into court every time there is a family difference. That is what happens in many cases. I might say that we husbands have enough hammers over our heads now. In addition to that we do not want them to put the whole court house on top of us. Any time a husband and wife have a dispute at the breakfast table, by the time dinner is served we may be in court, but if this case is allowed to go to the magistrate's court, very often he can straighten out these differences without all of that court procedure.

Mr. Speaker, I am opposed to this bill and I ask the members of the House, in the interest of tranquility and peace in family life to prevent unnecessary cluttering up of the courts with domestic difficulties to vote down this bill and allow the differences to be settled by the magistrates and justices of the peace. Those people are much closer to the family unit and can serve a very definite purpose in that respect.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I do not like to engage in any controversy with my colleague of many years, the minister from Philadelphia, Rev. Shepard. However, if the Reverend will confine himself to the pulpit and not to the law, I think he would be more accurate. When a minister attempts to tell us how to keep people out of jail he necessarily gets into trouble. The gentleman from Philadelphia speaks of the hammer over his head. That is just what we are doing in this particular bill, we are relieving him from having a hammer over his head. If he is personally concerned, and I imagine he is, as he seems to be very strong in his denunciation of this bill—I don't know much about his private life in that connection, but if the gentleman is interested I want to assure him this bill will take the hammer from off his head.

In answer to the gentleman from Beaver, Mr. McLanahan, my very good friend, I want to assure him that this bill will take nothing away from the magistrates or justices of the peace. They have no jurisdiction now in desertion and non-support cases. The cases must go to court. They cannot enter judgment in cases of desertion or non-support, they can only act as committing magistrates and that is a thing that we want to obviate. The only thing a justice of the peace or magistrate can do is to receive the information, issue a warrant for the man's arrest and release him on bail. The gentleman from Beaver said he does not do it and, therefore, if he does not do it he should not be against this bill because it does not hurt him.

Mr. Speaker, I say to my friend, the minister from Philadelphia, that this bill will help to administer justice in a way that justice should be administered, and I do earnestly ask the Members of this House to vote for the bill.

As a lawyer I want to assure you that the lawyers are not interested in this bill. Very few, if any of them, practice in desertion and non-support court. I do not believe that anyone will be hurt, and that the procedure of the law will be made more easy and justice will be obtained by the passage of this bill.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, may I say for purpose of the record that the procedure in Allegheny county is quite similar to the procedure now followed in Philadelphia. Desertion and non-support cases in Philadelphia are taken to the Municipal Courts where a conference is arranged between the parties. If the parties cannot agree upon a proper amount, the matter is taken up by the judge, and a determination is made of the ability of the husband to pay. There is no question of any politics in the bill. I think the procedure outlined here, if extended throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, would be a helpful thing instead of a hurtful thing.

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, I am wondering if it would be in order to have Squire McLane from Luzerne County, who is a Justice of the Peace, explain this bill.

Mr. McLANE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is out of order.

Mr. McLANAHAN. Mr. Speaker, these cases do not have to go to court. The cases are usually settled in the offices of the Justice of the Peace. We in our district continue these cases indefinitely until we have an adjustment. There is only about one in a hundred cases that we do send to court. We are successful along that line and we save many dollars, where otherwise by going into court there are many dollars lost and there is a loss of time and loss of wages by running into court with this type of case. I don't see any sense in going into court where people have to go from a long distance, and maybe have to lay around the court for a day or two before they can be heard. It is not a matter here of saving the client's money; that is all bosh. It is a matter of somebody getting a fee for representing that client. I say this is a cruel bill to the underpaid people of this country and I hope that the gentlemen of this House will defeat this bill. I thank you.

Mr. SHEPARD. I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this bill the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Stockham.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Bucks permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STOCKHAM. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Stockham, since it has been admitted here on the floor of the House that this procedure is already followed in Allegheny and Philadelphia Counties, and since the Squire said they settled these differences in their offices in the rural districts, why do we need this bill? It will force the people in the country districts to journey to the county seats when they can settle their differences in a Justice of the Peace court and save a lot of money and time. I would like to know why this bill is necessary since the procedure is already followed in the principal counties.

Mr. STOCKHAM. Mr. Speaker, the remedies that are had and the statements that have been made on the floor today are perfectly plain. Mr. McLanahan from Beaver has admitted his position. He has attacked the question of fees. May I direct your attention, Mr. Speaker, to the fact that Justices of the Peace collect fees for his work. And may I furthermore set forth that this is an additional remedy. I would commend what the gentleman from Beaver does and the method which he pursues in his court in adjusting cases. I would direct your attention to what Mr. Brown has pointed out to you, the relationship of the law—it is an additional remedy. It does not take away from the Justice of the Peace those rights that he has, as I understand it. I would say further, being interested as I have been for years in social service, that this thought came from no less a jurist than Judge Shaeffer of Berks County, who stands out as an authority on proceedings as relating to the welfare of the people of the Commonwealth.

Mr. BRETHERICK. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the Squire from Beaver County and the Minister from Philadelphia County, they both seem to have lost sight of the fact that as a matter of fact this bill provides an additional remedy to the procedure now provided by law. This is not restricted in any sense; they still can go to the Magistrate or to a Justice of the Peace. This is just an additional remedy which is afforded to a person illy able to afford the expense involved in proceedings before a Justice of the Peace. I think the J. P.'s in this House have had no better friend so far as legislation is concerned than I. But I think this is a good piece of legislation and the Members of the House ought to vote for it, in view of the fact that it provides an addition to the remedy and procedure now provided by law.

Mr. ECKLES. Mr. Speaker, I have no desire to prolong this debate but I think perhaps I can clarify it a little bit by citing an instance in which this act will be beneficial.

We have noticed in the past few years a great many cases wherein aged parents have brought prosecution against their children for non-support. That has come about by reason of the fact that the relief authorities in certain instances hold or believe that the children of certain relief recipients are able to contribute to the support of their parents. The old person on relief is faced with the choice of either bringing a criminal prosecution against his son, his child, or foregoing his relief. A great many of those cases are pitiable because the parent does not want to have his child arrested or thrown into jail. Yet, there has got to be an adjudication in court as to whether or not the child is able to support and should support his parents. I think this is a very fine thing and instead of bringing a prosecution of that kind, a petition could be presented to the court and the court could make an adjudication. If the court decides that the parent is not responsible the relief authorities can grant him relief, and if the court decides he is responsible they can make an order.

Mr. McFALL. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to this bill and in support of the forgotten man of the law, the Justice of the Peace. I have a letter here which I received from one of them. The letter speaks of the bill and the thoughts that are in the minds of the Justices of the Peace all over the state of Pennsylvania. He addresses me as "My dear Senator." He is a couple of years out of the way, I guess, there. The letter reads as follows:

"Beg to call your attention to House Bill 1453, showing that the lawyers are working again. I trust you will fight this bill with both feet.

"I would suggest you introduce a bill preventing any more lawyers from being admitted to the Bar, so that those who now are members of the Bar can make a living without trying to take away from us what little is left.

"I know you will do your part."

Mr. Speaker, I do not know whether this man intended me to kick the lawyers in the shins or whether to jump on them with both feet. I have passed the days for that kind of warfare. I wish to say on behalf of the Justices of the Peace, that I have talked with many of them in my county about the cases that come before them and many of those cases are settled without going to court. Various couples come into the office of the Justice of the Peace mad at one another, with fire in their eyes, and after talking things over a while they come down the steps arm in arm, and when nobody is looking at them they kiss each other and they go home and start all over. You are not going to do that if these cases are allowed to go to court, because after they get rid of court procedure down there both of them will have to walk home. So, Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, I think we should give some thought to this forgotten man of the law, the Justice of the Peace, and give him a square deal and vote this bill down.

Mr. REAGAN. Mr. Speaker, I have listened to the discussion so far and I do not know which is right, the lawyers or the Justices of Peace, but it was brought home forcibly to us the other day that a Member who is interested in any bill before the House should retire. In that case I suggest that the lawyers and the justices of the peace—and also the ministers—although I don't know how they are mixed up in it, but they seem to be, retire and let the laity decide this question.

The SPEAKER. We cannot decide any question without a quorum.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I was going to suggest that perhaps all the married men would likely be interested, and perhaps they had better retire too.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Mr. HABBYSHAW offered a privileged resolution which was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, June 4th, 1941.

The lives of great men all remind us
We should make our lives sublime
And in parting leave behind us
Foot-prints on the sands of time

Thirty-seven years ago in the village of Millersburg in the County of Dauphin, there was born one who early in life made the great truth contained in the above lines, his guiding star.

He studied the lives of our Nation's great and so modeled his life as to guarantee a good name to his posterity.

He learned the value of loyalty and has steadily been loyal to friends, to his party, and to his community.

He learned the needs of his constituents and of the people of the Commonwealth and has devoted his time at great personal sacrifice to the advancement of their interests and the preservation of their rights and liberties.

He learned the real meaning of a smile and has dispensed sunshine, he discovered the value of personal friendships and has made and cherished them, and the keeping inviolate of any promise made has held first place in his personal code of conduct.

He first came to this House as a member in 1932 and has continued that membership uninterrupted by the vagaries and uncertainties of political trends.

His conduct here has commanded the admiration and held the respect of his constituency and of the members of his party so that in victory and in defeat he has been their leader on the floor of this House; therefore be it

Resolved, That the members of this House extend to the Honorable Robert E. Woodside, Jr. on this, another anniversary of his natal day, its most sincere congratulations and best wishes for many similar anniversaries, with the hope that each succeeding one may find him further on the road to the goal he has set, and his footprints more indelibly outlined in the sands of time for the guidance of those who come hereafter; and be it further Resolved, That this resolution shall be printed in the Legislative Journal and a copy thereof shall be transmitted by the Chief Clerk to the Honorable Robert E. Woodside, Jr.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside.

Mr. Woodside. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank you and the members of the House for this very kind resolution. As a matter of fact it reminds me a good bit of that old famous story about the widow who heard so many good things about the person who was lying in the casket, and she went up to look at it to make sure it was her husband.

Mr. Speaker, as I was listening to the reading of this resolution I could not imagine that they were talking about me because of the very kind and flattering words in it. I want to thank you, Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, for your kindness.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODSIDE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, since the gentleman yesterday recounted the very famous event that occurred on June 4, 1904—hearsay evidence only—I have been wondering what the score of that game was. Will the gentleman tell me?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, may I say to the gentleman first, as a lawyer, I will remind him that that is one of the eleven exceptions to the hearsay rule, to talk about what happens on your birthday. As a matter of fact I don't recall just what the score was. My recollection of that day is not very clear and my recollection of the law is not very clear. I do not think that comes within the eleven exceptions to the hearsay rule, and so I would not be qualified to give the gentleman that information.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Does anybody know what the score is?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I am inclined to believe the gentleman is right, nobody does.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I don't know what the score was on that day, but I can say this, that I have read in the family record of the Woodside family that when Robert E. Woodside, Jr. appeared he didn't have any clothes on, he didn't have any teeth, he didn't have any hair and he could hardly see. He has made a lot of improvement since that time. Yesterday he looked like one of the bearded wonders. He got scraped today on his birthday, I guess. He has accumulated a lot of hair and if he sticks around with Bill Habbyslaw he is going to accumulate a lot of bad ideas.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. DIX asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I expect to take only a couple of minutes and I hope there will be no interruptions. Having served as a Member of the House for three sessions, it has been my ambition to have some kind of a bill passed, but I have been very unfortunate in that respect. I realize that as a Member of the House, it is a very important thing and an honor to have your name attached to any bill. Mr. Speaker, I might say I would feel highly honored if I had a bill of some kind under my sponsorship. However, I realize that this House has not accomplished very much in the past five months, in fact, it has not accomplished anything. However, the gentleman from Delaware a short time ago introduced a bill in this House which is known as House Bill No. 1275½, Printer's No. 463½, introduced in the session of 1941 of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania by the Honorable Benjamin James. Mr. James in a footnote made this statement, "This act shall become effective soon as a co-sponsor can be found who can contribute a tune and fifty cents to cover expenses." Mr. Speaker, as a co-sponsor, I have furnished a tune and I am about to furnish the fifty cents to Mr. James. You gentlemen have lying on your desks a copy of that tune and I now present to Mr. James the contribution which he demands as a result of having the bill passed in my favor. I would like to have a page boy deliver this letter to him and also the fifty cents. Inasmuch as the Democrats would not let me pass a bill, I want to thank him for letting me be a co-sponsor to House Bill 1275½ with my reply in House Bill 23 skidoo. Thank you.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. JAMES asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I understand it would be a violation of my oath as a Member of this Body if I accepted or received or gave money in exchange for the passage of any kind of legislation. I therefore in full view of this body clear my name of any such thing by returning forthwith to Mr. Dix his fifty cents.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman send the fifty cents to the desk?

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, I was about to request that inasmuch as the Member would not comply with the provisions of this bill, he send the money to the desk with the permission to the Chair to distribute it as he saw fit.

The SPEAKER. It will go to a good charity.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. TARR. Mr. Speaker I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Fayette will state his question of information.

Mr. TARR. Mr. Speaker, since the gentleman from Wayne, Mr. Dix has now offered a bribe in the presence of witnesses in the House, I wonder if it might be in order to ask leave of the House to go to the Legislative Reference Bureau and request it to draw up a resolution asking for his expulsion from this House.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, if it produces the same results as the very recent attempt to expel a Member, I will be very grateful.

We bow in Thy presence, Our Heavenly Father, with gratitude in our hearts that Thou hast given us knowledge of Thyself and Thou hast given us the means of access unto Thee, that we can come to Thee in the hour of need and ask for Thy guidance and Thy direction. We do feel, Our Heavenly Father, in hours like this when there is confusion and turmoil in the world, when there is bewilderment in the minds of men, we need the guidance of Thy thinking for us. So we ask in this morning hour, Our Heavenly Father, that Thy spirit may guide us in all our thoughts, that they may be in accordance with Thy will, that what we say and what we do shall have the sanction of Thy blessing. We ask it in Thy name. Amen.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, like the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, I too have a graduation exercise to attend, as one of my children is graduating, but I do not need three days; it comes on the tenth and I should like to have leave of absence for myself for June 10th.

Mr. EALY. I have a daughter being graduated, Mr. President, but I am afraid I will have to be here and therefore shall not ask for leave of absence.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise on a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I think I should say that I rise on a question of personal privilege, but, in fact, I do not think the privilege should be confined to me personally. Unfortunately, I have been engaged in the trial of a case, which I could not not avoid, during the beginning of this week, and from which I have been excused for the day.

Coming up last night I read some statements which disturbed me considerably. As a member of this body I have been listening, for almost the entire session, to one of the members of this Senate, on this side of the Senate, by innuendo and sometimes by almost direct statements, first talking about his own personal integrity, and then either by innuendo or direct statements challenge the integrity of the members of this Senate.

This body has an important function to play in public life, each member has an important duty, a public duty, and therefore for myself, and I am sure many of my colleagues too had the feeling that to enter into a personal debate on matters of that kind with people who have that type of mind would be rather a waste of time and might not get us anywhere. My own feeling was that in any event our own consciences would be sufficient comfort to us and we would know whether any attention should be paid to that, so far as we personally were concerned, in our relationship to our public duty.

Charges have been made against a party, the Democratic Party, but even that, in my opinion, was not of sufficient importance to delay the progress of important legislative duties of each and every Senator. While I confess that upon many occasions I have with great difficulty restrained myself from taking a position, I felt that my position was justified and I hoped that it would rise no further; at least the innuendos would be the end of it, but since there has been a passage from innuendo to direct charges, I feel something ought to be said and something ought to be done, because the charge not only involves some individual members of the Legislature, or some particular political party, but to my amazement, I found in this morning's paper confirmation of the story which was brought to me, that a colleague in this Senate has charged that there is a criminal conspiracy between the leaders of the Democratic Party and some of the members of the General Assembly, and that he questions the integrity of the leaders, some leaders of the Republican Party, and he specifically states that legislation has been either fostered criminally or blocked for criminal or unlawful purposes.

Now, Mr. President, I feel that no member of the Senate can allow such a statement to go unchallenged in times like these, not because I place any credence in the charges, but because the public in times of this kind should not be disturbed by statements carelessly made and statements made for a purpose which can be questioned. In my opinion, there was no basis for the charge that either the Democratic Party or the Republican Party is interested criminally in any of the legislation that I have seen on the floor of this Senate so far. I question the value and I question the wisdom of some of the legislation that has been passed, and I have challenged frankly the attitude of the Republican members of this Senate on occasion on their votes and the reasons for their votes—which I have a perfect right to do, but in doing so I made no reflections upon the integrity or the character of any of the persons who voted according to their convictions.

The charge that the Democratic Party or the Republican Party was personally interested in particular pieces of legislation, or in unlawfully procuring its passage or blocking its passage, is a charge which can not be ignored by a legislative body which hopes to maintain the respect of the community I charge that the statement was made purely without foundation and for political purposes. I may be wrong—I do not think so—but a man who makes such a statement should be prepared to prove it, and because I feel it is essential that he should either prove or withdraw his charges, or they should be proven to be false, so that the public will know the statements of that kind for their true value, and so that the fundamental basis of democracy, and the continuance of democracy shall not be destroyed namely, the law making body, the confidence of the people in that law-making body must be maintained, for if that is destroyed one of the main bulwarks of democracy falls, and because I feel that way about it, I challenge the gentleman's statements, and I challenge him to prove them.

Therefore, Mr. President, I am about to offer a resolution and ask its immediate adoption, for the purpose of giving him an opportunity to prove the charges.

Mr. President, I might say this is a concurrent resolution, and I should like to state further that this is not only my action, but that this action, the presentation of this resolution, is the result of a meeting of the Democratic Senators in caucus this morning, at least those Democratic Senators whom I am privileged and proud to call Democratic Senators this morning—a joint meeting of the Democratic Senators and the Democratic members of the House, and the unanimous action which I am now carrying out, is not in my own name alone, but in the name of the Democratic Party.

RESOLUTION URGING APPOINTMENT OF JOINT LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. SHAPIRO offered the following resolution which was twice read:

In the Senate, June 5, 1941.

Whereas, On June 4, 1941, on the floor of the Senate, Senator Anthony Cavalcante, a member of the Senate from Fayette County, stated that he honestly felt that a criminal conspiracy existed between Democratic political leaders and certain members of the General Assembly to stifle good legislation and permit only such legislation to pass as will benefit certain favored groups;

And Whereas, in his further remarks he also attacked the integrity of certain Republican leaders; and

Whereas, Such charges cast reflection upon the integrity of the members of the Senate and the House of Representatives; and

Whereas, The seriousness of such charges demands immediate action in the interests of the citizens of the Commonwealth to prevent the consequences of such unlawful conduct if true,

Now Therefore, Be it

Resolved, If the House concur, that a Committee of ten members be appointed, five of whom shall be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives and five of whom shall be appointed by the President pro tempore of the Senate, and the said Committee be and are hereby authorized and directed to make an immediate investigation of all of the said charges made on the floor of the Senate by the said Senator Anthony Cavalcante, in public hearings, and that the Committee shall make its report to the Legislature at the earliest possible moment before the adjournment of this session of the General Assembly, and be it further

Resolved, That the said Committee shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before them and to answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee may deem necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon an person and shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Each member of said committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee. Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to testify before said committee or to produce any books, papers, records, or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I would first like to have it understood that this resolution, as has been stated by my colleague from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, is the product of considerable conferring before we started this session. It is not, however, the product or result of action of the Democratic side of the House and the Senate alone, but the result of conferences on the part of both Democratic and Republican members in both houses.

Mr. President, this situation, in my opinion, is one of great importance, not only to the members of this body, but as well to the members of the other House of the legislature, and also to the citizens in general of this Commonwealth, and that for two reasons:

Certain charges have been made which, if substantiated, would show a deplorable condition existing in this Commonwealth, would show a condition which would lead to the undermining of the foundations of our State government, would show a condition such as which could under no circumstances be tolerated by the decent, honest, good citizens of this Commonwealth.

But, Mr. President, I am also very much interested in this resolution and in the statements made for another reason, and that is simply this: one goes on through life, spending a lifetime building, and the finest thing, Mr. President, which one can build in life is a good reputation, and that can only be built from or by one's activities, which activities are the result, for the most part, of one's character.

Mr. President, to have statements or charges made, as were made here yesterday, without giving those individuals so charged some method by which an answer can be made, or an injustice undone, would not be right and, therefore, Mr. President, I think in fairness to all the citizens of this Commonwealth, in fairness to the elected representatives of those citizens in both the House of Representatives and the Senate, and also in fairness to those individuals, not in either House of the Legislature, who have been accused, whether justly or unjustly we at this time do not know, but certainly in fairness to those individuals who have built a reputation during their lives this resolution should be passed and a complete and full investigation should be made.

Therefore, Mr. President, I second the motion of my colleague from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, asking immediate consideration of this resolution.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I believe I should say just a word about this resolution.

I was very much shocked and aggrieved yesterday, when I heard the address of Senator Cavalcante. My relations with the members of this Senate have been so pleasant and so frank and open that I could hardly believe that those words were being uttered here in the Senate. It is true the charges were most general in character—they consisted mostly of veiled innuendos—but they cast reflections on members of this Senate and members of the House.

I certainly believe those charges should be investigated, because they have caused suspicion and distrust among the people of this Commonwealth. I hope a committee can be appointed which will properly and carefully and fairly investigate these charges, doing justice to Senator Cavalcante and to the others whom he may have charged, or whom he may seek to charge with these things which he mentioned.

I heartily agree with this resolution.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—40

COMMUNICATION URGING DEFEAT OF
SENATE BILL No. 772

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is in receipt of a communication from the County Commissioners of Delaware County urging defeat of Senate Bill No. 772 which the Clerk will read and which will be spread upon the Journal.

Whereas, The City of Philadelphia has purchased for an airport a valuable piece of land located in Tinicum Township, in Delaware County, fronting on the Delaware River, comprising nine hundred thirty-four (934) acres, which is assessed for taxation at Four Hundred Fifty Thousand ($450,000.00) Dollars, and

Whereas, There is pending in the Legislature a bill known as Senate Bill No. 772 which, if passed and approved, will permit the City of Philadelphia to annex said property without giving the County of Delaware, Tinicum Township or the School District of Tinicum Township any voice in the matter, and

Whereas, One of the basic reasons for said bill is to relieve the City of Philadelphia from the payment of taxes on said property, and

Whereas, The effect of the bill will be to impose a materially heavier tax burden on the remaining taxable property in Tinicum Township and the School District of Tinicum Township, and

Whereas, The bill would be a legislative precedent for any county which has acquired title to land in an adjoining county to apply to the Legislature for the right to annex same,

Therefore, Be and It is Hereby Resolved by the Board of County Commissioners of Delaware County that the aforesaid Senate Bill No. 772 should be defeated and that the Representatives and Senator from Delaware County should not only vote against said bill but should do all in their power to defeat it, first, because it is against the interests of Delaware County, Tinicum Township and the School District of Tinicum Township, and second, because there is no sound reason why when a county or municipality acquires title to land in an adjoining county it should be permitted to annex same to escape taxation particularly without giving the county or municipality in which the land is located any voice in the matter.

The foregoing is a true and correct copy of resolution adopted at a regular meeting of the County Commissioners held June 4, 1941, as the same appears on minutes of said meeting.

WILLIAM H. DUNCAN, Chief Clerk.

In the Senate, June 5, 1941.

Whereas, On June 4, 1941, on the floor of the Senate, Senator Anthony Cacalcante, a member of the Senate from Fayette County, stated that he honestly felt that a criminal conspiracy existed between Democratic political leaders and certain members of the General Assembly to stifle good legislation and permit only such legislation to pass as will benefit certain favored groups; and

Whereas, In his further remarks he also attacked the integrity of certain Republican leaders; and

Whereas, Such charges cast reflection upon the integrity of the members of the Senate and the House of Representatives, and

Whereas, The seriousness of such charges demands immediate action in the interest of the citizens of the Commonwealth to prevent the consequences of such unlawful conduct if true, now therefore be it

Resolved (if the House concur). That a committee of ten members be appointed, five of whom shall be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives and five of whom shall be appointed by the President pro tempore of the Senate, and the said Committee be and are hereby authorized and directed to make an immediate investigation of all of the said charges made on the floor of the Senate by the said Senator Anthony Cavalcante, in public hearings, and that the Committee shall make its report to the Legislature at the earliest possible moment before the adjournment of this session of the General Assembly, and be it further

Resolved, That the said Committee shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before them and to answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the Committee and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee may deem necessary. Each member of said committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee. Gracious God, teach us to be friendly with all people. Give each of us an understanding and appreciative heart that we may generously give of ourselves to the development and happiness of all those we meet on the highway of life. May we, O God, belong to that inner circle that knows, and understands, that encourages and forgives, and that loves as Thou hast taught man to love.

May it please Thee to grant God speed to each member of this House as he returns to his home and loved ones. Whatever mysteries of life come to us until we meet again in this place, we pray Thee give us grace, give us courage, give us sympathetic and understanding hearts. May we put our trust in Thee, in Christ's name we pray. Amen.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1686, as follows:

An Act relating to certain civil rights and liabilities of persons in the armed service of the United States providing for the suspension of the enforcement of certain civil liabilities providing for the re-employment of such persons upon completion of such service and imposing penalties

It has been nationally recognized that because of the emergent conditions which are threatening the peace and imperilling the security of the nation there is imperative need to augment and strengthen the national defense. It is further recognized that the emergent conditions which endanger the national well-being likewise constitutes an imminent threat and hazard to the peace and security of the people of the Commonwealth. Moreover it is acknowledged that the exigencies of national defense requires that the people of the Commonwealth in large numbers be called into armed service and as a consequence the health, prosperity and welfare of all of the people of the Commonwealth is inevitably affected.

In these circumstances and in order to promote and to assist the national defense and thereby to protect the peace, prosperity and health of the people of the Commonwealth it is necessary that citizens and residents of the Commonwealth in the armed service of the United States should be free to devote their entire energy and effort to the defense needs of the nation. To assist in this end it is essential to provide in certain cases for the temporary suspension of legal proceedings and transactions which may prejudice the civil rights of persons in such service. It is further essential in the interest of the prosperity and well-being of the people of the Commonwealth that such persons upon completion of armed service be restored to their former employment.

In the interpretation and application of this act it is hereby declared to be the public policy of the Commonwealth to maintain secure and protect the civil and property rights of persons in the armed service as hereinafter defined.

The legislature hereby declares the existence of a public emergency affecting the health, safety and comfort of the people requiring the enactment of the provisions of this act to protect the vital interests of the Commonwealth.

All the provisions of this act shall be liberally construed for the accomplishment of this purpose.

This act shall be deemed an exercise of the police power of the Commonwealth for the protection of the public welfare, prosperity, health and peace of the people of the Commonwealth.

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows:

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Fayette will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. MATTHEW J. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, if there is anything that cries to heaven for vengeance, it is the sin of ingratitude. I have in mind one whose evil-minded, insinuating remarks pertaining to an unfortunate accident—remarks that emanated from a whispering pussy-footer of peculiar make-up who is contaminated with the virus of ignorance and saturated with the rottenness of ingratitude. I wish to remind this particular individual (not of favors bestowed upon him) but that no prattle coming from him will in any way detract one iota from my record as a citizen, a legislator and a defender of my Country on the field of battle—for there is my record seared by fire and sealed by blood.

I regret that I have to make these remarks, for I fully realize it is a waste of lather to shave an ass.

MR. WOODSIDE IN THE CHAIR.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed upon the postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

RESOLUTION

RESPONDING TO ROLL CALL

Messrs. HOLLAND and HABBYSKAW offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent that it be read for the information of the House.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, June 5, 1941.

The soothing drone of the reading clerk's melodious voice ripples forth over the heads of busy, industrious and very tired and sometimes so sleepy members of the more important branch of Pennsylvania's law making assembly. And thus laws are made.

To these members, in various postures of extreme relaxation, the call of the roll suggests the cradle roll of their childhoods—and cradles suggest comfort and sleep—or maybe just lack of concern—anything but the need to answer to one's name when called.

And so a bill is passed that should have been amended, or a bill falls that should have passed. Bills are recalled. Votes are reconsidered. Time is wasted. Needless printing is done. And the cost of legislation keeps on mounting; therefore, be it

Resolved, That in order that our membership may be alert and come in strong on the home stretch of this long session, there is hereby imposed a fine of one dollar on each member failing to answer to his name on any roll call, unless he has been previously excused from attendance on the session at which such roll is called; such fine to be paid in cash to the Speaker of the House, and by him paid into the funds of the United Service Organizations to aid in the operation of service clubs for our soldiers and sailors.

The SPEAKER. The resolution is referred to the Committee on Rules.

COMMITTEE AMENDMENTS TO HOUSE BILL 675 WITHDRAWN

Mr. SCANLON. Mr. Speaker, House Bill 675, Printer's No. 137, which was reported out of the Committee on Professional Licensure this morning was amended in error. It does not make sense. It strikes out the words "the practice of nursing requiring a license as a licensed nurse within the meaning of this act is defined as follows" and puts the same thing back again. I ask unanimous consent to withdraw that amendment.

The SPEAKER. House bill No. 675, Printer's No. 137, was reported from the Committee on Professional Licensure this morning with amendments. The amendments are not properly placed in the bill. Section 13, page 9, line 21 is amended by striking out "the practice of nursing requiring a license as a licensed nurse within the meaning of this act is defined as follows" and adding at line 22 the words "the practice of nursing requiring a license as a licensed attendant within the meaning of this act is defined as follows".

The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Scanlon, as Chairman of the Committee on Professional Licensure requests unanimous consent to withdraw the amendment which the Chair has read. Is there objection? The Chair hears no objection and the amendment is withdrawn.

DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask consent of the House to hold a Democratic Caucus for thirty minutes in the House Caucus Room.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. WOODSIDE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to inform the Republican Members that we expect to have a dinner caucus on Monday, June 9, at six o'clock, Daylight Saving Time, in the Harrisburger Hotel. They will not get their notices today and I thought the Members ought to know about it before they left.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the Chair will declare a recess until 12:30 p. m. for the purpose of holding a Democratic Caucus. The Chair hears none and a recess is declared.

AFTER RECESS

The House reconvened at 12:30 p. m.

THE SPEAKER (ELMER KILROY) IN THE CHAIR

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. ACHTERMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House,

Mr. Speaker, yesterday on the floor of the Senate I am advised Senator Cavalcante made certain claims and allegations to the effect that certain Democratic leaders and certain members of the General Assembly had conspired or entered into a criminal conspiracy for the passage of certain legislation. At the same time, Mr. Speaker, he also attacked the integrity of certain Republican leaders. While it is my personal opinion that the Senator was very irresponsible, or is very irresponsible for the statements he made, in view of the fact that the attack is an attack upon the integrity of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, I feel it is one statement this House and the Senate should not for a moment overlook, but rather that a very thorough and careful investigation be made, to the end that if the statements be true punishment be meted out to those whom he alleges have entered into a criminal conspiracy. On the other hand if it be shown that the statements are not correct or true or are not substantiated, then this House as well as the state of Pennsylvania may know that the statements were those of an irresponsible individual.

Mr. Speaker, to that end, I now offer a resolution and ask unanimous consent of the House to have it read and considered immediately.

COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE CHARGES MADE IN SENATE

Mr. ACHTERMAN offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration:

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, June 5, 1941.

Whereas, on June 4, 1941, on the floor of the Senate, Senator Anthony Cavalcante, a member of the Senate from Fayette County, stated that he honestly felt that a criminal conspiracy existed between Democratic political leaders and certain members of the General Assembly to stifle good legislation and permit only such legislation to pass as will benefit certain favored groups;

And Whereas, in his further remarks he also attacked the integrity of certain Republican leaders; and

Whereas, such charges cast reflection upon the integrity of the members of the Senate and the House of Representatives, and

Whereas, the seriousness of such charges demands immediate action in the interests of the citizens of the Commonwealth to prevent the consequences of such unlawful conduct if true,

Now Therefore, Be it

Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to testify before said committee or to produce any books, papers, records, or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. MELCHIORRE. Mr. Speaker, I earnestly request this House to give its unanimous approval to the Joint Resolution offered by the Majority Floor Leader. As one of those mentioned, I heartily welcome a resolution of this kind, and I again ask the unanimous support of both the Democratic and Republican Members of this House.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the Republicans of this House being in accord with the purpose of this resolution favor its adoption.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for its concurrence.

BILL ON FIRST READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1798, entitled:

An Act setting up a procedure for the adoption of annual budget ordinances in cities of the second class A.

And said bill having been read at length the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. FLYNN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in defense of House Bill No. 611 which passed this House today, but unfortunately due to a previous engagement I did not happen to be here, and I would like to make a statement.

The purpose of House Bill 611 is one that deserves the earnest and favorable consideration of this House. This bill provides for the State to permanently protect and preserve Rickett's Glen, one of Pennsylvania's loveliest landmarks. This glen, with its small but surpassingly beautiful section of primeval forest, its twenty-five waterfalls, and the surrounding territory that has become an integral part of it, has a rare and distinctive charm, different from anything else in the State or in the whole nation. It already attracts throngs of visitors both from within and without the State every season. With the same kind of development, management, and publicity that has made our other State Parks into major attractions for the tourist trade, bringing hundreds of millions of dollars of new business into our Commonwealth, I do not hesitate to predict that in years to come Rickett's Glen will stand at, or near the head of the list of Pennsylvania's natural attractions.

You may wonder why one who earns his livelihood from the lumber business, should advocate the passage of a bill to preserve a section of virgin timber from unrestricted lumbering. I have a number of reasons for doing this.

First, because my daily occupation brings me into close and intimate contact with the forest, and I know better than most men the real charm and beauty of our streams and forests, and the lasting benefits of health, strength, and renewed mental vigor they can confer upon those who spend some time among them. Lumbering is a necessary business and will continue to be so as long as men continue to build, repair, and furnish homes, offices, and factories. It is the one business more than any other, to which our State owes the early growth and development which built our cities and farm houses, and paved the way for the later expansion of our industrial centers, lifting Pennsylvania into the front rank of the nation's manufacturing States. The lumber business holds a prominent place in the history of our State, and it is altogether fitting and proper that we should preserve this outstanding example of forest growth to remind our own and future generations of one of the principal industries of Pennsylvania's early days. I want those benefits and reminders preserved for purely sentimental reasons.

My second reason has nothing to do with sentiment. On the contrary, it deals with the purely business angle. The man who throws away a good income producing asset would be justly subject to criticism as a poor business man. What then should we think of a State that does exactly the same thing? What would our constituents think of us if we were to go home to them and say that we threw away a chance to acquire for them an asset that may well be instrumental in bringing into the State more than a million dollars a year in new business, especially when the initial money cost of that asset is but an insignificant fraction of that sum? Remember that if we were to set out to make an artificial reproduction of this natural asset, it would cost millions of dollars to build the waterfalls alone, and the virgin trees would be inobtainable at any price. Here nature has given us the asset without a penny of cost, and with only a little care and management, the sun and the rain, and the seasons, will provide the maintenance forever, at no expense to us.

Does anyone question the value of this asset to Pennsylvania in dollar-revenue of tourist business? If so, let him look up the statistics of the Federal and State reports on the amount of new business brought into this State and other States in the past few years by our rapidly expanding tourist travel. He will very quickly find that the increase runs up into the hundreds of millions of dollars, and that Pennsylvania has more than three times the amount of tourist business of Florida, and more than eight times that of Maine, two of the most extensively advertised summer and winter resorts of the Nation. Are we going to deliberately throw away an asset that can aid still more millions of dollars to our tourist income every year?

I know we are told on every hand that we must conserve every possible dollar for the appropriation schedule of National Defense. This will call for untold millions of dollars in taxes. What better use is there for tax revenue than the investment of a small amount in a productive asset that will bring in a large amount of new business and thus help to provide additional income to pay the increased cost of National Defense taxation.

But we have also a still greater responsibility than that of merely providing money for National Defense. We must preserve and develop the things that make this great State and Nation of ours worth defending. We must not fail to look ahead with a long view of the situation that will be confronting us, and provide the opportunities for recreation that will help our men and women to maintain the physical and mental health and stamina so vitally needed. They must have recreation to help prevent the hysteria and physical strain of this modern war of nerves and machines, and where, I ask you, can they get better and healthier recreation than among the cool, quiet, peaceful surroundings of such a forest area as Rickett's Glen? In this most important respect, it is highly essential to National Defense that such places be made freely accessible to the public. No place could be more appropriate to the purpose than Rickett's Glen.

In 1864, when Colonel Ricketts required title to his estate in Sullivan County, now known as Rickett's Glen, he was seeking sanctuary from the horrors of a war just ended. Today, men's nerves are again upset with war and rumors of war, with fears of what the future holds for this country, and anxiety for their families. Once more men seek to forget, if only for a day, this troubled world.

Men and women with tired nerves and weary bodies do not look to cities for rest and relaxation. They are on the battle front of the defense effort. When they dream of complete peace of mind they call up a vision of cool running water, tall old trees, green fields, and the clear soft blue of a country sky. It is in our power to provide such a sanctuary, within easy motoring distance of most of our great industrial cities. We do not hesitate to provide sanctuaries for wild life. Any one of us would think twice before saying No, to a suggestion that we preserve the birds and animals of our State. Should we not then do as much for our fellow men and women?

We also have a great responsibility to the youth of our State and Nation. We must save for them the ideals of a country they can love and work for, and if need be, fight and die for. We must show them that we are ready to protect the America of that immortal song which bears its name, and those "rocks and rills," those "woods and templed hills," it has made dear to every true American heart, young and old.

On my way to Harrisburg I pass through many towns that display signs "Drive Carefully, We Love Our Children." Those children are the future hope of America. De we care enough for them to give them an equal chance with the birds of the air and the beasts of the fields? Do we care enough to preserve for them a forest fairyland in summer and winter, something to dream of, to return to year after year, as they grow to manhood and womanhood, proud to be citizens of the State that provided it for them? We must not only "Drive Carefully" because "We Love Our Children," we must also "Think Carefully" if we want our children to love us and grow up to be sane, level-headed Americans in a world rife with man's inhumanity to man. Let us give them a chance to be proud to be Americans, proud to live in a land worth defending, a true Democracy of the people, by the people, and for the people.

We cheerfully provide sanctuary for the wildlife of America; shall we not do as much for the child life of America? Fellow Members of this House, I call upon you in the name of the present and future generations of Americans, to save this fairyland of the forest for all time to come, by supporting House Bill 611 to take over Rickett's Glen.

FORMER MEMBER WELCOMED

QUESTION OF INQUIRY

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Blair will state his question of inquiry.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, has there been a conference committee appointed by the House on Senate Bill 472, House Bill 690, Printer's No. 824, commonly known as the trucking bill?

The SPEAKER. There has been no conference committee appointed on the part of the House.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, has the House concurred or non-concurred in the Senate amendments to that bill?

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Blair the House non-concurred in the Senate amendments to House Bill 390 this morning, but no conference committee has been appointed. The bill is not now in the possession of the House.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, would it be in order when the conferees are appointed, if this bill goes to conference which no doubt it will, to have the conferees on that conference committee of the House instructed that they shall take no action in conference until after the investigation is made pursuant to the resolution adopted this afternoon?

The SPEAKER. There is nothing we can do at this time. The bill is not before the House.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, would it be in order at the time the conferees are appointed by this House, if they are appointed, to have such instructions made at that time?

The SPEAKER. The House has the power to instruct its own conferees, but that will have to be done at the time the bill is before the House.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, would that have to take the form of a motion made before the House that the conferees be so instructed?

The SPEAKER. It will have to be in the form of a written motion.

Mr. AUKER. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. HARKINS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I rise to inform the House that next week Flag Day will be celebrated throughout the state and throughout the nation in many schools and various institutions in a patriotic manner.

I believe, Mr. Speaker, it would be advisable and fitting for us to pause in our duties as legislators for a few moments next week in order to have some fitting celebration in the Hall of the House, and in order that this subject may be brought before the Members of the House for their consideration I propose that we invite the Chairman of the Military Affairs Committee, the Honorable Matthew J. Welsh, from the County of Fayette, to deliver a patriotic address in the Hall of the House on next Monday evening. Those of us who have heard Mr. Welsh in the past, I am sure, will be happy to vote for my motion to request him to address us on next Monday evening.

Mr. Speaker, I move that the House invite the Honorable Matthew J. Welsh to deliver an address to us on Monday evening next.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Allegheny, the motion is not in order. It has the effect of creating a special order of business. Does the gentleman wish to make that a special order of business.

SPECIAL ORDER OF BUSINESS

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House make it a special order of business.

The SPEAKER. For what time?

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, any time that is suitable to the Chair.

The SPEAKER. The specific time must be stated.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I suggest then fifteen minutes after we convene, at 8:15 p. m. Eastern Standard Time.

On the question.

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, before voting on this motion I would like to know who is going to censor the speech Matthew Welsh is going to make.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, in view of the early hour at which the address is scheduled I see no reason to have any fear about his speech. I am quite sure it will be unnecessary to have it censored.

On the question recurring.

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

MR. TURNER IN THE CHAIR.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS offered the following prayer:

O God, who art perfect in wisdom and knowledge, justice and mercy, glory and honor, we pray Thee send Thy light to shine upon our darkened ways. Our vision has been obscured by the magnitude of our sins. Our horizon of national endeavor has been lowered by the vitiating of our common ideals. Our patriotic fervor has been dampened by the impact of foreign ideals. Our scales of equity and fairness and sound judgment have been unbalanced by the desires of personal aggrandizement. We face drastic changes in our national life with each succeeding day.

Each of us know, O God, as we face these tremendous changes, that we can not bring our Ship of State safely into harbor without Thy help nor find our proper way without Thy direction. Burn these convictions into the consciousness of America in Thine own way e'er the night of paganism reigns supreme in our land and we become numbered with Thine unalterable transgressors.

Hear us, O God of our Fathers, as we beseech Thee for divine aid in all our tasks here and in every Legislature and the Congress and in the hearts of all our people. For Thy name's sake. Amen.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Fayette will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, when the "Box-Car" trucking Bill was before this Senate for final passage, on June 4th, of last week, I made certain remarks which now are indelibly written in the Senate Journal. Those remarks were made deliberately and with a full knowledge of their significance. They were uttered for the express purpose of placing before the members of this Senate and the people of this Commonwealth a most revolting condition. With a full knowledge of what I then said and what I am about to say, I do now, with all my deliberation and thought reaffirm those remarks. Those and the following remarks are made in fulfillment of my constitutional duty as a Senator to the people of this Commonwealth.

Mr. President, the framers of our present State Constitution, fearful of the intimidation that might be exercised by political and external forces, wisely and judiciously inserted in the Constitution the following provision:

"The members of the General Assembly shall in all cases, except treason, felony, violation of their oath of office, and breach or surety of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the sessions of their respective Houses and in going to and from the same; and for any speech or debate in either House they shall not be questioned in any other place."

This provision was unmistakably intended to encourage open speech and debate on the floors of the General Assembly in order that people might be fully and at all times properly informed or forewarned of impending danger to their interests. The framers of the Constitution acted wisely and with the knowledge of the past when they gave this constitutional protection to the members of the General Assembly against political or predatory intimidation.

Mr. President, I am today warned by newspapers printed in every corner of this Commonwealth that certain influential and powerful groups and interests, operating in and about these Assembly Halls, have flagrantly and, with what seems to be reckless abandon, undertaken to batter down, overthrow and cast aside this traditional and constitutional safeguard.

Since my absence from the Capitol over the week-end, I have read in the newspapers the alarming news that a certain joint Legislative Committee has been appointed to conduct an investigation. Let us analyze the history and circumstances that have lead up to the creation of this unusual Committee. I am reliably informed that shortly after I made those remarks "legislative halls buzzed early and loudly with activities . . . First, House and Senate Democrats met in caucus with National Committeeman David L. Lawrence and voted to initiate the inquiry. The Minority Floor Leader Harry Shapiro conferred with President Pro Tem Charles H. Ealy and announced Republicans would join in support of the move."

In addition to the National Democratic Committeeman's activities in this regard, I am also reliably informed that State Democratic Chairman Meredith Myers has publicly stated:

"I favor an immediate and searching investigation of Cavalcante's charges and, if they are found without formation, as I know they will be, that Senator Cavalcante be held strictly accountable."

From this, Mr. President, I am warranted in assuming that the Democratic National Committeeman played no little part in initiating the movement that has resulted in the creation of this joint Legislative Committee. I am also warranted in believing from the remarks publicly made by the State Democratic Chairman, that he has already prejudged the case. The activities and assertions of these two powerful Democratic leaders show very little regard for the integrity and independence of any Committee whose creation they were initiating. Speaking with due respect and courtesy of the members of this Committee, I trust that no person will deny me the right to feel concerned over its membership. The record shows that with the exception of two gentlemen from the lower House this Committee, in its entirety, is composed of members who voted in favor of the "Box-Car" Bill. I trust that no man will judge me wrongfully for questioning the propriety of placing on this Committee the Chairman of the Sub-Committee that considered the Bill in the Senate Committee on Highways and whose activity in behalf of the passage of the bill is of personal knowledge to myself.

However, Mr. President, I am firmly convinced that a Committee such as here created can be of little benefit to the people of this Commonwealth if it is to batter down and cast aside the traditional and constitutional safeguard of members of the General Assembly.

I do not know how many members of this Committee attended the expensive dinner and notorious floor show given by the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association at the time the Bill was in the lower House. But, each member of this Committee can conscientiously and on the floor of this Senate answer that question for himself. And it seems to me that this is a duty that each member owes to his colleagues and to the people of this Commonwealth. A Committee so created can be of little benefit to the people of this Commonwealth if non-legislative political leaders are permitted, directly or indirectly, to seal the mouths of members of this General Assembly under threats of expulsion or impeachment. I shall, with all the ability at my command, from the floor of this Senate, give this Committee all the necessary information which, if diligently pursued, will lead the Committee to a situation so revolting that all sober and honest men will commend them for their efforts.

At this time, Mr. President, I will lay before you proof, positive that "a tremendous amount of money" was necessary to effect the passage of the "Box-Car" trucking Bill. I now read into the Journal of this Senate a document issued by the Allegheny County Chapter of the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association. This document is my private and personal property which I will not permit to leave my possession. I will, however, at the conclusion of my remarks, furnish to the President of the Senate and members of the press a true and correct copy of the document. The original I will gladly show to any member of this Senate, or to any joint or separate investigating Committee now created or hereafter created in a legal and constitutional manner.

Mr. President, I now read into the record the following document:

SENATORS FROM ALLEGHENY COUNTY

Edward R. Frey, 354 Bailey Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.
 James A. Geltz, Clearview Rd., Franklin Twp., P. O., Ingomar.
 Bernard B. McGinnis, 12 E. North Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.
 Joseph M. Barr, 619 S. Negley Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.
 John M. Walker, 359 Penna. Ave., Oakmont, Pa.
 John Fremont Cox, 3815 Main St., Munhall P. O., Homestead."

Mr. President, this document mentions only a small fraction of those who have paid "cash on the barrel head" to obtain the passage of the "Box-Car" trucking Bill. There are sixty-seven counties in this Commonwealth and within them is also comprised the metropolitan centers of Pittsburgh and Philadelphia. In these latter two centers the trucking industry is the most rich and powerful. In addition to this, Mr. President, I am reliably told that the trucking industry outside of the state have contributed to this "tremendous amount of money" to stage the battle that is necessary to succeed. I repeat, Mr. President, that it is common knowledge that the trucking industry has been called upon to pay "cash on the barrel head" in order to obtain the passage of legislation which they, by their own arguments, say is necessary to the people of this Commonwealth.

I call upon all sober and honest men within and out of this General Assembly to say why "a tremendous amount of money" is necessary to sponsor and promote sound and needful legislation.

I do not have the power of visitation into the records of the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association. I do not have inquisitorial powers. Those powers are reposed by our Constitution in the Governor and the Attorney-General of this Commonwealth. I would recommend to them and all others at this time to make haste to exercise these powers so that the records of this rich and powerful organization may be immediately seized in order that the magnitude of the "tremendous amount of money" collected by them and paid on the "barrel head" in connection with this Bill, can be made known to the people of this Commonwealth.

Permit me, Mr. President, to assure my colleagues of this Senate that I shall within the next week place before them another phase of this revolting situation.

In conclusion, I do earnestly hope and pray that the members of this General Assembly as well as any joint or separate Legislative Committee constitutionally created will not prejudice the case as has been done by the State Democratic Chairman, but allow me, here from the floor of this Senate and in my own way under the Constitution, to place before this body and the people of this Commonwealth the additional phases of this most revolting situation.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE SENATE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia, will proceed.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I am quite aware, and so is every Senator, of the constitutional provisions and protection of a member of this body, and also of the prohibition against questioning a member of this body on a speech made in the body. That, however, does not prevent any committee from calling before it any member of the Senate and inquiring whether he has certain information in connection with any matter under investigation. However, the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, has asked for permission to make his statements here on the floor of the Senate.

Mr. President. I am not concerned at this time with the fact that organizations have raised money from their membership for the purpose of fostering a bill. I have called attention to that on several occasions and I agree, and have frequently said on the floor of this Senate, that the gathering of large sums of money for the purpose of fostering a bill may be of questionable character, but as I read the statements of the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante last week and re-read them again today, the charges were not that large sums of money were gathered together by associations for the purpose of fostering this bill but, and I will quote from a transcript of his statement "It is publicly admitted that persons having private indirect interests in the passage of this bill are members of this General Assembly."

Secondly that "the corrupt and venal Democratic leadership of Philadelphia and Allegheny make no secret of their lust for the cash that the corrupt Republican leadership of Pew and Grundy have placed on the barrel-head."

Not that members of any association had placed money on the barrel-head but that the corrupt gentlemen named Pew and Grundy have placed money on the barrel-head.

Mr. President, in view of the gentleman's statement that he has certain constitutional privileges, which I recognize, I wish to make the following motion:

MOTION THAT SENATE RESOLVE INTO COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I move you, for the purpose of giving the gentleman an opportunity to tell this Senate, first, who are the members of this General Assembly who displayed no shame or hesitancy about promoting the passage of this legislation, having private indirect interests in it and, secondly, when, where and how and for what purpose the gentlemen named Pew and Grundy have placed money on the barrel-head, that this Senate resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole and hear the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, give us here and now the statement which he should have had, the information which he should have had in his possession, and which I assume he must have had, before he made the charges which bring in disrepute members of the community, such as Pew and Grundy, and members of the General Assembly—not next week, not next month, but here and now—to tell us the basis of such a very important and serious charge, that members of the General Assembly have an interest in this legislation and that Pew and Grundy have placed money on the barrel-head.

I therefore move you, Mr. President, that the Senate resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole for that purpose.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President. I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. STEVENSON. Mr. President, may I ask the Senator from Fayette why he persists in his refusal to come before the Joint Committee? Do I understand you to say that you would not appear before a Joint Committee of the House and the Senate?

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Fayette permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I have deliberately placed in writing what I care to say at this particular time. As I have already stated, within the structure of the Constitution and in my own way and in my own time, from the floor of this Senate, I shall give further information.

Mr. STEVENSON. Mr. President, I am not quite clear on that answer.

May I ask the Senator from Fayette again whether he refuses to come before the special committee?

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Fayette permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Please repeat the question.

Mr. STEVENSON. Mr. President, I want to ask the Senator from Fayette whether he refuses to appear before the Joint Committee as created by the Senate and the House of Representatives.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I know of no committee until this time but what I have read in the newspapers. I had not been subpoenaed or been given notice by any committee until I was on my way to the Senate floor from my hotel room, when a sergeant-at-arms of this Senate handed me a paper and said "this is a subpoena." I have the subpoena in my brief case which, after I have attended to my constitutional duties before this Senate, I shall at leisure read and give my answer.

Mr. STEVENSON. Mr. President, the Senator from Fayette has raised a question in the minds of the Senators as to the personnel of this committee. He has asked whether or not the members of this committee were present at this truckers' banquet. As for myself, I desire to answer I was not present at that meeting.

I am prepared, Mr. President, and if the Senator from Fayette is willing to produce evidence before this committee, furnish us with leads, I assure him there will be no whitewashing, that this committee intends to conduct this investigation in an impartial manner.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President. I should like to say, in connection with the statements of the Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, until he answers certain questions which I think are pertinent, no one in this assembly has a right to sit on any committee because he has charged, without mentioning names, that persons having private indirect interests in the passage of this bill are members of this General Assembly and therefore. Mr. President, it seems to me pertinent that this is the time to have the question answered as to who they are. The statement was not made on information or belief; it was a direct statement that members of this General Assembly are interested in this bill.

Under those circumstances, Mr. President, every member of this General Assembly may feel that he himself is accused, and under those circumstances I think here and now is the time to have an answer to the question and I ask that my motion be acted upon.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, the same argument would apply, in my judgment, that is, the one just used by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro, in connection with a Committee of the Whole and I for one am opposed to this motion, since there has been by resolution created a Joint Committee for investigating this matter, until such time as Senator Cavalcante has been given an opportunity to appear before the Joint Committee. I understand that arrangements have been made for this evening. Senator Cavalcante has not, at least in direct words, said that he would not appear before the Joint Committee, and until such time as he has been given that opportunity I do not believe this matter should be pressed insofar as a Committee of the Whole is concerned.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I make the suggestion that I think it is bad policy for this Senate to permit this matter to become a serial, so that next week or next Thursday or this coming Thursday the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, can appear and make some more statements. He has reiterated the statements that he made and if he reads a dozen lists of contributors such as he read here today he will be adding nothing new to the knowledge of the members of the Senate. Everyone knows organizations exist, that organizations sponsor legislation and organizations collect money to sponsor legislation. The charge is not made that organizations do that and that is not the basis of the charge.

The charge was made that those organizations, or somebody else—Messrs. Pew and Grundy and members of the House—have given and received some of that money, having personal interest in it, and it strikes me with the newspapers carrying the gentleman from Fayette's statement today, there ought to be a prompt answer from this Senate, and that is, that the gentleman who comes here pleading his constitutional privilege and refuses to answer any questions as to whether he will attend the meeting, or say that he will answer questions, should be promptly given the opportunity to answer those questions, and those questions should be put to him promptly.

I do not believe in a situation such as this any time should be allowed to elapse, because the statements I read are specific charges made, and should only have been made if the person making them was in possession of sufficient information to warrant making those charges.

No one within the sound of my voice can believe that, having stated that—he reiterates those statements—the gentleman would have made those statements unless he was prepared to say who are the members of the General Assembly who have an interest in this bill, and when and where the money was paid on the barrel by Pew and Grundy. Time is of the essence and that should be asked here and now. Had I been here on Wednesday, I would have asked the gentleman then to give the names of the persons to whom he referred as members of the Senate, and tell us when and where the money was paid on the barrel, and that is why I am in favor of hearing it now. There is no assurance that this gentleman will appear. He could have answered the questions of the gentleman from Clinton, Senator Stevenson, yes or no, and I think now is the time to get an answer.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, it seems to me this is a matter that should be decided somewhat from a calm viewpoint. Last week we, after considerable discussion in conference, decided on a method of procedure. We took certain steps in line with that method of procedure.

Now, Mr. President, certainly it is not my intention to have this matter put off from day to day, nor week to week. However, it is our intention to recess some time later this afternoon until some time tonight. In the meantime, as I understand, there has been a meeting set by the Joint Committee at seven o'clock, standard time, and it seems to me the proper way to proceed would be to give the Senator from Fayette County an opportunity to appear, as he has been requested or demanded to appear, at seven o'clock standard time, this evening, at the meeting of the Joint Committee.

If then an appearance is not made, in the Session tonight this same matter can be taken up and a motion made to resolve into a Committee of the Whole, but I do not think, since the procedure, the proper procedure, in my judgment has already been instituted and started, that we should disrupt that machinery and start off on some new policy or some new plan.

Mr. MUNDY.. Mr. President, may I interrogate the Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante?

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Fayette permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I will not permit myself to be interrogated at this time. I assure the gentleman from Luzerne that all the information that he is seeking will be furnished to him from the floor of this Senate.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, as a matter of fact, I at the present time did not ask the Senator for any information, but he evidently had anticipated that I might. Mr. President, it seems to me an unusual procedure when a man appears on the floor of the Senate of Pennsylvania, and, if you please, as he would like it to be, courageously makes certain specific charges without mentioning names.

The point that has been lost sight of is that after all, well, we are members of the Senate and have been charged by the Senator from Fayette County, in blanket charges, and certain leadership of the state of Pennsylvania have been charged under a blanket arraignment, and the most vital and important point is that we are ourselves vitally concerned, but this gentleman from Fayette must not lose sight of the fact that after all this is a small portion of the people involved in this controversy, that the responsibility lies with him to let the ten million people in the state of Pennsylvania have full possession of the facts, and if the situation is as serious as he has presented it to the Senate; if it involves the halls and members in the halls of this Legislature, it vitally involves the interests of ten million odd citizens, and I feel that it is his duty to either appear before this committee or to file objections now on the floor of the Senate to any members serving on that committee. I am sure I speak for myself, and I think I speak for all the members of the committee, when I say if there is any legitimate objection to any of us we will gladly remove ourselves from that committee and permit the Senator himself to pick from this body any of the Senators whom he might wish to sit in judgment of his charges.

Now, Mr. President, if the Senator, after making these grave and specific and blanket charges, wishes to get in like a turtle under a shell and avail himself of his constitutional privilege, then I say he is not doing his duty to the people of Pennsylvania.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I do not intend to say much concerning this thing except that I want to assure everybody that, constitutionally or otherwise, I will defend my position anywhere. I just want to say this in order to serve notice, because of the remarks the Senator from Fayette made concerning banquets, that I have been to banquets sponsored by county commissioners, Ladies of the G. A. R., tax collectors and every other conceivable type of organization, since I have been in politics. I have never thought that they considered me so small that I would sell my vote for the price of a dollar dinner.

I want to say to all of you here this afternoon that I happened to have been at that banquet; I enjoyed very much the discussion of the day as presented by Edwin C. Hill, and I also enjoyed two years ago the discussion as presented by Lowell Thomas, in the company of our good Governor James.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

(The following occurred during the calling of the roll).

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I wish to be recorded as voting "present".

So the question was determined in the negative.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I rise on a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cambria will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, last Wednesday afternoon the Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, made certain charges pertaining to a certain piece of legislation. Whether he is right or wrong, of course, I do not know.

Upon the heels of those charges, when I arrived at my home I found that the Johnstown Democrat carried a large editorial pointing the finger of scorn at the members of the Senate and many notables in both political parties. Then a new brain child developed and an open letter was sent to each member of this Senate. I came to my desk this afternoon and I opened and read a letter edited by one known as Hiram G. Andrews, the editor of the Johnstown Democrat.

I hate to trespass upon the time of this Senate, but, Mr. President, and gentlemen of the Senate, when anyone should be attacked in the same manner I am attacked, I have no alternative; I must defend myself because my honesty, my sincerity, my integrity has been attacked by, once again I might say, this so-called insane editor, who happens to be in this chamber today.

Permit me to quote, Mr. President, some of the accusations:

"Now, how do we know that 'they' were running around trying to bribe Senators? A Senator has said so. A Senator has said 'they' tried to bribe him. But, holy man, he says he refused the bribe. However, this Senator has said that even though he stood firm and resisted the tempters there were others who fell."

"Quite likely some of the Senators who now pretend they are so indignant and who insist that names be named can recall having heard a Senator say 'they' were offering him money—lots of money—enough money to make him comfortable for life. Why didn't the Senators who now want names named insist that the Senator who said 'they' tried to bribe him, name names. There is a possibility that if the wicked 'they' had been exposed two years ago, the incorruptible uncorruptibles now in the Senate would not have been sprayed with accusations."

Further quoting, Mr. President:

"Incidentally we have heard that when Senator Bunk (and it refers to me as Senator Bunk) realized he was being left in the lurch, he went to 'they' and raised a howl."

Without further quoting that paragraph I will now quote further:

"The point we are making is that the honorable, the members of the Pennsylvania Senate have in their midst a naive, shivering soul, who has told of the terrible temptations that were placed in his path by wicked men. Surely the members of the Honorable, the Senate of Pennsylvania must realize that the way to protect and preserve innocence in 1941 is to punish those who attacked innocence in 1939. Bribery, unrebuked, two years ago, would quite naturally raise its ugly head now."

"It is in order to inquire why the members of the Honorable, the Senate of Pennsylvania did not rally to the cause of purity and insist the sorely tempted Senator Bunk unburden himself and tell the world just who 'they' were. Indeed, why shouldn't Senator Bunk name names now? If the Senators want names, let Senator Bunk name names. Perhaps the men Senator Bunk might name are the very men who have been trying by such wicked methods to secure the enactment of the 'motorized freight car' bill." End quote.

Now, Mr. President, I am going to name names. Since the gentleman from Cambria County has gotten down to the level of asking for names, names shall be mentioned, because I admit today that one time in my life a bribe was offered to me, and that was back in 1939, and I say to you gentlemen the bribe that was offered to me was offered by that man, Hiram G. Andrews, in his own office, at the time I stood on nomination for county treasurer, when he asked me to submit my nomination to a Republican friend of his and if I should do so that I should receive a considerable sum of money for a period of four years. I declined to do so. So, since he asked names to be mentioned, I say that Hiram G. Andrews, who is in this chamber today, offered me the bribe he speaks so much about.

I can go on, Mr. President, and say plenty and get just as personal as he has, but I can not do that because of his good wife, the other half of his family, who I say is a real lady and I shall not punish her any more because she has been punished severely by the fact that she has been his wife.

Now, Mr. President, this same man goes on and I quote the following:

"Senator Bunk's maker has answered his prayers—so far. He has not attacked me physically—as yet. If he ever does I shall be compelled to take him apart, bit by bit, and then I will take the bits, reassemble them and make a man. The brass in the Senator, I will throw away and replace with honesty. The gall I will throw away, and replace with fidelity. The cunning I will throw away and replace with intelligence. Senator Bunk might be quite all right if his moral and intellectual parts were arranged right." End quote.

Mr. President, in other words he challenges me to a fight. Think of it, Mr. President, think of a little runt wishing to fight a full sized man. It only reminds me of an adult picking up a fly swatter and smacking a poor innocent little mosquito; you know what is left. Draw your own conclusions. That is what would happen if I should lower myself and engage in a fight with the gentleman.

Now, Mr. President, as I have mentioned here some time ago, it is tough to live in a county where we have an insane editor, the man who, I must repeat again, has sought public office, sought my seat, placed his name on the ballot, placed it before the American juries and they went to the polls and decided definitely that they had no use for him, did not want him or his type to represent them in the State Senate.

That should be the decision. It had been for centuries and as long as we have democracy it will prevail.

However, he has adopted what I term a double "r" policy, a two "r" policy, that is, he shall rule or otherwise he shall ruin. He has tried to rule and no doubt he will try to rule again. He swings a big stick in the County of Cambria. They tell me he runs the City of Johnstown, that he runs the county commissioner's office. He is trying to run the State Senate but of course he can not get any place there, as yet.

Now, Mr. President, he should speak of a man being honest. Permit me to read another quotation of his:

"We do not bear Senator Bunk any ill will on the score he is a Senator. Our disagreement roots in the fact that he is such an infernal and occasionally unskilled liar. An artistic liar we might admire—against our better judgment—but a clumsy liar, who is also a political crook, is too much to stomach without at least one protesting belch." End quote.

Mr. President, at least I am not an artistic liar. He is definitely so. He is the same man, Mr. President, that robbed a poor widow in the City of Johnstown of ten thousand dollars, sold her down the river, the late widow of Warren Worth Bailey, when she sold the Johnstown Democrat. He can not say that about me. He is the same man, Mr. President, that has been accused in my county of robbing the Ebensburg Herald way back in the nineties of one thousand dollars, or ten thousand dollars, I am not sure which it is—it is up into the thousands—accused him of actually robbing the paper which he represented.

He is the same man that made a deal in my county, when a man by the name of Michael J. Boyle was elected sheriff, and upon his insistence the late Squire Walsh, the Democratic County Chairman, then was told not to seek the office of sheriff but if he should decline they would appoint him the first deputy and pay him additionally the sum of one hundred dollars per month and he, Hiram G. Andrews, would be the treasurer, and he promised definitely that each month for a period of four years he would pay him a hundred a month. My friends tell me the bargain went through, Boyle became sheriff, Andrews became treasurer and for four months he paid a hundred dollars and then like an artistic liar he said, "We do not have any more."

Then, Mr. President, he has the gall to point to somebody else and call him a liar, call him a crook. Why, if he ever gets his just dues he will never see the light of day again, he will never have an opportunity to persecute decent and honest men.

I said he comes in this chamber like a weasel in the day and goes back home and tries to create misrepresentations. I do not like to speak of these things, Mr. President, it is not kind, you might say, it is not encouraging, but I will stand up and defend myself here or anywhere. I am sick of an insane man being at large and being permitted to print a newspaper. I oftentimes have sympathy with the other members of the press who are trying to make an honest living but who are being looked down upon because of an insane man in their midst. He thinks he is kidding somebody; he is kidding himself. The people of this Commonwealth know what he is and, as the old saying goes, "by their work you shall know them and by their record you shall judge them." I am trusting that the sane people of this Commonwealth, and there are many thousands of them, will judge me and judge him by his record and I say to him now that if he knows of one red cent, or if anybody knows—I challenge the world—that I ever received illegally I want him to prosecute me, bring me before the Bar of Justice; I challenge the world to say that John Haluska ever took one illegal cent from any soul. That he cannot say.

MOTION TO PROCEED WITH CALENDAR

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I now move we proceed to consideration of the Calendar. It is very large today.

MOTION THAT SENATE RECESS

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move the Senate do now recess until ten o'clock p. m. eastern standard time tonight.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, before that motion is acted upon, I make the suggestion I would like to serve notice now that I shall renew my motion at the evening Session of this Senate, that the Senate resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, I second the motion of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I rise on a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Gentleman from Washington will state his point of order.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, at the time the motion of the gentleman from Allegheny was introduced I had previously introduced a motion that the Senate proceed to consideration of the Calendar.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair understood the motion of the Senator from Washington was not seconded.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, a motion to adjourn is always in order.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, it was not a motion to adjourn; it was a motion to recess.

Mr. SHAPIRO. That is always in order, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair wants to be fair. The Chair heard no seconder to the motion of the gentleman from Washington; then there was a motion by the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, seconded by the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Thomas B. Wilson, that the Senate now recess and that is the question now before the Senate.

RECESS

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess until 10 o'clock, p. m. E. S. T.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

Mr. MALLERY offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered, and agreed to:

In the Senate, June 9, 1941.

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, June 16, 1941, at 3:30 o'clock P. M. (Eastern Standard Time), and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, June 16, 1941, at 8 o'clock P. M. (Eastern Standard Time).

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

INTERIM REPORT OF SPECIAL INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE

Mr. STEVENSON. Mr. President, I desire to make the following interim report of the Joint Committee of the Senate and House, duly convened in Executive Session June 9, 1941, at eight-thirty p. m., to consider the charges of the Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante:

INTERIM REPORT OF THE JOINT COMMITTEE OF THE SENATE AND HOUSE DULY CONVENED IN EXECUTIVE SESSION JUNE 9, AT 8:30 P. M. ADOPTED THE FOLLOWING RESOLUTION

Inasmuch as the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, the originator of the charges that a criminal conspiracy to unlawfully affect legislation exists in the General Assembly now in regular session, has failed, neglected, and refused to attend the several meetings of the Joint Committee, which meetings were duly publicized and to the latter of which the said Senator was lawfully subpoenaed; and

Inasmuch as the said Senator has publicly stated on the floor of the Senate in legal session, to wit: June 9, 1941, that he will substantiate the said charges upon the floor of the Senate, but has failed to manifest any cooperation with the Joint Committee, the said Joint Committee now reports to the Senate and to the House of Representatives that it will await further instructions and advice of the said respective bodies.

MOTION TO ADOPT REPORT

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the report of the committee be received and approved; that the committee be commended for its efforts and be instructed to proceed further with the investigation.

Mr. JAMES. I second the motion, Mr. President.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Allegheny state just how this committee can proceed further?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, that is a matter for the committee to decide, what its procedure shall be; it is a committee consisting of gentlemen of ability and integrity and it is within its powers to call any persons before it to give testimony that it thinks will have any knowledge concerning any of the statements made.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, does the gentleman from Allegheny think anybody outside of the Senate of Pennsylvania would pay any attention to a subpoena from this committee, when a member of this Senate ignores a subpoena of the committee and the Senate does nothing about it?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I am not sure I understand the question. I understood the Senator from Philadelphia to say any person outside of the State of Pennsylvania; I do not know whether he means that or not, but if he does I think that is going much further than it is necessary to go.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, does the gentleman from Allegheny think that anybody within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, any citizen, would have any regard for a subpoena issued by a committee, which committee has issued a subpoena to a member of the Senate and which committee has permitted that member of the Senate to ignore that subpoena; does the gentleman from Allegheny think anybody else outside of the Senate would pay much attention to that if the Senate does not do anything about that process?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I do not think it is quite fair to say that the committee has permitted the gentleman to ignore its subpoena. The committee will proceed with its investigation and can make further effort as it deems fit to have the gentleman from Fayette in attendance before the committee. There is nothing to prevent that. There is no reason why we should think, because of this report of the committee, asking for further instructions, that the investigation has come to an end.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Chairman of the Committee, the gentleman from Clinton, Mr. Stevenson.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Clinton permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STEVENSON. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the Chairman of the Committee state whether or not the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, ignored the subpoena of the committee.

Mr. STEVENSON. Mr. President, at the time of the meeting of the committee Mr. Cavalcante failed to appear. Prior to that meeting he called me upon the telephone stating that he was preparing a letter for the committee, which letter I have just received here at my desk. Other than that, or up to the time the committee held its executive meeting, the subpoena was ignored.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Will the gentleman read to the members of the Senate the letter from the gentleman from Fayette?

Mr. STEVENSON. "My dear Senator Stevenson: About 3:15 o'clock p. m. eastern standard time today a Senate Sergeant-at-Arms handed me a paper which I find to be a subpoena, under your hand and seal, directing me to appear before your committee in the Caucus Room of the House of Representatives to testify according to my knowledge concerning the conduct of certain members of the General Assembly. I am indeed sorry that I must decline obedience of your subpoena at this time, due to my attendance at the present session of the Senate of the Commonwealth. I assure you, my dear Senator, I intend to cheerfully spread upon the Senate Journal all the information I have on the subject of your inquiry. I trust that it may be of some aid to you and your committee. My information will be available seasonably to your committee. Thanking you and your committee for the courtesy represented by your subpoena, I am very respectfully yours, Anthony Cavalcante."

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I must say that if a majority of this Senate feels that in view of that letter and in view of the action of the gentleman from Fayette, that they are going to appear in a good light before the public in a situation in this kind, I am inclined to say very frankly I do not agree with them.

This to me is one of the most important situations in which the Senate of Pennsylvania could find itself, or any other legislative body.

Mr. President, I hold no brief for anybody who was named in the charges made, but I do feel that those gentlemen, some of whose political conduct I have personally criticized and will continue to do so if I feel the same way about their future conduct as I do about their past, are entitled to have their integrity treated in the same manner and with the same respect as any other citizen.

In addition to that, Mr. President, I feel, as a member of this Senate, I am entitled to have it made known publicly whether I am one of the persons who was supposed to have had a particular interest in this bill. There has been no single party singled out as the person against whom the charge has been made, and no single individual, but the charge has been made in such broad terms that every man in this Senate ought to feel that it is a reflection upon him and his colleagues.

I think everybody will agree that this has gotten past any political situation, and I think that to send this back to the committee and have this committee hold a meeting tomorrow and invite the gentleman from Fayette and all the newspapermen to attend, and then have us to sit around, as we have done on two occasions today, and wait for a telephone message or wait for a letter or the convenience of the gentleman who made these serious charges, if we are doing just that, then I think the gentleman from Fayette has probably accomplished his purpose, which is to make this body look ridiculous.

I for one want to protest against it, because I think this Senate ought not to sit supinely by and allow this condition to continue day in and day out.

Mr. President, I suggest to this committee they have a method, and the method lies in the Constitution. The committee cannot enforce this process, Mr. President, but the Senate can. Article two, section eleven of the Constitution, reading from page 34 of the Pennsylvania manual, is as follows:

"Section 11. Each House shall have power to determine the rules of its proceedings and punish its members or other persons for contempt or disorderly behavior in its presence, to enforce obedience to its process . . ."

Mr. President, the process served upon the gentleman from Fayette was the process of the House and the Senate. If this committee thinks it is its duty, after the charges made, to go out and hunt up people who can tell it something about the charges made by a member on our Senate floor, I think the committee is very much mistaken; it will get nowhere with that, but it can come before the Senate and it can say to the Senate, as the chairman of the committee has stated, that its subpoena, its process has been disobeyed, and can ask this Senate to enforce this process.

Mr. President, it is a simple proceeding to do that. If this report is going to be accepted with the suggestion made by the gentleman from Allegheny, which in my opinion is innocuous and holds us up to ridicule before the public, then I think that some proceedings will have to be taken.

I think it is outrageous to suggest that we should tell this committee to go out and ask other people to do that which the man who made the charges would not do, namely, to furnish specific evidence of alleged crimes, which no one else has said have been committed except the gentleman from Fayette. If he glories in his position now I do not blame him because, were I in the same position, were I able to permit myself to do what has been done in the presence of all the members of the Senate—ignore the process, disregard the common decencies of the situation—and the people in power unwilling to take steps which they have a right to take, which is to insist that the process of this committee shall be obeyed, then I might probably think the same about the members of the Senate as he does at the moment.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I am sorry to see that this matter is developing just along the lines that might have been expected. Our colleague from Philadelphia asks us the question whether or not we think we will make a hit with the public by what we are doing. It seems to me that the important question for us to consider, as individuals and as a body, is what course can we follow to best secure the truth in connection with the statements made on the floor of this Senate Chamber.

At this time, Mr. President, there is nothing before the Senate except the motion to receive, commend and approve.

If the Senator from Philadelphia is so much more sincere than all of his colleagues here, after the vote on the motion is taken we will be glad to receive his suggestions and he can make his suggestions in an orderly way, Mr. President, by addressing the Chair.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I presume the Senator from Fayette will stand on his statements made this afternoon, in which he refused to be interrogated by me, and therefore I want to make the following statements:

As a member of this committee it has been very difficult for me to understand the attitude of Senator Cavalcante in this affair. If I understand the function of this committee correctly, I understand this committee was appointed by resolution, this Joint Committee, not to try the Senator from Fayette, as he would have most people believe, but to investigate the charges against other individuals which he made on this floor.

Therefore, Mr. President, I cannot understand why the Senator, who is charged with nothing and whom no member on this floor has made any direct charges against, should suddenly avail himself on his constitutional rights against practically nothing.

The situation, so far as the committee is concerned, is that the committee is anxious and willing and would like to collaborate and cooperate with the Senator in pursuing, in following up the charges that he might make against any member of this Senate or any member of the House. The committee members have stated individually and they have stated collectively that their idea is that there should be a fair, open and impartial investigation of these charges, but suddenly we are deprived of the main factor, the one man who by his own statements is in a position to give us the information upon which we might proceed, under the guise that he feels this committee is organized to persecute him for some imaginary charge.

Mr. President, I would like to say to the Senator very definitely that there is no such attitude by any member of this committee, but we are anxious, because this is a serious proposition, that this matter should be thoroughly gone into in the most minutest detail, and I therefore feel that this matter should not be approached hastily or hurriedly but that it should be gone into very carefully, and I want to appeal to the Senator from Fayette, Senator Cavalcante, direct, in a man to man fashion:

I have heard you on the floor, on frequent occasions talk seriously, in a very patriotic strain, I have heard you appeal to the heart and soul and the brain of the members here, to engender into them a super-patriotism. Now, I say we are at a critical time in the history of America, when every real American's first duty is to maintain institutions, constituted institutions and constituted government, and when anybody attacks a constituted form of government, he serves to shake the confidence of most people in constituted authority and I say that just now this is a serious, a very serious consideration. It would be serious if some persons back home with no degree of responsibility made a charge against some constituted authority, but it is doubly serious when a man, elected to the Senate of Pennsylvania, on this floor makes these charges without mentioning any specific instance and, regardless of what you feel, Senator—and it may be your idea, it may be the thing that you are appealing to, it may be the thing that you desire, but it is absolutely, from the standpoint of citizenship, to be deplored.

You have engendered in the minds of a great many people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania the idea that these members serving in the Senate of Pennsylvania have been subjected to bribery, that they have openly invited that as members of the Senate, and particularly you have charged that members of the House over there have been guilty of criminal conspiracy to obstruct justice, and I say to you Senator, in all seriousness, if you can produce one name, if you can produce one fact, or a series of facts, there is not a man on this committee that will not give you his wholehearted support to pursue this thing to the end, if we have to sit here all year to get out in front of the public the guilty individuals, but at the same time we have another duty, we cannot permit anybody to soil the honesty, to attack the integrity of any innocent man and you, as a member of the bar, who has taken the oath which the Bar Association requires, both ethically and in practice, have a double duty.

You know the rules of evidence, you know the seriousness, should know the seriousness of such a charge. You know what the procedure would be in ordinary court, if you were a lawyer on this side, if you were protecting the interests of either side, you should deal here in the Senate with its members and with those who are under a cloud in the same fair way and in the same fair manner that you would ask any client of yours to be dealt with in an ordinary court of law, and until you clarify your position, by either word on the open floor here or wherever you care to do it, and come down and give us something tangible, give the committee chairman something tangible, mention names, give us the name of a single individual, by name, that is crooked in Pennsylvania—you know him, you said you knew him—you owe it to the Senate, you owe it to the ten million people in Pennsylvania to come up to the microphone and say "this man is crooked, this man is dishonest, and I file charges," and I assure you the committee will function.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, first I want to commend our colleague, Senator Mundy, for his very fair and calm analysis of this situation and his proposed method of procedure.

I think that he took absolutely the right course when he appealed to our colleague from Fayette County, and at this time I also want to appeal to the honor of our colleague from Fayette County.

I want to say to you, Mr. President, and to our colleague from Fayette County, that our course thus far has been charted with the idea in mind to give our colleague every constitutional right and protection to which he is entitled, and I think, Mr. President, the record as it shows our course thus far will show that we have been absolutely fair, that we have tried to be perfectly calm, that we have endeavored to proceed with this inquiry and investigation in as nearly a correct and proper manner as is possible.

Now in return, Mr. President, I appeal to our colleague from Fayette County and ask him the direct question does he not think by the same measure of fairness that we have endeavored to show him, that it should not only be his duty but it should be his privilege and his pleasure to deal with his colleagues in this body in the same fashion.

Serious charges were made on this floor, Senator Cavalcante, and those serious statements and charges reflect upon the integrity of every single one of your colleagues in this body.

Now, if it be that you have any information involving any single or greater number of individuals in this body, in fairness to those others who have made every effort to extend to you all the fairness within their ability, do you not think this is the time and the place to name names?

In fairness to my colleagues on the Republican side, Senator Cavalcante, and to myself, I feel that we have come to the point where it is necessary that I ask the point blank question: Do you have any knowledge whatsoever or any information whatsoever concerning or affecting any of our colleagues or myself?

The PRESIDENT. The question before the Senate is on the motion of the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, seconded by the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. James, that the report of the Joint Committee of the House and Senate be received and approved and that the committee continue with the investigation.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The PRESIDENT. Before the roll is called the Chair advise the visitors they are here only through the courtesy of the Senate and they must refrain from any demonstration.

The Clerk will call the roll.

(During the calling of the roll the following occurred:)

The PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, wish to vote?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. "Present."

The PRESIDENT. How did the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, vote?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded as voting "aye."

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. GELTZ and Mr. JAMES and were as follows, viz:

MOTION THAT SENATE RESOLVE ITSELF INTO COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole for the purpose of interrogating the gentleman from Fayette in connection with these charges.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Washington will state the point of order.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, there is no power, legal authority, in the Senate body to initiate an investigation as a Committee of the Whole against a member of the body.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair must rule the point of order of the gentleman from Washington is not well taken.

The Senate can resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole for any purpose whatsoever; in such event the Committee of the Whole would have to determine what action it should take. In such event a Senator who is to be interrogated is governed by the same rules in a Committee of the Whole as in a Senate session.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, in this case the gentleman from Philadelphia stated the purpose of going into a Committee of the Whole was for the purpose of investigating these charges, which are charges against one of the members.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, that is not my motion. My motion was to interrogate the gentleman from Fayette, not to investigate the charges, but to interrogate the gentleman from Fayette.

Mr. REED. I do not dispute that, Mr. President, but I still reaffirm my position that if the Senate is going into an investigation of one of the members of this body, I maintain that there is no legal authority, no power vested in this body to go into a Committee of the Whole for that purpose.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair must adhere to its original decision: the point of order raised by the gentleman from Washington is not well taken.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, may I inquire of the Chair whether the Chair has any decisions or any authority to substantiate his decision?

The PRESIDENT. A majority of the Senate shall always govern as to whether the Senate shall resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole. Regarding the question of interrogation of a Senator, a Senator can decline to be interrogated. A Senator may be interrogated but he has the same rights and privileges in the event the Senate is resolved into a Committee of the Whole as he has under regular procedure of the Senate.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I have spent some time endeavoring to find some authority on that proposition and I have been unable to find any decisions leaning towards the side the Chair has taken. I have found decisions leaning the other way.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President—

The PRESIDENT. We must proceed in an orderly manner. The gentleman from Washington has raised a point of order.

The Chair reads from rule nineteen of the Senate:

"Committee of the Whole. 19. The Senate may resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole at any time on the motion of a Senator duly seconded and agreed to by a majority of those voting . . ."

That rule does not qualify the purposes for which the Senate shall resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, I suggest to the Senator from Philadelphia that he rephrase his motion. I doubt the ability of the Senate to interrogate the Senator from Fayette in regard to his charges. I have no doubt about the ability of the Senate and the right of Senators to interrogate the Senator from Fayette as to whether or not he has any facts that affect members of the House or Senate and I think this motion should be carefully worded so that the interrogation is directed to the Senator from Fayette to determine whether or not he has any facts, disregarding any statements made on the floor. Mr. President, I think the Senate of Pennsylvania has the right to ask him whether or not he knows of any facts affecting the official conduct of members of the Senate or the House of Representatives.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair must correct the Senator from McKean. The gentleman from Philadelphia did not state he was going to interrogate the gentleman from Fayette about this particular subject at all. It was to interrogate.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, I must beg the pardon of the Chair. The motion did not read that way.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair stands corrected.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I think the gentleman from McKean is correct. I am not here dealing in verbiage; I am here for a specific purpose. I think the gentleman's point of order is well taken and I should be glad to amend my motion so that it shall read:

MOTION AMENDED

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I move that the Senate resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole for the purpose of inquiring of the gentleman from Fayette whether he has any facts concerning the membership of this Senate, unlawful conduct of the membership of this Senate.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, can the Senator from Philadelphia tell us what we can do in a Committee of the Whole that we can not do in a regular session of the Senate?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, In a Committee of the Whole, as against the interrogations in the Senate, we are not confronted by rules with regard to the number of times that statements or speeches may be made, we are not bound by interrogation but may direct specific questions to any member of the Senate. We have more freedom of action and we sit as a committee and we can make a report or suggestions to the Senate after the committee arises, and I think we should sit as a Committee of the Whole to consider the effect of the questions and answers and then we will be in a position to make recommendations to the Senate when the Senate reconvenes.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I desire to further interrogate my colleague from Philadelphia.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I would like to know if it is not true that the only difference between the proceedings in a Committee of the Whole and the proceedings in the Senate body, which might be applicable to the proceedings now pending, is that a Senator may speak more than twice on any subject.

Mr. SHAPIRO. No, Mr. President, that is not the only difference. The difference is while sitting as a Committee of the Whole we can determine what we should do; we can adopt resolutions or we can adopt motions as to what ought to be done and we can decide the whole problem and make recommendations to the Senate.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I should like to know from my colleague if it is not true, when or if we do resolve ourselves into a Committee of the Whole, the President of the Senate shall appoint a chairman of the committee and step down from the Chair.

Mr. SHAPIRO. That is correct, Mr. President, and that is the purpose of the motion, that the President of the Senate shall not preside, that we shall be in the position of any other committee, that we shall adopt resolutions as a committee and that we shall make reports as a committee to the Senate when the President resumes his Chair.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, is it not also true that when a chairman of the Committee of the Whole has been appointed that the interrogation must proceed from the interrogator to the chairman of the committee and then to the person being questioned.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Not necessarily, Mr. President, unless the committee adopts that rule. Every committee has the right to adopt its own rules, if as and when it meets.

Mr. GELTZ. Then, Mr. President, I understand the gentleman from Philadelphia to say that the committee would have to adopt its own rules.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, it would not have to adopt any rules, unless somebody wanted to raise a question; it could proceed under the regular rules of any committee meeting.

Mr. GELTZ. Then, Mr. President, would not a motion now to suspend the ordinary rules governing the procedure of the Senate be a better procedure than the motion made by our colleague from Philadelphia.

Mr. SHAPIRO. No, Mr. President, but the effect of the motion I am making is the same, except there is an additional proposition, that this same committee, a Committee of the Whole, can do what the Senate can not do if the rules are suspended. This committee could consider any subject it sees fit; it can act in any way it sees fit; it can formulate resolutions and present them to the Chair on the very subject we are discussing.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I understood in the motion, or in the comment made by the gentleman from Philadelphia, that the reason for the Senate resolving itself into a Committee of the Whole was for the purpose of being better able to interrogate our colleague from Fayette. Is that correct?

Mr. SHAPIRO. That is one of the reasons, Mr. President.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I would like to know if it would not be a better form of procedure to at this time first endeavor to interrogate our colleague from Fayette County?

Mr. SHAPIRO. No, Mr. President, I do not think it is, because I think if we do that eventually we have to come to this motion in any event. I recall before the recess I made a similar motion and the suggestion was made to me if this motion had been made after seven o'clock, when the committee had held its meeting and the gentleman had refused to appear, then the motion would be considered more favorably.

Now, Mr. President, I have waited until after the gentleman has refused to appear and I feel that the Senate, as the Senate, should consider what it should do. I voted for the motion to receive the report of the committee, although I said I thought we were taking an innocuous procedure. I certainly would not vote "no" on a motion asking the committee to continue or to approve the actions of the committee so far, because there is nothing else they could do, but I feel we should not sit idly by and let this committee go out on a fishing expedition.

I do not think this committee has any right, after a single member of this Senate made charges, to sit down and subpoena willy-nilly people about whom they know nothing and try to find out something when they have no basis for the charges other than what they can hear now and I very frankly say to you the only way to guide this committee—because that is what the report was, they asked for guidance—is to find out just where we stand, if we have anything upon which to proceed, and if we do not have anything upon which to proceed, to tell the committee members to go back to their seats and let us resume our business. I think the best way to determine that is by a Committee of the Whole.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I thank our colleague from Philadelphia. In order that our position may be understood, and not be misunderstood, as was indicated by our colleague from Philadelphia County, the Joint Committee which was appointed was appointed in such a way or was of such a character as to give it a bi-partisan complexion. In other words, Mr. President, on that Joint Committee is an equal number of Democrats and Republicans.

It seems to me, Mr. President, that if any report of investigation is to be considered as a fair report it should come from a committee of that kind.

If we are to resolve ourselves in this Senate into a Committee of the Whole we become then a committee consisting of thirty-two Republicans and eighteen Democrats. I just mention that, Mr. President, so that all of the members of this body may take that into consideration before taking this next proposed step, because our colleague from Philadelphia stated, first, that he wished to be better able to interrogate our colleague from Fayette County, and then he afterwards stated that we could better consider what our next step of procedure should be, or what action, if any, should be taken.

It seems to me, Mr. President, that in line with the very fair discussion by the gentleman from Luzerne, Dr. Mundy, previously, this body should not recklessly or foolishly be stampeded into some course of action which may not be a fair or proper course of action. If the members of this body, after considering the complexion of the Joint Committee and the change of complexion of a Committee of the Whole, decides that they ought to resolve into a Committee of the Whole, then that should be the proper step and procedure to follow.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I want to make it clear I had not intended by anything I said to change my opinion of the procedure by the members on both sides of the Senate. I have no doubt in this instance that every member here is trying to do that which he thinks is best under the circumstances. I, in my turn, am trying to urge upon the Senators my point of view. I do not claim to have all the knowledge in the world, but I do think that when a committee such as we have appointed asks us for further instructions, for further guidance, a Committee of the Whole is the committee to give them that guidance.

I asked myself the question, when that report was submitted, how are we to give that committee guidance; are we going to give them guidance individually, are we going to go before them as individual members or talk to them as a group, and give them guidance, or are we going to sit as a Committee of the Whole and give them the answer to that question which they put to us—"Just what shall we do further?"

Mr. President, it is for that specific reason I am asking the members of this Senate to do that in the interest of expediting our work, and in the interest of not being put in the position of coming here every day and being put in the same situation as we have been for two months, as I recall.

Mr. President, I recall two or three months ago the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, told us at a certain time he was going to name names and give dates and give places about something. We did not understand what he was talking about. Whether this situation now brought to our attention is what he mentioned or talked about before or not I do not know, but we are now nearing what I hope will be soon the end of the session and I do not want to feel, with these specific charges, I have to sit here upon the good graces and good nature of the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, for further information as to what he intends to do, and I think that is one of the things which ought to be considered by the committee.

For myself, Mr. President, I say frankly I propose, if the Senate accepts my motion, to ask the gentleman one or two questions. If he answers those questions and gives us a basis of procedure, well and good; if he does not, I am going to wash my hands of the whole proposition and feel I have done all within my power to find out what is back of these charges, whether there is any basis for them, and what we should do, and if the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, who seems to be the only one who knows anything about it, intends to keep that a secret to himself then I think we had better let the committee go about its regular legislative business and come what may.

Therefore, Mr. President, I suggest and ask the members of the Senate to join me in this motion that the Senate resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole and give the committee the advice it wants and has asked for.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, as a member of the Democratic party, I would like to ask the Democratic Floor Leader, Mr. Shapiro, to withdraw his motion, for the simple reason I think our colleague from Luzerne, Dr. Mundy, clearly stated here for all to know, that this is not by any stretch of the imagination an investigation or persecution of any member of this Senate.

Therefore, Mr. President, in the face of the motion just passed by this Senate, in which it accepted the report of the committee to date and expressed its willingness to have the committee continue its work and to continue to try to get to the bottom of the charges made, and in the face of the assertion of the gentleman from Fayette this afternoon that he would give certain information to the Committee, I feel that it would be proper at this time for the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, to withdraw his motion that the Senate resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole. Otherwise we would be taking the position of putting the committee in the embarrassing position, I might say, of being rebuked by its own Senate because, first of all, you greet us by saying we have done good work, you have accepted it, and you say for the committee to continue on in the work it is endeavoring to do, and then in the next breath, because a motion is made, you say you do not think the committee is doing the right job and therefore you take it out of the committee's hands.

Mr. President, I want to say I have known the gentleman from Fayette many years and we have been personal and political friends for many years, and I want it clearly understood I will take no part in any investigation into his own integrity and honesty. I have believed and always felt that way towards him, that he is honest and that he does things conscientiously, and if he has any information I have no doubt whatsoever that in time he will give it to the committee; I hope that it will be soon, I pray he will give to us the same cooperation that we are trying to give to him, and I ask the gentleman from Philadelphia to withdraw his motion, as otherwise I intend to vote against it.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I would like to submit that this is a legislative inquiry which does not pertain to the chairman of the Democratic Committee, Mr. Lawrence, or Mr. Pew or Mr. Grundy; that is none of our business; our business is to clear the reputation of any member of this Legislature which has been in any way besmirched by any suspicion cast upon his reputation.

Now, Mr. President, of all the members of the Legislature, there is only one man who has been directly accused by the Senator from Fayette. That man is Representative Melchiorre.

It is perfectly proper for the committee to summon Mr. Melchiorre, as they have definite accusations by the Senator from Fayette against this one member of the Legislature, but I certainly do not feel that I am under a cloud from anything he has said and I think probably other members feel the same way.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DENT. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the gentleman from Westmoreland is a member of the Committee which has now reported to the Senate; that is correct, is it not?

Mr. DENT. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I read in the report that the Committee will "await the advice of the said respective bodies." Will the gentleman from Westmoreland tell us how he expects to get the advice of the respective bodies—or of this Senate?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I understood we were given that advice when the Senate unanimously accepted the report and suggested that we continue with our endeavors.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, that is not what the Committee said; the Committee said it would await the advice of the respective bodies. I am perfectly willing not to impede the progress of this investigation, but I would like to know what the committee meant when it asked for advice and how it expects to get it from this body.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, we thought it would be much better to give the Senate a report on our activities to date. Whether or not the Senate decided to give us the power to continue, to give us its blessing, if you please, or whether they decided to take it out of our hands, I believe the Senate answered that by giving us its blessing to continue on our way.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I understand the Senator from Westmoreland is motivated by what he thinks the best way of handling the situation but I should like to press further, if the gentleman does not mind, that this is not what this Committee is going to do according to the report; the Committee is going to wait, it is not going to do anything else, according to this report, except await further instructions and advice from the said respective bodies. As I read that it means the committee is going to sit down and wait for the Senate and House to tell them what to do.

Really, Mr. President, I understand the desires of the gentleman from Westmoreland, but I wish to call attention to the fact that this leaves us in the position that the Committee will not do anything further. Let us not fool ourselves about this. That is what the report says—we will await further advice.

Mr. President, did the gentleman from Westmoreland understand that to mean the committee could go ahead, after the report was accepted.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I believe statements were made that there are other procedures that the Senate and House committee might follow that have not yet been exhausted. Therefore I feel if in the judgment of the Senate it feels it is best for this committee to continue upon the investigation then it is not necessary, unless you want to rebuke the committee, to go into a Committee of the Whole.

Mr. President, if a Committee of the Whole is decided upon I can assure you I will no longer serve upon the committee, because thereafter, I would not consider our work worth while, and if the Senate does resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole, it certainly is not proper for the Senate to say "you continue after we are through."

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I hope the gentleman from Westmoreland does not assume from the fact I have moved that the Senate resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole, for the purpose of asking questions of the gentleman from Fayette, that that means I intended to rebuke the committee. I understood the committee wanted the Senate to give it further instructions.

Mr. President, I should like to further interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland and ask him if he will enlighten us as to whether or not the committee is prepared with names to call other witnesses than the gentleman from Fayette.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I do not believe that I, as a member of that committee, have the right to say what the proper procedure of the committee will be, until we as a committee assemble and have an Executive meeting to decide upon what we feel is the proper and most expeditious thing to do. I think we are all motivated by the same purpose. We want justice done to everyone. Every member of this Senate and every person named is entitled to fair play, and I for one am determined every person shall get fair play.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I shall be guided by what the Senate does. In making my motion I have no personal feeling in the matter and I will be glad to have the Senate vote on the motion. If the Senate wants to vote it down that is all right with me.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, do I understand the gentleman from Philadelphia is insisting upon his motion

Mr. SHAPIRO. That is right, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Then, Mr. President, I can tell him now I intend to vote "no."

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I rise on a point of information.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cambria will state his point of information.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, am I correct in my understanding that we now have before the Senate a motion that this Senate resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole.

The PRESIDENT. For the purpose of interrogating the Senator from Fayette.

Mr. HALUSKA. My point of information, Mr. President, is, in the event this Senate does resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole, will that motion then supersede the standing committee?

The PRESIDENT. The Chair did not hear the gentleman.

Mr. HALUSKA. My point of information, Mr. President, is in the event the Senate resolves itself into a Committee of the Whole will that supersede the standing committee?

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is still unable to hear the gentleman from Cambria.

Mr. HALUSKA. I said, Mr. President, in the event the Senate should now resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole, would that then supersede the standing committee or dispense with the standing committee.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair does not so understand.

Mr. HALUSKA. It will not, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. No. In the event the Senate resolves itself into a Committee of the Whole the same rules will govern as though the Senate were in regular session.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President—is it possible to have the Senator from Fayette talk if he does not wish to talk.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is of the opinion that, by the Senate going into a Committee of the Whole, there is no procedure to compel a Senator to talk or answer questions. A Senator would have the same privileges as in an ordinary session of the Senate.

For the information of the gentleman from Cambria and other Senators the Chair now reads rule 25 of the Senate:

"The rules and proceedings of the Senate shall be observed, in the Committee of the Whole, excepting that a member may speak oftener than twice on the same subject. In Committee of the Whole, the previous question cannot be called, the yeas and nays required, nor can there be an appeal from the decision of the Chairman."

The Chair might state by going into a Committee of the Whole it merely liberalizes debate; that is about all it does.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. DiSilvestro.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. I yield, Mr. President to the gentleman from Somerset.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, this afternoon the Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, stated that he would on the floor of this Senate divulge the information which he has. Shortly after that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro, moved to have the Senate resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole. I voted at that time in favor of that motion because I did not want it to appear to anyone that I was interfering in any way with a proper investigation of the facts which the Senator from Fayette might have.

It would appear now that the Senator from Philadelphia would turn this Committee of the Whole into an investigating committee, and from the statement of a member of that committee, I believe the committee members feel that is their duty. This afternoon it did not seem to me anything particular would be gained by the Senate resolving itself into a Committee of the Whole excepting, as the Chair has stated, that debate would be liberalized somewhat. However, the rules of the Senate which we have followed or rather, which we have waived, have permitted members of this Senate on this floor to interrogate other members quite liberally and now, according to the turn this matter has taken, I do not see why the same end may not be gained by interrogation of the Senator from Fayette in this, a regular session of the Senate, rather than by going into a Committee of the Whole.

Mr. President, the procedure of the Senate resolving itself into a Committee of the Whole has become pretty much obsolete. The Senate has no rules governing that. At this time I feel I should vote against the motion of the gentleman from Philadelphia and I suggest to the Senator from Philadelphia that he proceed with his interrogation just the same as he would were the Senate resolved into a Committee of the Whole.

Mr. REED. Mr. President—

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to make a motion to end the debate.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, the gentleman from Philadelphia has spoken six times and I have been trying to get the floor for some time to speak the second time.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia had the floor. The Chair wishes to be as liberal as possible in order to permit Senators to engage in debate. There has not been much difference between the procedure we have had in the Senate than if the Senate should resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Washington.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I agree with the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz.

The PRESIDENT. Do you wish to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

Mr. REED. I said, Mr. President, that I agree with him. This is an unusual proceeding and it is not followed by any decisions I can find arising out of the Senate of Pennsylvania, and where there are no rules and regulations or decisions, then we must, under our rules, refer to Jefferson's Manual. Under Jefferson's Manual this procedure is obsolete. For the information of the Senate, I read from page 126 of Jefferson's Manual the following:

"The Committee of the Whole of the House of Representatives was charged with an investigation in 1792, but the procedure was wholly exceptional (III, 1804), although a statute still empowers the Chairman of the Committee of the Whole, as well as the Speaker, chairman of select or standing committees, and members to administer oaths to witnesses (III, 1769). Most inquiries, in the modern practice, are conducted by a select standing committee, and these in each case determine how they will conduct examinations (III, 1773, 1775)."

And then further it states, Mr. President:

"The House, in its earlier years, arraigned and tried at its bar persons, not Members, charged with violation of its privileges, as in the case of Randall, Whitney (II, 1599-1603), Anderson (II, 1606), and Houston (II, 1616); but in the case of Woods, charged with a breach of privilege in 1870 (II, 1626-1628), the respondent was arraigned before the House, but was heard in his defense by counsel and witnesses before a standing committee."

So. Mr. President, it seems to me that this procedure is altogether unnecessary and I am going to vote against the motion.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I originally made my motion because I had the right to believe if, after seven o'clock the gentleman from Fayette did not appear, the motion would be accepted. I notice a great deal of excitement and that is not what I intended to accomplish and therefore I shall try another method.

MOTION LAID ON THE TABLE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I now move my previous motion be laid on the table.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred:)

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded as voting "present."

The PRESIDENT. The vote of the gentleman from Fayette will be so recorded.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded as voting "present."

The PRESIDENT. The vote of the gentleman from Philadelphia will be so recorded.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SHAPIRO and Mr. COLEMAN, and were as follows, viz:

PRESENT—2

DiSilvestro, Cavalcante,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I answered that question for the gentleman from Philadelphia this afternoon. I placed on the records, on the Journal of the Senate, certain specific facts; I pointed out where money had been collected for the purpose of promoting the box car trucking bill. I stated to my colleagues and the President of the Senate that I had not the power of visitation nor the power of subpoena to go into the offices of the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association and seize their books to see how much money was collected for the purpose of promoting this legislation. I do not have the power of visitation or subpoena to inquire into their records, to see to whom they paid that money or for what purpose they might have spent it.

The gentleman from Philadelphia, if he is sincere, he may proceed on those facts. He may adopt the proper procedure to seize that evidence before it is destroyed, before it is too late. I did ask the courtesy of the gentleman from Philadelphia this afternoon to permit me time to put my remarks in writing, as I did this afternoon, and I shall gladly do that.

The gentleman from Philadelphia will not be disappointed. I will name names, I will name circumstances, I will name places.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the gentleman from Fayette does not know what questions I expect to ask him. I listened to his statement this afternoon, which made me feel I would like him to answer two questions which I would like to put to him, and I would like to know whether the gentleman will permit himself to be interrogated on that subject.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I stated this afternoon that I would not submit to interrogation by the gentleman from Luzerne, Dr. Mundy, and I am not going to grant that courtesy to the gentleman from Philadelphia, after I denied it to the very courteous gentleman, the scholarly gentleman from Luzerne, whose remarks I appreciate very much.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, under those circumstances I desire the gentleman from Fayette to make answer to the following questions: Did the gentleman from Fayette—

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia is interrogating the Senator from Fayette?

Mr. SHAPIRO. That is right, Mr. President.

Mr. President, did the gentleman from Fayette, at the time he made charges last week "—it is no secret that vast sums of money have been spent by the trucking industry to litter the desks of each assembly member with false and misleading statistics and reports. It is publicly admitted that persons having private indirect interests in the passage of this bill are members of this General Assembly,"—did the gentleman when he made that statement have information concerning the names of the persons who are members of the General Assembly who had personal interest in the trucking bill?

That is the first question. The second question I desire to ask the gentleman from Fayette is this: did the gentleman from Fayette, when he made the statement last week that the Democratic leadership of Philadelphia and Allegheny "make no secret of their lust for the cash that the corrupt Republican leadership of Pew and Grundy have placed on the barrel-head," have any information concerning the time or the place or the amount of money that was placed on the barrel-head by the gentleman named as Pew and the gentleman named as Grundy, to whom the money was given, and for what purpose?

Those two questions I ask the gentleman from Fayette for the very reason—as he himself indicated—unless he gives us this information promptly we as a legislative body may be deprived of the opportunity to seize the information which he says is available, but the place and character of which he will not now tell us.

I agree with him—I agree with him absolutely for once—if he has that information and if there is any truth in his charge, it may be that information will slip from our grasp.

I therefore join with the other gentlemen in asking him, as quietly, as peacefully and as kindly as I can, that he be good enough to furnish the information now to the members of the Senate so that this Committee, which is still in existence, can immediately take such action to subpoena such records and persons as he may bring to their attention.

The gentleman has the right to answer or to refuse to answer.

The PRESIDENT. Does the gentleman from Fayette care to answer the interrogation?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. My answer is now on the record.

BILLS INTRODUCED

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Which was committed to the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. MALLERY read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 1170, entitled:

A Supplement to the act, approved the twenty-second day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one (P. L. 594), entitled "An act establishing certain township roads as State highways; authorizing their construction, maintenance, and improvement under certain conditions and restrictions; limiting the obligation of the Commonwealth in the construction of certain structures located on such highways; conferring certain powers upon the Department of Highways and local authorities, persons, associations and corporations for sharing the cost of the maintenance and construction of such highways; and making an appropriation to carry out the provisions of said act," establishing an additional route in the County of Blair.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. COX read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 1171, entitled:

An Act to further amend section twenty-one of the act, approved the seventh day of June, one thousand nine hundred fifteen (P. L. 900), entitled "An act to provide for the immediate registration of all births and deaths throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, by means of certificates of births and deaths, and burial or removal permits; requiring prompt returns to the Central Bureau of Vital Statistics, as required to be established by the State Department of Health; and, in order to secure prompt and faithful registration of births, marriages, deaths, and diseases, of practitioners of medicine and surgery, of midwives, nurses, and undertakers, and of all persons whose occupation is deemed to be of importance in obtaining complete registration of births, deaths, marriages, and diseases throughout the State, as provided in section ten of an act, entitled, 'An act creating the Department of Health and defining its powers and duties,' approved the twenty-seventh day of April, nineteen hundred and five, and providing penalties for violations of this act," by directing the Department of Health to maintain branch offices in counties of the second class for the filing of death certificates; authorizing such offices to issue certified copies of death certificates and make searches of their files; imposing additional duties upon local registrars in such counties; and prescribing fees.

Which was committed to the Committee on Public Health.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I am about to rise in my place and introduce a bill and in so doing I would like to make a few remarks.

THE PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Warren may proceed.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, it was my good fortune to have been a member of this body during the tenure of office of Senator Sipe who about every day spoke concerning the Butler Sanatorium, wondering why it was not equipped for the treatment of tuberculosis.

I might say in that connection, Mr. President, from May 15, 1941, every person on the waiting list has been taken care of in the various Sanatoria in the Commonwealth. This information was given me no later than this afternoon by the Department of Health.

Mr. President, for a number of years I have been interested in cancer research. Someone has said he who discovers the means of curing cancer deserves the thanks of all humanity, for as yet such means remains hidden.

In New York State they have a cancer hospital, at Buffalo, to which all patients from my vicinity are sent for treatment of cancer. This treatment costs residents of Pennsylvania one hundred dollars for each visit to that hospital. The Onconological Hospital in Philadelphia is the only Hospital, private institution, I know of that treats cancer in Pennsylvania.

I know that cancer can be cured, on the surface, for I have such means in my possession and during the past fifteen years I have been curing cancer on the surface. If a country doctor has been able to discover such means of curing cancer, I am certain, if used in the Butler Sanatorium, that ordinary cases of cancer can be cured in that or similar Institutions.

Mr. President, I hope that I will not make my exit from this world to the next from any of three causes of death and at the front and foremost, please, I hope that I will never be a sufferer from cancer.

Mr. President, I now propose to introduce in this Senate a bill making an appropriation to the Department of Health for the purpose of equipping and operating a sanatorium for the treatment of cancer and for cancer research, and I merely suggest that the Butler Sanatorium, or other institution be equipped with such means of investigation for the cure of cancer.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. CHAPMAN read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 1172, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Health for the purpose of equipping and operating a sanatorium for the treatment of cancer and for cancer research.

Which was committed to the Committee on Appropriations.

SPECIAL ORDER

The SPEAKER. The hour of 8:15 p.m. having arrived the House will proceed with the special order of business fixed for this hour, an address by the Honorable Matthew J. Welsh, of Fayette County, on Flag Day.

ADDRESS BY THE HONORABLE MATTHEW J. WELSH

This is flag day week calling to the colors every true American in every walk of life to sacrifice ourselves in preparedness for defense, so that the fundamental principles upon which this Government was founded shall be preserved and that this nation shall endure.

Again we pay tribute to those, who, so willingly sacrificed themselves and shortened their lives that we might live. These exercises are held not only to commemorate our illustrious dad, but as an inspiration to the youth of our land to be emulated in days to come so that when our time shall come to have passed away, others will say as we say now, here lies a true and noble defender of his Country and his flag, here lies a good citizen.

Remember that this great Nation of ours was brought into existence through the blood and tears of countless thousands. Let us hope that neither have been shed in vain. After eight long weary years of suffering, after eight long weary years of bloodshed that brave band of Revolutionary heroes battled from Lexington to Yorktown, that we might be free. They crossed the Delaware River on that stormy night and afterwards left their bloody foot prints in the snows of Valley Forge. When hope was almost gone, there came to the aid of the Colonists the patriotic Poles, Pulaski and Kosciuszko and 'tis truly said of them that freedom shrieked when they died. And there came another, the gallant young Lafayette of France came from what used to be our sister Republic across the seas. His memory shall ever be revered. If this Nation ever owed a debt of gratitude to France, it was more than paid and repaid from that memorable moment when our Doughboys and Pershing stood before his Tomb and Pershing said "Lafayette we are here." The revolution finally came to an end and Independence was assured.

Those half starved, ragged Continentals were finally victorious under the leadership of him whom we call our first beloved, George Washington, he whose deathless valor and the splendor of his immortal genius is one of the brightest gems in Columbia's crown of glory. True, this Nation was not built in a day. Great differences existed between the north and south. The slavery question remained unsettled. But those differences were thrashed out on the fiery field of battle when brave men fought brave men squarely, and it was in the Civil War that was melted the crucible which, to a great extent welded this Nation into a whole. It was the Civil War that gave us Stonewall Jackson, the daring John Sherman, the gallant Phil Sheridan, the immortal Abe Lincoln and the great soldiers—Grant and Lee. And when they met at Appomattox Courthouse, no grander words ever fell from victorious warriors lips than those which were uttered by Grant when he backoned back the sword to Lee and said, "Let us have peace." There was still considerable bitterness between the north and south, but to a great extent that animosity was almost, if not entirely obliterated during the war with Spain when the sons of the blue and the sons of the gray mingled their blood together in the far off islands of the sea, forever cementing the ties that bind our beloved north to our sunny south, our eastern shores to our golden west.

All who went to war did not return. Sooner or later we shall all have passed away, so to those of you who lost loved ones in the war there is great consolation in knowing there is no grander, no nobler death than to have laid down ones life for ones Country.

While we hope this Country shall never again be involved in war, if there be those amongst you who answer to the bugles call forget not your mother. It takes a brave man to face the cannon's mouth, but the hissing bullets and screaming shells are but music to the soldier's ears compared to the sufferings of the gray haired mother left behind. She it is who silently weeps tears of intermingled joy and sorrow, tears of sorrow that she may never see her soldier boy again, tears of joy that she bore a son who was ready to fight for her and home and country and, if necessary spill his life's blood on the altar of freedom. Pen her a line and when you return she will be proud of you and if you never return she will cherish your letters as amongst her most priceless possessions.

Going forth in all these great conflicts were found not only Americans of native birth, but Americans who first saw the light of day in other lands, for remember, we are a nation of many nations and fighting side by side were found Americans of German extraction, going with the boys who hailed from the shady vales of France with those who came from sunny Italy, from the rugged hills of Poland, from along the banks of the blue Danube and the land of Killarney's lovely lakes, vying with one another as to who should go farthest in defense of old glory.

When our boys followed that flag they followed the grandest flag in all the world, the flag that has never known defeat and please God it never shall be defeated. To praise the stars and stripes were much like adding splendor to the sunrise or fragrance to the breath of morn. She needs no encomiums, star crowned she stands the glory of America and the administration of liberty loving mankind throughout the world. It is our duty to keep its stripes unsullied while its stars shine on with ever increasing lustre. When we contemplate our history, realize the grandeur of our country and know the blessings of a people's government, it behooves us to banish petty animosities from this fair land of ours, be considerate of the rights of one another and live a more united nation. To preserve the priceless heritage handed us remember that "eternal vigilance is the price of liberty."

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on State Government for the purpose of further study.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I am not personally acquainted with all the details of this particular piece of legislation, but according to the information I have received this is very vital not only from the standpoint of the oil industry of the state of Pennsylvania, but it is in line with the movement which is being carried on by the federal government in all the other states in cooperation in trying to work out the present rather serious oil situation. It is also a matter which is extremely important in connection with the present emergency and defense activities. It seems to me if there is anything wrong with this bill, we have been in a habit of permitting unanimous consent to amend on third reading, and it ought to be read for the second time tonight and moved for third reading, where, if it is important that an amendment be made, it can be made at that time. It seems to me it would be unwise to send this particular piece of legislation back to the committee at this time.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, we are not endeavoring to deny that this legislation is very important. However, there is no objection to having it pass second reading and then recommitting it to the Committee where the objections which have been indicated to us may be studied. The legislation has actually passed the Senate and is in no danger of being lost, but it is being placed in committee where it can receive the study that reasonable objection would warrant it to receive. Placing it on the third reading calendar would in no way facilitate the study but perhaps in a moment of neglect the legislation might be passed, when as a matter of fact it may need amendment. It may be reported out again by the committee without amendment after the study is over. I assure the gentleman that it is not being recommitted solely for the purpose of killing the bill.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, is not this a compact between the states.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, this is not a compact. It is legislation in relation to a compact; growing out of a compact.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, my understanding is that this is a compact between the states, therefore if you are going to make a compact between the states you cannot amend it in one state.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, in which event the state would certainly have the right to decide whether it will or will not enter the compact, depending upon its best interests.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, House Bill No. 891 was introduced by me early in the session and was aimed at two things, to control the issuance of hunting licenses and to protect the lives and limbs of hunters in the woods. I would not be speaking on this bill tonight, because I think every Member in this House is familiar with it, except for a newspaper article which appeared last week, and I just wish to clear up a few matters that appear therein. I quote from a newspaper article by the United Press, under the headline, "Outdoor Sportsmen's Clubs Attack 'Examination' Bill." The article goes on as follows:

"OUTDOOR SPORTSMEN'S CLUBS ATTACK 'EXAMINATION' BILL

HARRISBURG, June 5—The Northwestern Division, Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs here today vigorously opposed as a "nightmare" the Breth Bill, to compel examination of hunters as a requisite for a license.

"The proposal, authorized by Rep. Harris G. Breth (D., Clearfield), is on the House final passage calendar. It was defeated by a 94-87 vote May 13, revived six days later, and given third reading, with amendments, last week.

"Rep. Wilbert D. Imbrie (R., Butler), a Federation member, and former chairman of the House Game Committee, disclosed a letter from Seth E. Myers, Sharon, Northwestern Division secretary, condemning Breth's activity in behalf of the bill.

"It has come to us," Myers said "that Breth has let it be known in the House that he was the chosen man of all the sportsmen to go to bat for us. You will do sportsmen a great service if you will let it be known that he is not, by any manner of means, acting in the interest of anyone but himself."

"Myers said a meeting of the State Federation's Broad of Directors and Game Commission members revealed that all present agreed that Breth's bill, or 'other wildcat' measures, should not be approved.

"Considerable resentment was in evidence concerning Breth's attempt to set himself up as a dictator of conservation, or some sort of modern Moses," Myers said.

"Myers asked Imbrie to apprise the House Game Committee of the 'truth of what the sportsmen of the state think of this nightmare known as House Bill No. 891."

"From ideas contained in several of these proposed bills, introduced evidently by persons who have little or no knowledge of the state conservation program, it would seem that we actually have a 'fifth column' in our conservation ranks," the Myers's letter said."

Mr. Speaker, I have not been here very long, approximately six months, but the one thing that has been impressed upon me is the ethical plane upon which most matters coming before the House are discussed and acted upon. I consider the Legislature a deliberative body and that all bills should be considered on their merits. There is nothing in this newspaper article which discusses the merits of the hunter's examination bill, but I want to say that the sportsmen throughout the State have been discussing the merits of the bill, and I wish to present some extracts, first, from the Legislative Bulletin No. 2 of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs which represents twelve hundred sportsmen's clubs in the State.

The resolution reads as follows:

"House Bill 891 introduced by Harris Breth. This bill which provides that the County Treasurer's Office is the agency for the issuance of hunting licenses with the power to appoint sub-agents was defeated in the House, Tuesday, May 13, when called up from the postponed calendar, but may be reconsidered later on. It provides for permanent hunting registration. This would simplify the matter of securing a license. It provides for an examination conducted by a representative of the Game Commission to secure a hunting license for any one who never had a license or who has not taken out one for two years. Such an examination would make hunters safety-conscious. If it will save one life it will certainly be worthy. The principles of this bill are good and they appear to be workable. If it is enacted into law it will not be effective until 1942."

That bulletin was signed by Mr. Charles K. Fox, Chairman Legislative Committee, Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs.

Mr. Speaker, I also have a letter in my possession from the Hon. Grover C. Ladner, who was president for a good many years of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs and who helped build it into the organization it is today, comprising twelve hundred individual organizations.

Judge Ladner says in his letter:

"If it is not too late, I shall be glad to do what I can to help you put through House Bill No. 891, which I think, as amended, deserves the support of all organized sportsmen."

Now, Mr. Speaker, let us jump from the sportsman to a man who ought to know something about hunting accidents. This is a letter from F. E. Sass, Coroner of Somerset County. It is not addressed to me and I doubt if he knows that I exist or that I have made any attempt to set myself up as the modern Moses in this House. This letter is addressed to Hon. Chas. H. Ealy, Pres. pro tempore of the Pennsylvania State Senate, Harrisburg, Pa., and reads as follows:

"I noticed in the paper yesterday that you will have before you a bill requiring examination for new applicants for a hunting license.

"I think such a law is in order, and strict regulations should be enforced in this line. However one important phase seems to have been overlooked, and that is, the use of a borrowed gun.

"My experience as a physician, and somewhat of a hunter and during the past 4 years as Coroner of Somerset County, has conclusively proved that about 75% of the accidents including the hunting fatalities are caused by the party using, a borrowed gun. This is easily explained. It would still be better if the law included some provision, denying an applicant a license who has not used or become accustomed to his gun for a period, say 6 months prior to the issuing of his license. An applicant who does not own a gun, with which he proposes to hunt with should by all means be denied a license.

"I have seen heartbreaking accidents happen, because of the fact that the hunter did not understand his gun. It was either a lately acquired gun or a loaned gun. Often the latter.

"I am sure that a law of the kind stated, and including a provision forbidding the use of a borrowed gun, or one with which the hunter has had little or no experience in using would reduce the hunting fatalities to 50% or better.

"I am quoting the above from my own knowledge and experience in investigating hunting fatalities."

Respectfully,
R. E. Sass, M.D.,
Coroner of Somerset Co.

I want to inform the Members of this House that Lawrence County is a part of the northwestern division from which Mr. Meyers wrote his astonishing letter and unwarranted attack upon me personally. I quote from a letter to Presley N. Jones from the Lawrence County Sportsmen's Association as follows:

"Because of the definite control obtained by issuing and giving the County Treasurer control and power to appoint additional agents, and because of the limitations set up as to the number to be issued by each agent, and

"Because of the permanent registration required of each hunter and trapper, the examination of all new hunters makes it possible to weed out and prevent many undesirable non-resident hunters who come over the state line and obtain a resident hunting license under a false resident address,

Be it resolved: "That we, the members of Lawrence County Sportsman Association urge our representative in Harrisburg to support the passage and give this bill, known as No. 891, his full support, as amended."

I have a wire before me from the Beaver County organization which says,

"The bill for the examination of new hunters is heartily approved by our organization. Your efforts are appreciated." This telegram is signed by "I. S. Sahli."

The Southern division is composed of nine counties in this state, York, Lancaster, Dauphin, Juniata, Perry, Mifflin, Cumberland, Adams, and Lebanon. Several weeks ago without any influence or pressure on my part and without knowledge on my part, they endorsed House Bill 891 as an excellent hunting bill.

Mr. Speaker, Allegheny County as long as fifteen months ago passed a resolution favoring the examination of all new hunters. Armstrong County is on record favoring the bill. Westmoreland County, Carbon County. I cannot see how Mr. Meyers had the information to state that I consider myself the modern sportsman's moses of this House.

I want to give you a few figures, Mr. Speaker, which I think will astound you. These are the figures of the Pennsylvania Game Commission. In the last three years, for which the figures are complete, that is the years 1937, 1938 and 1939, there was an average of forty-six men killed and three hundred and seventy-five injured in the woods every year. Prior to that there were only thirty-five killed and two hundred and twenty-two injured. That means there has been an increase of thirty per cent in the men killed in the past three years over the prior three years and an increase of over sixty per cent of those injured in the woods.

I am not going to take up very much more of your time, but I want to bring out just a couple points. Of all the departments of industry, corporations and other things under regulation of this particular legislature, hunting is the only one that has no special safeguard to protect the hunter. I was very much amused some weeks ago to listen to the debate on the floor of this House on the Casey Jones Bill, which authorized an electric lantern to be carried by the brakemen instead of the old oil lamp. The general trend of the argument at that time was the fact that a brakeman might sometime in a storm have his light blown out and before he could relight it an engine might come down the track, hit him and injure or kill him, and practically without a dissenting vote the bill passed in this House.

Some weeks ago I heard the gentleman from Delaware Mr. Turner get up on the floor of the House and plead with the Members of this House not to take milk away from growing babies. Why? Milk builds strong and healthy bodies.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. GEORGE E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Blair will state his point of order.

Mr. GEORGE E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, cannot the gentleman from Clearfield confine his remarks to this bill? We are not passing milk bills or railroad lantern bills now.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will confine his remarks to the bill before the House.

Mr. BRETH. A few weeks ago the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Jones, when this bill was up for discussion, stated that this was a bad measure. It was introduced for one reason only. I expect to be out in the woods a great deal longer than some other Members of this House in the next hunting season. I have been shot at and I have been missed. I have had friends who were shot at and not missed. Last year one of my best friends had six inches of bone taken out of his right arm because of being hit by a bullet from a high powered rifle.

Mr. Speaker, this bill has never been discussed on its merits. It has been discussed in every other way, but not upon its merits. We believe that this bill will provide a safeguard for human life, and I as a hunter demand protection. It is not there and it cannot be given to me unless some kind of legislation is passed which restricts the issuing of hunting licenses. As I said before, regardless of their previous records, any man can walk up to an issuing agent and get a license to hunt right alongside me in the woods, or behind me in the woods. There is nothing to prevent a novice from shooting me in the back, as the Coroner of Somerset County has stated.

Mr. Speaker, I ask the Members of this House to adopt this bill on its merits and not on its political implications. I ask the support of this House for this particular measure.

Mr. GEORGE E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Clearfield permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BRETH. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GEORGE E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman how many of the six hundred thousand hunters in Pennsylvania does the Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs represent?

Mr. BRETH. The last report from last year, Mr. Speaker, showed a trifle over eighty thousand.

Mr. GEORGE E. JONES. That is all, I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, this is one bill that I think should not have any partisan alignment. As I said two years ago in speaking on the bill, when a man goes out to get his hunting license, they don't ask him whether he is a Democrat or Republican. When he gets out into the woods, the game isn't Democrat or Republican, either. If this bill did as Mr. Breth says, I would not oppose it at all, but I want to call your attention at first to the fact that he says eighty thousand out of six hundred thousand. I feel myself that the purpose of this bill is to eliminate a lot of these fellows that do not belong to the Federation of Sportsmen Clubs. I have belonged to clubs and do belong to the Federation, and all of the clubs of my county are opposed to this bill, and I really think it is a bad bill.

Another point I wish to bring out is that Mr. Breth said he is quite frequently in the woods, and maybe he is, but I was in the woods a long time before Mr. Breth was big enough to be able to be in the woods. Somebody suggested he isn't big enough yet.

If I were to be called up for examination to see whether I can handle a gun or not, I believe I could compose myself and be just as composed as anybody. I believe I could pass the examination, but if I were one of the fellows that did the shooting or killing of a bear or deer, who go out of their head, and I have seen them in action, those are the guys that do the killing, and this bill positively will not have any effect upon them. I really feel it is a bad bill. I know the hunters don't want it. A few of them may, but I am closely affiliated with many of them, and I wouldn't want to say on the floor of the House what Mr. Breth said about me, I won't do that; it wouldn't be right. I want to say this, that this bill has created a big controversy, just like it did when it went through the other day and was defeated. It was defeated while I wasn't here. Of these 600,000 sportsmen, if you want to get say 520,000 of them on your back, I say go ahead and pass this bill.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Jones.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Blair permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GEORGE E. JONES. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, the point raised in the gentleman's argument is that eighty thousand sportsmen were trying to argue against six hundred thousand is, that correct?

Mr. GEORGE E. JONES. Possibly, yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BRETH. And how many people in the gentleman's district? What is the population of his district?

Mr. GEORGE E. JONES. About one hundred and forty thousand, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BRETH. all right, Mr. Speaker, the gentleman represents one in one hundred forty thousand. This is a deliberative body. This body studies the bills before them, and I know they have studied the hunter's bill.

Mr. GEORGE E. JONES. I have studied this bill, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BRETH. Certainly, Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is one in one hundred forty thousand. That is all, and I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

They may think this is a pet measure of mine, but I have seen what can happen. In the past fifteen years in this state seven hundred sixty-one men have been killed in the woods, four thousand two hundred seventy-three have been injured. That is over five thousand people killed or injured in the woods, and not one safeguard has been provided. That means that not five thousand homes have been affected, but ten thousand because I have seen the effect not only on the home of the bereaved family, but the effect on the family responsible for the accident. I know one case where a man shot another man in the woods and he had a retail business, but in a few years he was on W. P. A. I plead for safety in the woods. What are we doing from the standpoint of the man in the woods? Today a man nearly upset me on the highway because he passed the stop sign. There is no examination on the highways that would make a man stop at a stop sign. He does that of his own free will, but I say to you, Members of the House, how many of you heed the stop sign on the highway, how many of you go more than fifty miles an hour, and yet none of you can say that that would reduce accidents.

Mr. GEORGE E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Clearfield permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BRETH. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GEORGE E. JONES. The gentleman has just said there was no law to examine a fellow to stop at a stop sign? What is the difference in the examination provided under that law and the examination under the hunter's law?

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, in this hunter's examination bill it would be exactly parallel with the car examination bill. There would be a pamphlet issue for one who applies for a new license just like it is on the highway. There are only two or three questions asked of a driver when he demonstrates before the State Police.

Mr. GEORGE E. JONES. Does the gentleman stop at a stop sign, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, you are told in the pamphlet to stop at a stop sign, and you would be told in the pamphlet regarding the hunter's bill to not shoot at anything in the woods until you see and know it is game and not a man.

Mr. GEORGE E. JONES. The gentleman said, Mr. Speaker, that he thought I had not studied the bill. I want to read on page four of this bill a part of section three, at the top of page four:

"Every alien and nonresident of the Commonwealth who is also a nonresident of the United States upon written application made to any County Treasurer or any of his agents appointed by him to issue such licenses or to the Department of Revenue setting forth satisfactory evidence of his mental and physical fitness to carry and use firearms, unless any such person has been disqualified for a license or fails to pass an examination in the manner hereinafter specified and upon the payment of the fees above designated for nonresidents will be entitled to a nonresident hunter's license and the proper tag issued therewith, but on the face of the license it shall be indicated that the holder is an alien nonresident."

Right now in the United States, an alien nonresident cannot have a gun or a dog. What are you going to hunt with? I think right there every true American citizen should vote against this bill just for this one reason, because I don't think it is fair. I think it would be plenty fair if we could bring Hitler over here,—I would like to go out hunting with him. I think for that reason we should oppose this bill, because it is bad legislation.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Blair certainly has read the bill, but he has not read the game law. That particular passage, Mr. Speaker, is in the game law now; it has been in there ever since the game law of 1915 was passed. How can an alien be permitted to hunt? In 1939 there were two issued and last year there was one issued. A couple weeks ago one was issued to Lord Halifax for hunting in Virginia, and he was forced under the laws to buy an alien nonresident hunting license of Virginia. It is in the law now, and if this bill does not pass, that particular part of the law would remain.

The gentleman from Blair spoke of Canada. If Canada would put through a law to prevent aliens from hunting up there, what would our hunters think of that? It is really reciprocity. There is nothing bad about the bill. I didn't put that into the law, and the passage that was put in there was the passage that was amended. Mr. Jones may have read the law, but he has not read the present game law.

Mr. GEORGE E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, if this were to specify Canadians and that we are allowed to go to Canada to hunt, that would be all right, but this bill says that an alien nonresident cannot go hunting, an alien nonresident cannot have a dog or a gun. I would like to know the answer to that. I still think it is a bad bill all the way through. I tell you fellows about hunters not calling themselves sportsmen. I want to tell you a little bit about some of these sportsmen, so called, in my county. They go out on the last day of the deer season and hire an aeroplane to hunt deer. Those are the fellows that call themselves sportsmen. I say to you the hunters don't want this bill.

Mr. STAMBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Clearfield permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BRETH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. STAMBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, in the course of the gentleman's discussion he mentioned the southern district composed of several counties among which he mentioned, Perry county as having gone on record as being in favor of this bill. I wonder if the gentleman would be so kind as to tell the House what association in Perry county did approve this bill.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, I have a letter here from Joseph W. Kistler president of the Affiliated Sportsmen's Clubs of Perry County.

Mr. STAMBAUGH. And Mr. Kistler approves of this bill, does he, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Kistler in his letter said,

"I am writing to you in regards to your bill for the examination of first year hunters. This bill should become a law beyond all doubts, if not this one a compromise and make one for two years on the questionnaire sort which I do believe will pass without any doubt. I find some hunters are finding fault with your present bill, (as it is now written).

"I am the President of the Affiliated Sportsmen's Clubs of Perry County, Pennsylvania and in a recent talk of this Bill find some opposition but a great majority in favor of some legislation of its kind. Our representative Mr. Stambaugh, is also in favor of some legislation of this kind and I think you will find him ready to go with you 100% on something similar, but I doubt the original very much at this time.

"If you should contact Mr. Stambaugh, tell him that I wrote you in regards to this Bill and see what he has to offer and tell him the Aff. of Perry Co. are satisfied with his decision in this matter.

"If you care to you may ask Mr. Gordon as to my activities in the field of sports.

Joseph W. Kistler
2838 Walnut St.,
Harrisburg, Penna."

Is the gentleman from Perry satisfied, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. STAMBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman. That was not presented at a meeting at Huntsdale was it, Mr. Speaker? Will the gentleman give us the date of that meeting?

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman quizzed me before and I told him I didn't even know my bill was coming up at the Huntsdale meeting.

Mr. STAMBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, this bill is one of far reaching consequences to all of us; it is of vital interest to all of us who like to go in to the woods and the hills and fields and spend some time in recreation and hunting there. I spend most of the time I take off in the way of vacation in the woods, the mountains, fields, with my neighbors. I go and talk with the farmers and with those who are accustomed to living in the countryside, and I know their feelings, their personal feelings, very well. I keep in close touch with those who actually furnish us, who do not live in the country, the opportunity to go out and tramp over their hills and fields, and those are the men that have not really been mentioned in this debate tonight. There has not been one single word said concerning the feelings of the man who owns the land over which we trespass; there has not been one single word said as to the feelings of the farmer or the man who owns a private woodland. It is those for whom I want to speak rather than for the several associations of sportsmen which have been ably and well represented. It is my opinion if we put on record this system of examinations for hunters we will be going backward in the hearty system of cooperation that is existing at the present time between the sportsmen of the cities and the land-owners and farmers. We will be putting ourselves back at least ten years and we will have that whole work to do over again.

The farmers the full length and breadth of my county have contacted me, Mr. Speaker, and they have told me they did not know what it was all about; they believed that their boys nineteen or twenty years old, or they themselves, if they must have a hunting license and shouldn't want one this year but would want one next year, knowing how to handle a gun, they think it would be an imposition to be required to say on the first day of October, "I want to go hunting on the first day of December." There isn't any provision made in this bill whereby someone out in the country could have an examination and be allowed to hunt just the following day or any closely succeeding day. In that very point alone we are certainly stamping on the feet of the very people who furnish us with the opportunity to hunt. It is my opinion and my conviction, since going over my county, that in Perry County, which is one of the best small game counties in the central part of the state, posters will be placed on practically fifty per cent of the farms and we will not have that freedom to hunt that we have had in the past.

Mr. Speaker, I say to the members of this House we are doing an injustice to ourselves, to the sportsmen's organizations, to the farmers and to everyone concerned, if we pass this bill at this time.

Certainly I would not say or do one single thing that would jeopardize the life of anyone. We have too many accidents, fatal and non-fatal, but I cannot see anything in this bill that is going to help that situation one iota. I do not see anything that will clear up that situation. As the gentleman said, the man who takes an examination drives by the stop sign, and surely the man who takes an examination and becomes excited in the woods will shoot promiscuously just the same.

There are other features in the bill, Mr. Speaker, that are not so good. I have not dwelt on the examination end of it, but that examination end alone is going to cost considerable money and it is going to deplete the funds that we should have for the stocking of game.

I do not think it is fair to the county treasurers of the state to set up a system whereby they are declared to be issuing agents, and must appoint sub-agents to handle the licensing of hunters, with the county treasurers responsible for the collecting of moneys and getting the moneys in. They have nothing to say about how many shall be appointed; that is fixed by statute. There is nothing, however, said to state how much the sub-agent shall receive for issuing the licenses. The county treasurer as issuing agent receives a fee of ten cents, and I think it is eminently unfair to put a burden on those counties, especially those counties of the first, second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth class, where the county treasurers receive a salary, and the other taxpayers would be compelled to pay for the clerical work of handling the licenses and yet not receive anything for it.

I feel the bill is poorly drawn. It would be difficult to handle and I feel we are doing ourselves an injustice and the sportsman an injustice if we pass this bill at this time. The examination feature is really the bad feature. As that letter to which the gentleman referred was written, I think it should be corrected. I said I believed that a permanent system of registration would be very excellent and would help materially to save trouble for those people who want to get a license, but I would never agree to go along with the examination as set up. I cannot go along with it at this time, much as I am concerned about the welfare of the hunter as well as the farmer.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I must rise at this time to support this bill, in view of the fact we are so far removed from the hunting season. We are deliberating on different measures before this body and now we have the one safety measure for the hunters before us. We fail to realize that not long ago we saw the blazing headlines concerning hunters that were killed and maimed in the woods while endeavoring to pursue the sport which they all love so well.

Being an ardent sportsman myself, and realizing the piece of legislation before us is a single item that will give us more protection than we have now in the way of a safeguard for the hunters in the woods, I rise at this time to bring to the attention of the Members of the House the different conditions that exist insofar as the safety of hunters is concerned, not only in my community but in other communities in which I have hunted. I say to you

I have seen boys and young men go in the field in an endeavor to take game, and call themselves sportsmen in this sport that we all like so well as a hobby. I say to you, I see those boys going into the fields and mishandling instead of perfectly handling firearms, which has the effect of jeopardizing the lives of their fellowmen. I say to you that during the past hunting season back home in my own small community alone, which comprises a population of no more than fifteen hundred, we had three deaths resulting from the mishandling of firearms in the hands of those who were green in the use of them. I do say to you that this is one safety measure we have before us that should not die on the floor of the House. We should give this additional safeguard to the sportsmen. This plea is being made in behalf of the honest sportsmen who go into the fields seeking game for the love of the sport, and I wish the Members on both sides of the House would vote favorably on this bill.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, just a few thoughts which come to my mind on this bill as we go along. I think we are overlooking one question in this bill, the question of big game hunting which ought to have serious thought and consideration.

Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Clearfield permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BRETH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Clearfield spoke about two of his friends being wounded and one killed, in the last hunting season. I wonder if the gentleman who had six inches taken out of his arm heard the shot that hit him.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman desire to hear the story?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, I just asked the gentleman from Clearfield whether he heard the shot or not.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, he saw the man two hundred feet away.

Mr. McMILLEN. That is all right, but as to the man who was killed, is there any circumstance to substantiate the fact that it was known where the shot came from?

Mr. BRETH. No, Mr. Speaker, not that I know of.

Mr. McMILLEN. That is all. Mr. Speaker, that brings out, I think, a point that ought to have some consideration in this hunting proposition. Personally, I have hunted since I was sixteen years old with high-powered rifles. I use a 30.06 Winchester, and you gentlemen who hunt big game know what a 30.06 rifle will do. Many a man is killed in the woods or wounded by a man who is several miles away. We use these high-powered rifles that will shoot several miles, and oftentimes the shot that wounds or kills a man comes from over another hill.

Mr. Speaker, I think we should consider this hunting proposition from a different angle. Personally I have seen the bark fly from trees over my head and I never even heard the shot; the bullet came from over another hill. I think there is something here that we are overlooking. We are trying to get at the base of a very hazardous situation by an examination and not limit the type of gun that is to be used in hunting bear or deer—what we call big game hunting.

I would like to recount an instance that I personally saw. A gentleman was hunting big game in Potter County three years ago this last winter. He parked his car. He had nothing to throw over the radiator so he used a deer skin that had been tanned. The temperature at that time was ranging near zero. So he threw the deer hide that had been tanned from the previous year, over the radiator and went into the woods to hunt. He hunted all day and saw nothing. On the way back to his car meandering through the woods casting about, he noticed what he thought was a live deer in the woods beyond him. He leaned up against the tree, took deliberate aim and fired, but the deer did not move. He shot a second time and still that deer remained that he thought he was shooting. Upon investigation he discovered that he had fired two shots from a .300 Savage through the radiator into the motor of a brand new Plymouth automobile which belonged to him. I saw that instance; I saw the machine. Now, what are you going to do about it? That man was forty years of age and I presume he hunted plenty, but there he was shooting into his own automobile. You cannot cure this situation entirely with this examination.

I want to corroborate what Mr. Stambaugh said about the relation between the hunter and the farmer and between the sportsman and the man who furnishes the cover and the feed for this wild life. We do not want to go backwards by setting up a barrier between the two of us. Let us think a long time before we pass this particular bill. Personally, I am opposed to it. I come from a county where we do a lot of hunting and furnish plenty of game.

Mr. ELDER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Clearfield permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BRETH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ELDER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the gentleman state his reasons for Section 303.1 on page 4, line 19.

Mr. BRETH. What does it say, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. ELDER. Mr. Speaker, Section 303.1 of the bill states as follows:

"Examinations for License Exceptions Any person except as herein otherwise provided applying for a resident or a nonresident hunter's license shall be required to secure an application from the county treasurer or his authorized agents or the Department of Revenue prior to October first of any year in order to undergo an examination conducted by field officers of the commission provided by it for such purposes."

That is as far as I am interested at this time.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, that means just what it says.

Mr. ELDER. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman feel it is fair to the sportsmen of Pennsylvania, the nonresident sportsmen of Pennsylvania, coming in to hunt, to put them on record sixty days before the opening of the big game season?

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, well, I did not have to take a driver's examination to drive my car. I walked into the squire and I laid down $1.50 and got a license to drive a car. I went to my employer. A brand new Buick car was setting in his garage. I started the motor and adjusted the gears, the clutch, and so forth and started out backwards from his garage. It cost me over a couple hundred dollars to fix it up.

Mr. ELDER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is off the point.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, I am not off the point at all. Let me say this, I read the letter from the Coroner of Somerset County pointing out that seventy-five per cent of the hunting accidents in his county were caused by the use of a borrowed gun or a new gun. This is the point. The bill says that no hunter shall be required to take an examination unless he has lapsed for two years. It also says that any new hunter who wants to hunt with a big game rifle that will shoot a mile and kill at a mile, can think of the fact that he wants to do that thirty days ahead of the small game season.

Mr. ELDER. Mr. Speaker, I am talking about the big game season.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, the big game season would give you that much more to think about. As Mr. McMillen said, the fellow that would shoot a deer-hide on the hood of his car should certainly study for six months before he shoots his gun.

Mr. ELDER. Mr. Speaker, if I understood Mr. McMillen correctly, he said the gentleman who shot at the deer-hide over the hood of the radiator was forty years old and had been a hunter for some years.

Mr. BRETH. That is all right, Mr. Speaker. There is a fifty-mile speed limit on the highways, too—

Mr. McMILLEN. Highways do not enter into this at all, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, Mr. McMillen was talking about laws regulating the power of the gun used. How many of you observe the fifty-mile speed limit?

Mr. ELDER. Mr. Speaker, my question in the first place was whether the gentleman thought it was fair to our sportsmen in Pennsylvania to put them on record sixty days prior to the opening of the big game season. I still do not have a satisfactory answer.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, I will answer the gentleman in this way: in the state of Pennsylvania there were 675,000 licensed hunters. There has been an increase of 140,000 since 1936, and those 140,000 certainly would need something to educate them in the use of a gun because the killings have increased 30 per cent and the accidents have increased sixty per cent.

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman please yield until the interrogation is over between the two gentlemen? Will the gentleman from Philadelphia withdraw his motion?

Mr. O'BRIEN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman, the Chair interrupted the Members during the interrogation. The Chair thanks the gentleman from Philadelphia. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. ELDER. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Clearfield have any statistics as to the number of accidents, fatal or non-fatal, that were caused by new applicants for license last year?

Mr. BRETH. No, I have not, Mr. Speaker. I do not think such records were kept.

Mr. ELDER. Then, Mr. Speaker, why subject the new licensee to an examination that none of us has had to take?

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, times have changed. The present law providing for a driver's license for an automobile was only passed in 1923.

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, at this time I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by Messrs. O'Brien, Elliott, Mooney, Paul A. Brunner, Wolf, Balthaser, McIntosh, Chervenak, Yester, Gerard, Finnerty, Marks, Tarr, Monks, Wright, McDermott, O'Mullen, Finestone, Kolankiewicz, Hersch, D'Ortona and others..

Shall the main question be now put?

It was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

INTERIM REPORT OF JOINT COMMITTEE OF SENATE AND HOUSE

Mr. WOODRING asked and obtained unanimous consent on behalf of the Joint Committee of the Senate and House appointed to investigate certain charges made on the floor of the Senate, which committee was appointed pursuant to resolutions of the Senate and House on June 5, 1941 the following report.

The report was read by the Clerk:

INTERIM REPORT OF THE JOINT COMMITTEE OF THE SENATE AND HOUSE DULY CONVENED IN EXECUTIVE SESSION JUNE 9 AT 8:30 P. M. ADOPTED THE FOLLOWING RESOLUTION:

Inasmuch as the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, the originator of the charges that a criminal conspiracy to unlawfully affect legislation exists in the General Assembly now in regular session, has failed, neglected, and refused to attend the several meetings of the Joint Committee, which meetings were duly publicized and to the latter of which the said Senator was lawfully subpoenaed; and

Inasmuch as the said Senator has publicly stated on the floor of the Senate in legal session, to wit: June 9, 1941, that he will substantiate the said charges upon the floor of the Senate, but has failed to manifest any cooperation with the Joint Committee, the said Joint Committee now reports to the Senate and to the House of Representatives that it will await further instructions and advice of the said respective bodies.

RECONSIDERATION OF HOUSE BILL No. 1166

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which House Bill No. 1166, Printer's No. 736, entitled:

An Act to amend section two of the act, approved the twenty-sixth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (P. L. 1172), entitled "A supplement to the act, approved the seventeenth day of May one thousand nine hundred seventeen (Pamphlet Laws, two hundred and eight), entitled "An act to regulate the practice of pharmacy and sale of poisons and drugs, and providing penalties for the violation thereof; defining the words "drug" and "poison"; and providing for the appointment of a board which shall have in charge the enforcement of said law, and the power to make rules and regulations for the enforcement of said law, and providing for the purchase of samples of drugs for determining their quality, strength, and purity," requiring permits to conduct pharmacies providing for the revocation thereof and prescribing penalties further regulating the issuance of permits to conduct pharmacies" was defeated on final passage on Monday, June 2nd, be reconsidered.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The SPEAKER. How did the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, vote on the final passage of this bill?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I voted in the majority.

The SPEAKER. How did the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Petrosky, vote on the final passage of this bill?

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I voted in the majority. On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER declared the nays appeared to have it, Whereupon, a division was called for, ninety members having voted in the affirmative and sixty in the negative, the question was determined in the affirmative and the motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SAMUEL ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I really cannot understand why there should be any opposition to this particular measure. It is an amendment to the present act and is designed to enable the State Board of Pharmacy to refuse to grant licenses in those instances where associations or organizations may have as officers individuals who are not reputable and of the highest standing.

This bill was introduced at the instance of the State Board of Pharmacy and at the instance of the Associated Druggists of Pennsylvania, who felt that there was a definite need to have power to regulate those individuals who in order to evade the present act form an association so as to obtain a license. In one particular instance a certain person had been convicted of selling narcotics. The State Board refused to grant a license to him. He then formed an association and made application for a license, and contended under the present law the association should be granted that license.

Mr. Speaker, I call upon the Members of the House to vote for this bill for better protection.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed upon the postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1406, (Senate Bill No. 588), as follows:

An Act to protect the debtors obligors or guarantors of debts for which judgments are entered or may be entered and owners of real property affected thereby and others indirectly liable for the payment thereof prescribing the method of fixing the fair market value of such property and limiting the amount collectible thereafter on such judgments

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Whenever any real property has heretofore been or is hereafter sold directly or indirectly to the plaintiff in execution proceedings and the price for which such property has been sold was or is not sufficient to satisfy the amount of the judgment interest and costs and the plaintiff seeks to collect the balance due on said judgment interest and costs the plaintiff or plaintiffs shall petition the court having jurisdiction to fix the fair market value of the real property sold as aforesaid. Said petition shall be signed and sworn to by the plaintiff or plaintiffs

Section 2 The petition (a) shall set forth the location and description of the real property sold and the name or names of all persons known to petitioner or ascertainable upon reasonable inquiry to be or who may be directly or indirectly liable to petitioner or any other person for the payment of the debt for which the judgment was entered

(b) Shall contain a statement of the fair market value of said property and

(c) Shall name as respondents the debtors obligors and guarantors and any other persons directly or indirectly liable to petitioner for the payment of said debt and the owners of the property affected thereby together with the addresses of such persons to the extent that such addresses are known to petitioner or may have been ascertainable upon reasonable inquiry and an affidavit that he does not know and after reasonable inquiry has been unable to ascertain the residence or business addresses of the others

Section 3 The court shall thereupon fix a date for hearing on said petition not less than fifteen days after the filing thereof and said petition shall be served upon each of the persons named therein as respondents at least ten days prior to the date fixed for hearing. At any time prior to the hearing any respondent or other person in interest may appear and answer setting up in his answer in writing the nature and extent of his interest in the proceedings and answering the averments of the petition. A copy of such answer shall be served upon the petitioner within a reasonable time prior to the hearing.

Section 4 Said petition may be served by the sheriff of the County or by the sheriff of any other county specially deputized for that purpose upon the respondents named therein

(a) By handing an exact copy thereof to each of them personally or

(b) By leaving an exact copy thereof at the residence of each of them with an adult member of his family or

(c) If service cannot be had in either of the above methods the court may direct service by publishing once a week for two successive weeks both in the legal newspaper of the county and one newspaper of general circulation in the county the last such publication to appear at least fifteen days prior to the day fixed for the hearing of such petition a notice to the said respondent or respondents of the filing of said petition and the date fixed for hearing thereon. If there is no legal newspaper in the county then publication in one newspaper of general circulation in said county shall be sufficient

Any debtor obligor guarantor mortgagor and any other person directly or indirectly liable to the petitioner for the payment of the debt and any owner or owners of the property affected thereby who is not named in said petition nor served with a copy thereof or notice of the filing thereof as provided in this section shall be deemed to be discharged from all personal liability to the petitioner on the debt interest and costs but any such failure to name such person in said petition or to serve the petition or notice of the filing thereof shall not prevent proceedings against respondent or respondents named and served

Section 5 Return of the service of any petition shall set forth particularly the time place and manner of service and shall be filed before the time fixed for hearing. No hearing shall be had until the court shall be satisfied that service has been made upon all the respondents in any of the methods herein provided

Section 6 At such hearings the only issue before the court shall be the fair market value of the property sold at the time of said sale and any party in interest may introduce into evidence testimony of such fair market value

If no answer is filed within the time provided for in this act or if an answer is filed which does not controvert the allegation of the fair market value of the property as averred in the petition the court shall determine and fix as the fair market value of the property sold the amount thereof alleged in the petition to be the fair market value

If an answer is filed controverting the averment in the petition as to the fair market value of the property but no testimony is produced at the hearing supporting such denial of the fair market value the court shall determine and fix as the fair market value of the property the amount thereof alleged in the petition to be the fair market value thereupon enter a decree directing the petitioner to file release of the debtors obligors guarantors or any other persons directly or indirectly liable for the debts to the extent of the fair value so fixed whereupon execution may be issued for the balance of the debt

If answer is filed alleging as the fair market value an amount in excess of the fair market value of the property as averred in the petition the plaintiff or plaintiffs may agree to accept as the fair market value of the property the value set up in the answer and in such case may file a stipulation releasing the debtors obligors and guarantors and any other persons liable directly or indirectly for the debt and the owners of the property affected thereby from personal liability to the plaintiff to the extent of the fair market value as averred in the answer less the amount of any prior liens costs taxes and municipal claims not discharged by the sale and also less the amount of any such items paid as distribution on the sale. If an answer shall be filed and testimony produced setting forth that the fair market value of the property is more than the value stated in the petition the court shall determine and fix the fair market value of the property which shall in no event exceed the amount of the debt interest costs taxes and municipal claims.

After the hearing and the determination by the court of the fair market value of the property the debtor obligor guarantor and any other person liable directly or indirectly to the plaintiff or plaintiffs for the payment of the debt shall be released and discharged of such liability to the plaintiff to the extent of the fair market value of said property as previously agreed to by the plaintiff or plaintiffs or determined by the court less the amount of all prior liens costs taxes and municipal claims not discharged by the sale and also less the amount of any such items paid at the distribution on the sale and shall also be released and discharged of such liability to the extent of any amount by which the sale price less such prior liens costs taxes and municipal claims exceeds the fair market value as agreed to by the plaintiff or plaintiffs or fixed and determined by the court as aforesaid and thereupon petitioner may proceed by appropriate proceedings to collect the balance of the debt.

Section 7 The plaintiff or plaintiffs shall file all petitions in accordance with section one and section two of this act not later than six months after the sale of any real property provided however that if the sale occurred prior to the effective date of this act the plaintiff shall file such petition within six months after the effective date of this act. In the event no petition is filed within such period the debtor obligor guarantor and any other person liable directly or indirectly to the plaintiff or plaintiffs for the payment of the debt shall be released and discharged of such liability to the plaintiff or plaintiffs.

Section 8 Nothing in this act shall be construed to affect present procedure for the public sale of real estate or the private sale thereof under order of court except to the extent herein expressly provided or necessary for the purpose of giving proper effect to the provisions hereof.

Section 9 Nothing in this act shall be construed to affect the right of any person liable directly or indirectly for the payment of the debt to the benefit of any amount realized on any execution sale in excess of the fair market value fixed or agreed to in accordance with the provisions of this act and nothing in this act shall be construed to effect a release or discharge of any person otherwise than nor to any greater extent than as herein expressly provided.

Section 10 It shall be incompetent for any debtor obligor or guarantor at any time either before or after or at the time of incurring any obligation to waive the benefits of this act or to release any obligee from compliance with the provisions thereof. Any such waiver or release shall be absolutely void unenforceable and of no effect.

Section 11 The provisions of this act shall be severable and if any section provision or clause thereof shall be held to be unconstitutional the decision so holding shall not be construed to affect or impair any other section provision or clause of this act. It is hereby declared as the legislative intent that this act would have been enacted had such unconstitutional section provision or clause not been included therein. In the event the provisions of this act as applied to the sales of real property held prior to the effective date of this act are held to be unconstitutional it is the intention of the Legislature that this act then apply only to all sales of real property held after the effective date of this act. In the event the provisions of this act as applied to obligations created prior to the effective date of this act are held to be unconstitutional it is the intention of the Legislature that this act do then apply only to obligations created after the effective date of this act.

Section 12 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SKALE. Mr. Speaker, this bill is commonly known as the deficiency judgment bill.

For several years past, successive legislatures have endeavored to pass a bill which would meet the constitutional requirements, without success; however, in other States, particularly North Carolina and New York, such legislation was recently declared constitutional.

It might be well to develop the history of deficiency judgments in Pennsylvania, very briefly. I might add at this point, that much time and attention was given to S. B. 588, now before this House for consideration, by several outstanding members of the Bar, and Judges of our Courts. More particularly, the Honorable Grover C. Ladner, Judge of the Orphan's Court of Philadelphia County, with whom I, as chairman of the sub-committee on Judiciary General, studying this bill, consulted many times. In addition, Judge Ladner was kind enough to allow me to use his notes, on a book on conveyancing, which he has written and which is going to press at the present time, and was very valuable to me.

As we all know, the aim of a foreclosure is obviously, to enable a creditor to recover his loan. The debt of course, may arise in various ways. The hardships which created a desire and a necessity for this type of legislation occurs, for the most part, on mortgage foreclosures. When real estate is sold at a sheriff's sale for more than the debt, together with interest, costs and so forth, the over-plus property belongs to the owner of the property. Conversely, if the real estate sells for less than the debt, the creditor is naturally entitled to recover the uncollected balance out of other property of the debtor. This right to demand the uncollected balance is commonly called a deficiency judgment.

Particularly in mortgage foreclosures in Pennsylvania, an inequitable rule was developed by our Courts, that the price at which the mortgaged property is sold by the Sheriff, even when purchased by the mortgagee for a nominal bid of fifty dollars is conclusive as to the value of the mortgaged property. The effect of this rule enables a mortgagee to keep the penny and the cake. He gets the property and retains the full amount of his judgment.

The hardship of this rule is clearly illustrated by the case of Lomison vs. Faust, 145 Pa. 8 (1892), where the plaintiff mortgagee had previously sold a farm to the defendant mortgagor for one thousand dollars in cash, and a mortgage of sixty-five hundred dollars. Subsequently the plaintiff foreclosed on the farm and purchased the farm at Sheriff's sale for the nominal sum of one hundred dollars. Thereafter, he proceeded to effect execution upon another farm of the defendant mortgagor. The Supreme Court said that it would be glad to relieve the mortgagor from this hardship, but that the Court would have to be consistent with the prior decisions. The Court further criticized the plaintiff in making an unconscionable use of his power. He had his farm back with one thousand dollars purchase money in his pocket and permanent improvements, far more valuable than the return would have amounted to over the period of time that the mortgagor was in possession. He also sold the mortgagor's personal property for four hundred and seventy-five dollars. In addition, he had his judgment in full force and unsatisfied for nearly its whole amount, and now the mortgagee was proceeding to sell upon this judgment, another farm belonging to the mortgagor, after which he still holds a mortgage upon his life and earnings for all time to come. Nevertheless, the Court, realizing the injustice, was unable to give relief to the mortgagor because of the principal of law that the price realized at the foreclosure was conclusive as to the value of the mortgaged premises.

The depression period of 1929 to 1939 intensified public dissatisfaction with this harsh rule because the mortgagors not only lost their property, but remained indebted for the full amount of the mortgage and bond as well. Some it worried to death, others it drove into bankruptcy. Relief was demanded of the legislature and the result was a series of deficiency judgment acts.

The legislature convened in the special session of 1934, passed an act (P. L. 243) in an attempt to remedy the situation. Unfortunately, this was declared unconstitutional in the case of Beaver County B. & L. Ass'n. vs. Winowich, 323 P. A. 483. Mr. Justice Stern, who wrote the majority opinion, held the act unconstitutional because it infringed Art. I, Sec. 10 of the United States Constitution, providing "no state shall pass any law impairing the obligations of contract" as well as a similar provision under our state Constitution, Art. I, Sec. 17.

Briefly, the reasoning of the Court was that the laws in force at the time and place of the making of a contract entered into the obligation with the same force and effect as if expressly incorporated in the terms, and that the legislature could not remedy the situation as to existing mortgages; and that the bid at the Sheriff's sale was conclusive between the parties as to the amount to be credited on the judgment, hence the mortgagee could not be denied the right to collect the whole deficiency so fixed.

The Court further stated that the act violated Art. III, Sec. 7, of our Constitution which prohibits the passing of special laws, authorizing the impairing of liens or providing or changing methods for the collection of debts or the enforcing of judgments or prescribing the effect of judicial sales of real estate.

In a careful study of Justice Stern's decision on the act of 1934 and the bill now before the House for consideration, it will be noted that the 1934 act applies only to mortgage debts and was therefore declared unconstitutional as special legislation. However, S. B. 588 applies to all debtors including mortgage debts. This objection is now overcome because by its terms, it applies to all debts and does not impair the contract rights of a mortgagee or other lien creditors.

The opinion of Justice Stern goes on to say that the majority Court was of the view that three contract rights of the mortgagee were impaired: (1) the mortgagees right to receive payment in full of the mortgage debt. (2) the mortgagees right to receive payment in money. (3) the mortgagees right to buy in the property at Sheriff's sale for a nominal amount and retain a claim against the mortgagor for a full amount of the debt.

It is generally agreed that the first two of these rights were impaired by the act of 1934. But it is also believed that the third right does not exist. Therefore, if the first two objections can be overcome, it will appear that a constitutional Bill could be enacted.

Regarding the first objection, the Court said that the mortgagees right to receive payment in full was impaired because the act required the mortgagee to give the mortgagor a credit for the fair value of the property, prior to foreclosure, even though the mortgagee may not purchase the property at the sale. However, S. B. 588 provides that the fair market value of the property sold shall be ascertained after the foreclosure, only if the creditor buys the property.

It is my opinion therefore, that the first objection is overcome in this way.

The second objection raised by the Court was that the mortgagees right to payment in money was impaired. This objection is overcome, because if the creditor is the purchaser of the real estate, he buys it voluntarily. In such case the creditor is not compelled to accept real estate in lieu of money, as the medium for the payment of the mortgage debt without the creditor's or mortgagee's consent. If the mortgagee is unwilling to accept the real estate in payment of the debt, he could refrain from purchasing the property and permit it to be sold to someone else, and thus retain his claim for payment in money of the full amount due, less only the amount actually realized by the sale. Therefore, I think that the two rights of the mortgagee which were impaired by the 1934 act would not be violated by providing that the debtor is entitled to credit for the fair value of the property, only if it is purchased by the creditor.

The weakness of Justice Stern's third reason is clearly demonstrated by the dissenting opinion of the late Mr. Justice Barnes, who pointed out that so far as the method of procedure by which the fair value of the mortgaged premises was accomplished was concerned, no person has a vested right, in any course of procedure, and that a State possesses control of its remedial processes and may make changes in the methods of procedure without violating the contract clause of the Federal Constitution. In Home B. & L. Ass'n. vs. Blaisdell, 290 U. S. 398 the Court said, on page 433 "in modes of proceeding and forms to enforce the contract, the legislature has the control and may enlarge, limit or alter them, provided it does not deny a remedy or so embarrass it with conditions or restrictions as to seriously impair the value thereof."

Justice Kephart in a concurring opinion said that a mortgagee does not have the absolute right to buy in the mortgagors property for an inadequate price. The Court in the exercise of its equitable jurisdiction can prevent the mortgagee from doing so by setting aside the sale. It used to be the rule that a Sheriff's sale could not be set aside merely because of inadequacy of price unless other circumstances were present such as fraud or irregularities in the proceeding which would have to be shown before the sale could be set aside. Recently, however, the Supreme Court has held that a Sheriff's sale may be set aside for inadequacy of price alone, as where the price is so grossly inadequate as to in effect constitute a fraud on the debtor's right. In view of this and the trend of the recent decisions, I think it is apparent that a mortgagee does not have an absolute right to bid in the mortgagors property for less than a fair price without allowing a full credit for the value of the property.

Subsequently, there came before the Supreme Court of the U. S. the case of Richmond Corporation vs. Wachovia Bank, 300 U. S. 124, practically the same question decided in the Winowich case. This case arose in North Carolina, where an act was passed to relieve against a hardship precisely similar to our situation which required a mortgagee to credit the fair amount of the property against the judgment. The act there involved was for all practical purposes the same as our act of 1934. The United States Supreme Court, speaking through Mr. Justice Roberts, held that the North Carolina statute would not offend the contract clause of the United States Constitution. It stated further: "the loan rendered the appellees debtor to the appellant, for that debt the borrower pledged real estate as security. The contract contemplated the lender shall make itself whole, if necessary, out of the security, but not that it should be enriched at the expense of the borrower or realize more than would repay the loan with interest."

Thereafter, in Honeyman vs. Jacobs, 306 U. S. 539, the Supreme Court interpreting a similar statute in the state of New York, holding it constitutional, stated that the Court knows of no principal which entitles a mortgagee to receive money more than the debt with costs and expenses of suit and that he should not be enriched at the expense of the debtor. The Court further stated that it knows of no constitutional sanction which precludes the legislature from changing the procedure so as to confirm the creditor to securing the satisfaction of his entire debt, but no more than his debt.

Recently, (April 28, 1941), the U. S. Supreme Court in the case of Gelfert vs. National City Bank of New York held constitutional, an amendment to the original New York mortgage deficiency act which is practically identical with S. B. 588.

The Court, speaking through Mr. Justice Douglas stated, "the formula which a legislature may adopt for determining the amount of a deficiency judgment is not fixed and invariable. That which exists at the date of the execution of the mortgage does not become so imbedded in the contract between the parties that it can not be constitutionally altered. As this Court said in Home B. & L. Ass'n. vs. Blaisdell 290 U. S. 398. 435, 'not only are existing laws read into contracts in order to fix obligations as between the parties, but the reservation of essential attributes of sovereign power is also read into contracts as a postulate of the legal order.'"

The Court proceeds further to discuss the control of judicial sale of real estate by Courts of Equity and by legislation in order to prevent sacrificial prices.

The Court further dwelled on the fact that for about two centuries it has been a continuous effort either through general rule or by appeal to the chancellor in specific cases to prevent the machinery of judicial sales from becoming an instrument of oppression and so far as mortgage foreclosures are concerned, numerous devices have been employed to safeguard mortgagors from sales which may result in mortgagees collecting more than their due.

The variety of formulae which has been employed to that end is ample evidence not only of the intrusion which advanced notions of fairness have made on the earlier concern for stability of judicial sales but also of the flexibility of the standards of fairness themselves. Underlying that change has been the realization that the price which property commands at a forced sale may be hardly even a rough measure of its value. The paralysis of real estate mortgages during periods of depression, the wide discrepancy between the money value of property to the mortgagee and the cash prices which that property would receive at a forced sale, the fact that the prices realized at such a sale may be a far cry from the price at which the property would be sold to a willing buyer by a willing seller reflects the considerations which have motivated departures from the theory that competitive bidding in this field amply protects the debtor.

"Mortgagees are constitutionally entitled to no more than payment in full. They cannot be heard to complain on constitutional grounds if the legislature takes steps to see to it that they get no more than that. As we have seen, equity will intervene in individual cases where it is palpably apparent that gross unfairness is imminent . . . But there is no constitutional reason why in lieu of the more restricted control by a Court of Equity the legislature cannot substitute a uniform comprehensive rule designed to reduce or to avoid in the run of cases the chance that the mortgagee will be paid more than once . . . Certainly, under this statute it cannot be said that more than that was attempted, the "fair and reasonable market value" of the property has an obvious and direct relevancy to a determination of the amount of a mortgagee's prospective loss. In a given case the application of a specified criterion of value may not result in a determination of actual loss with mathematical certitude. But "incidental individual inequality" is not fatal. The fact that men will differ in opinion as to the adequacy of any particular yardstick of value emphasized that the appropriateness of any one formula is peculiarly a matter for legislative determination. Certainly, so far as mortgagees are concerned, the use of the criterion of "fair and reasonable market value" in cases where they obtain the property for a lesser amount holds promise of tempering the extremes of both inflated and depressed market prices. And so far as mortgagors are concerned, it offers some assurance that they will not be saddled with more than the amount of their obligations. To hold that mortgagees are entitled under the contract clause to retain the advantages of a forced sale would be to dignify into a constitutionally protected property right their chance to get more than the amount of their contracts.

In conclusion, the statute in question, like the one involved in Richmond Mortgage & Loan Corp. vs. Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., supra p. 130 "cannot fairly be said to do more than restrict the mortgagee to that for which he contracted, namely, payment in full." Here, as in that case, the obligation of the mortgagee's contract is recognized; the statute does no more than limit "that right so as to prevent his obtaining more than his due." Id., p. 130. To be sure, the mortgagee retained in that case an alternative remedy while in the instant one of the Court of Appeals has said that under New York law there remained no alternative remedy "substantially coextensive" with that which had been removed. But it is clear from Honeyman vs. Hanan, 302 U. S. 375, that a requirement that the right to a deficiency judgment unless he moves for one raises no substantial federal question. As stated by this Court in that case (302 U. S. at p. 373), the Federal Constitution does not prevent the states from determining, on due notice and opportunity to be heard, "by what process legal rights may be asserted, or legal obligations" enforced. The principles of those cases are applicable here.

Earlier decisions of this Court have struck down under the contract clause, as respects contracts previously made, a state statute requiring judicial sales to bring two-thirds of the amount of the appraised value of the property. Those cases, however, have been confined to the special circumstances there involved. We cannot permit the broad language which those early decisions employed to force legislatures to be blind to the lessons which another century has taught.

In conclusion, it would seem to me from the foregoing analysis that the Pennsylvania Supreme Court would be practically compelled to decide such a statute does not violate the State and Federal constitution, or the impairment of the obligation of contract. Theoretically, the Court could conclude that it does violate the State Constitution and not the Federal Constitution, however, I think that the Court would not reach such an obviously illogical conclusion, and that it would follow the decisions of the other courts.

The other obstacle which may arise from the provision in the State Constitution prohibiting the passage of special laws "providing or changing methods for the collecting of debts or the enforcing of judgments, or prescribing the effect of judicial sales of real estate."

The 1937 act which was declared unconstitutional because it violated this prohibition, you will recall, applies only to mortgage debts. The court pointed out that since the act made a change in the method of collecting debts and enforcing judgments for the benefit of a special class of debtors, it was necessary, in order to determine whether the act was valid, to consider "whether the class credited out of all the debtors in the state is supported . . . by a necessity springing from manifest peculiarities, clearly distinguishing those of one class from each of the other classes, and imperatively demanding legislation for each class, separately," that would be useless and detrimental to the others. The Court concluded that there was no substantial basis for treating mortgage debtors differently than other debtors, and accordingly decided that the act was special legislation within the prohibited clause. It is therefore apparent that S. B. 588 overcomes this objection because it relates to all debtors.

I therefore ask the members of this House to support this bill and give to Pennsylvania, at last, the type of legislation for which there has been a crying need for many years.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I simply rise to vote a debt of appreciation to the able Chairman of the sub-committee of the Committee on Judiciary General for the work he has done on Senate Bill 588, House Bill 1486, Printer's Number 398.

I think we sometimes in this House overlook the tremendous amount of work some people are called upon to perform.

This is a very, very intricate question, a question which concerns a large number of people in the Commonwealth, and to undertake the task which the Chairman of the sub-committee has undertaken, to do the job that he and his colleagues have done, certainly deserves the appreciation of this House. I want to publicly announce, as Chairman on the Committee on Judiciary General, that we give to them our vote of appreciation.

Mr. GATES. Mr. Speaker, while I am not concerned with the law, as the two previous speakers were, I want to say that I think this is one of the most constructive bills presented to the House in this Session. I hope it will remedy an error that has existed in the deficiency judgment situation for many years. I hope the Members of the House will support this bill and vote for it.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTIONS

Messrs. IMBRIE and HELM offered a privileged resolution which was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, June 9, 1941.

Somewhat less than half a century ago there was born on June 9th, in Grove City, Pennsylvania, the Honorable Albert B. McClester, now a member of this House from the County of Butler.

Albert, during the years which have since elapsed, has lived an unusually active and varied life being successively and successfully a teacher, banker, soldier and legislator, and needless to say through all this a Scotchman.

Nevertheless, during his otherwise eventful career, he has never taken unto himself a helpmate to share his joys and sorrows; a situation which many feel should be particularly called to his attention on this day which marks another milestone on his journey through life; now therefore be it

Resolved, That we the members of the House of Representatives extend our heartiest congratulations to the Honorable Albert B. McClester on this the anniversary of his birth, and not only wish him many happy returns of the day, but also hope that this day will again be celebrated here with us numerous times in the future; and be it further

Resolved, That in conjunction with our observance of the aforesaid birthday we feel in our hearts a sentiment which can be best expressed in the following lines written by Senator Jacob W. Carr and dedicated to the Honorable Albert B. McClester:

PRINCE ALBERT

Prince Albert was a gay old dog,
Some fifty years ago;
The ladies they all gathered round
When he put on his show.

Prince Albert is quite different now
And comes within a can,
To fill the pipe and cheer the heart
Of any lonely man.

But we are gathered here today
To celebrate the birth
Of Albert B. the best of all
The Alberts now on earth.

This Albert still is single,
But why we do not know,
For men like him, on bushes wild,
We've never found to grow.

But give him time and we are sure
That he will make the grade,
And prevent some blushing beauty
From becoming an old maid.

So, Albert, here's a toast to you.
While here we celebrate,
We hope you'll not much longer bear
A lonely bachelor's fate.

For somewhere in this vale of tears
A lonely lass must live,
Who'd only be too glad to you
Her heart and hand to give.

So wake up, man, and look around
Among the beauties rare,
There's surely one who'd be right glad
Your hearth and home to share.

and be it further

Resolved, That as a lasting souvenir of this particular birthday, a copy of this resolution shall be prepared and transmitted to the Honorable Albert B. McClester by the Chief Clerk of this House.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Butler, Mr. McClester.

Mr. McCLESTER. Mr. Speaker, I do not know whether that was condolence or congratulation. Can the Chair inform me?

The SPEAKER. It is congratulations.

Mr. McCLESTER. Mr. Speaker, well, it sounded for a while like it was condolence. I do not believe I need any of that.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is too young for condolences.

Mr. McCLESTER. Mr. Speaker, that is just what I was going to say. I have been getting along fine so far. All I want to say is—

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is not over the hill yet.

Mr. McCLESTER. How do you know? I was going to make a motion that the resolution be expunged from the record, and I would even go so far as to second the motion myself, but I do not suppose I could get by with it. I thank you for the compliment.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Messrs. SARRAF, BENTLEY and BAKER offered a privileged resolution which was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, June 9, 1941.

The attention of the House is called to the fact that the Honorable Daniel A. Verona, our member from the County of Allegheny, today celebrates his 27th birthday.

Daniel Verona was born in the City of Pittsburgh, and has led an active and varied life. He has achieved prominence in public life while still comparatively young, and has already exhibited political sagacity and acumen worthy of his father, who was one of the most able political leaders of the Commonwealth. Undoubtedly, the future has great things in store for this able and popular member of the House; therefore be it

Resolved, by the members of the House, That we extend to the Honorable Daniel A. Verona our warmest and heartiest congratulations upon this the anniversary of his natal day, and that we wish for him many more similar observances here with us; and be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution shall be transmitted by the Chief Clerk of this House to the Honorable Daniel A. Verona.

Mr. SARRAF. Mr. Speaker, Danny is out actively engaged in ceremonies tonight connected with his birthday celebration.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Sarraf, wish to ask for a leave of absence for the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Verona, for tomorrow's session?

Mr. SARRAF. Mr. Speaker, as his private physician, I think I will be able to get him up here tomorrow.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Messrs. KENEHAN, BOIES, McLANE, MELCHIORRE, O'BRIEN, O'NEILL and REGAN offered a privileged resolution which was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, June 9, 1941.

Whereas, today marks the 13th anniversary of the time the Honorable Robert W. Munley of this House entered into the bonds of matrimony with Marian Munley; and

Whereas, as he is a statesman, so as a husband, Bob Munley is in a class by himself; and

Whereas, This fortunate and happy couple has been blessed with two children, boys, namely, James and Robert; and

Whereas, The entire Munley family is today visting Harrisburg so that they can observe the House of Representatives in its august and sober meditations; be it therefore

Resolved, That the House of Representatives congratulates the Honorable Robert W. Munley and his wife on this, their 13th wedding anniversary, and wishes them many more and prosperous anniversaries to come; and be it further Resolved, That the Chief Clerk mail a copy of this resolution to the happy couple.

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, I was wondering if it would be wise to have Mrs. Munley speak for Mr. Munley. She is here and she is the one who usually does the talking.

The SPEAKER. This is the one chance the gentleman from Lackawanna gets to talk. Of course, the Chair cannot permit the lady to talk here.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Messrs. CHUDOFF and VOLDOW offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, June 9, 1941.

Whereas, Mrs. Rosalie Rose, wife of the Honorable Samuel Rose, a member of this House is now receiving hospital care at the University of Pennsylvania Hospital at Philadelphia; and

Whereas, It is not often realized that in addition to the serious duties imposed on the members of this House, they are at the same time confronted with the necessity of providing for, worrying about and carrying out obligations to their families; and

Whereas, It is with heavy hearts that members of this body are often forced to discharge their obligation to the people of this Commonwealth; therefore be it

Resolved, That this House of Representatives wishes Mrs. Rose an immediate and successful recovery from her illness and that the Chief Clerk be directed to submit a copy of this resolution to Mrs. Rose as an expression of its feeling and to speed her recovery.

The SPEAKER. The Chair wishes to inform the Members that he has received a letter from Mrs. Samuel Rose, which reads as follows:

Philadelphia, Pa.

Honorable Elmer Kilroy,
House of Representatives,
Harrisburg, Penna.
Dear Elmer:

I want to take this opportunity to extend through you to the Philadelphia Democratic members of the House my sincere thanks and appreciation for the beautiful flowers you sent to me at the Hospital and for the kind wishes expressed by the Philadelphia Delegation.

I am pleased to inform you that I am recovering and soon expect to be out aiding my husband to roll up a Democratic victory in November.

Please see that my husband does not engage in the activities which Mr. Cummings has been writing about in the Inquirer.

Sincerely,

MRS. SAMUEL ROSE.

Mr. SAMUEL ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I just want to say for the information of the Members of the House that my wife is not thinking about my extra curricular activities, but she is thinking about the extra curricular activities of some of my colleagues that she has heard so much about.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I just want to say that last week I took the gentleman from Philadelphia down to the hospital and he promised me then on his way there he would try to live up to the admonition of the gentleman from Philadelphia, who represents the Philadelphia Inquirer. He was very thankful to the Members of the House and he was willing to go home last week early enough to go into consultation.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Sullivan will state his question of information.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know who is going to chaperon the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Rose.

The SPEAKER. The Chair appoints the gentleman from Sullivan, Mr. Flynn.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Mr. McFALL offered a privileged resolution which was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, June 9, 1941.

Whereas, on June 9, 1880, a certain Member of this House first saw the light of day in his home in Danville, Montour County; and

Whereas, a few minutes thereafter he began milking, and has from that time up until the present so perfected his technique that he is one of the leading "milkers" in his county; and

Whereas, today he is an authority on all rural problems including that uncontroversial one relating to milk control; and

Whereas, today he is the owner of the home in which he first entered this vale of tears and a statesman of no mean stature; be it therefore

Resolved, That the House of Representatives congratulates the Hon. Walter J. Vincent on his 61st birthday and wishes him many happy returns of the day.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Montour, Mr. Vincent.

Mr. VINCENT. Mr. Speaker, yes, I am sixty-one years old today, so my father and mother tells me. I am a little bit wiser too, I think. They tell me that the first sixty years are always the hardest, but I have found out that in my sixty-first year I have derived a lot of pleasure. I have been associated with a lot of lawyers, farmers, doctors, newspaper editors and salesmen and I have received a lot of pleasure out of them. They put up a great show. As Barnum used to say, "There is a sucker born every minute."

Mr. Speaker, it has been a great pleasure to be with you, and from now on I think the next sixty years is going to be Oh, just grand.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make a brief statement.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Montgomery may proceed.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, tonight it will be two weeks since the President of the United States addressed the American people, and it seems to me that some of the repercussions of that address have a direct bearing upon the problems that are before this General Assembly.

Speaking generally, we have a complicated scheme of government. From the point of view of international affairs, we are a unity; from the point of view of constitutional law, we are a duality—the federal government and the state government, both of which have their rights; from the point of view of practical administration, it is a trinity—federal, state and local government, and the interaction of these three is most important on the life of our people.

Ordinarily I do not like to bring federal subjects into the sphere of the General Assembly, but where federal subjects touch upon the life of the state, it seems to me we can not omit them from consideration.

Now, Mr. President, in the address of two weeks ago, the President of the United States laid down three propositions, the first of which was that all of the effort of the American people should be devoted toward placing this country in a complete condition of defense under modern warfare. Back of that sentiment upon his part I think there is a practical unity of feeling in America. I have certainly met with no one who challenges the question that it is the duty of the American people to put themselves into a condition of defense as rapidly as possible.

The second proposition which the President laid down was that the sea lanes to Britain should be kept open. Upon that question there may be some dispute among the American people, some disunity in thought, and yet it seems clear to me that in so advocating, the President was in harmony with the established principles of the American people.

We have always stood for freedom of the seas and for the idea that our boats could go on the oceans wherever the owners desired to take them and they were not free for attack by belligerents. Under those circumstances, whether it be a convoy question or a patrol question, it is evident the American people eventually will find the policy which the President recommended is in harmony with the best traditions of the American people.

Now Mr. President, the third proposition the President laid down—the second proposition had to do with the keeping open of sea lanes—and the third proposition was that we should meet this as a united people. With that I also agree, but it seems to me the time has come for us to consider just how these things the President recommends will have a bearing upon the State of Pennsylvania, for which we ourselves are now legislating.

I was impressed last week with a chart which came from the National Industrial Conference Board, which in itself is so interesting I propose to place it in the office of the Secretary of the Senate, so that Senators desiring to examine it at leisure will have opportunity to do so.

In a general way, the blue line shows the national income, the red line shows the amount of the national income that is spent upon war appropriations. The first country is the United States; the second country is Germany; the third country is the United Kingdom; the fourth country is the British Dominions and the fifth country is Canada.

What does that show? National income means the sum of all the incomes of all the people, all wages, salaries, dividends, interest, royalties, any forms of income that the methods of modern business have devised, and that total in the United States was estimated for the current year at eighty billions of dollars, of which, according to the figures of the National Industrial Conference Board, ten billion dollars, or one-eighth, will be devoted to appropriations for arms.

How is it with the other nations? Germany, with an estimated national income for 1940 of forty billion dollars, spent from twenty-four to twenty-nine billion dollars on armament, and the United Kingdom, in the fiscal year 1940, which ends June 30, 1941, had a gross national income of twenty-eight billion dollars and spent fourteen billion dollars on armament. Canada, in the same period had an income of three billion seven hundred million dollars and spent nine hundred million dollars on armament.

In other words, the United States is spending twelve and one-half per cent of its national income, or $77 per capita, on armament, where the united sentiment of the people supports rearming, whereas Germany is spending from sixty to seventy-two per cent of the national income, with a per capita, on a much lower standard of living, of from $300 to $363 per citizen.

The United Kingdom is spending fifty per cent of its national income on armament, with a per capita of $298, and Canada, our near neighbor, is spending twenty-two per cent of its national income, as compared with our twelve and one-half per cent, or an average of $74, on armament.

It is this comparison that suggests war is a more expensive business than ever before in the history of the nations, and what happened to Germany, Great Britain and Canada when they have engaged in war may justify the recent statement of the Honorable Jesse Jones, of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, that before we have finished with this period, we will have more than doubled our national debt.

Now, Mr. President, the question arises as to the relationship of national income to war expenditures if war is declared, and it seems to me to be clear that all thinking men must contemplate the approach of war when we read in the newspapers today of the destruction of an American boat in the South Atlantic, and it seems to me, those of us that can remember 1916 and 1917, we will feel our blood running a little more strongly.

In 1918—that was the year of the World War—this country had a national income of $38,000,000,000 and expended for war $18,000,000,000, which you see was almost half the total income. Great Britain had a national income of $10,700,000,000, expended for war $13,896,000,000—$3,000,000,000 more than the national income. France had an income of $7,300,000,000 and expended for war $10,671,000,000.

Both France and Great Britain, by expending more than the national income—and, of course, a portion of the national income had to be used by the recipients for living purposes—that increased their debt and the question arises as to the policy of nations in the past, as to the amount of war expenditures that can be raised from current taxation and the amount which must be borrowed. In the World War, the United States raised 25.9 per cent of its war cost by taxation; great Britain 24.7 per cent; France 15.4 per cent; Italy 14.9 per cent; Germany 11 per cent and Japan 62.2 per cent.

That has been the rule of the United States in all of the wars in which this country has engaged: 25 per cent from taxation and 75 per cent from borrowings.

The nations that increased their taxation in a period of war avoided inflation much better than those which failed to increase their taxation, and as we read the figures of France, Italy and Germany, you will all recall how soon France, Italy and Germany were in a condition where they had to revalue the complete set of assets they might have had because of the inflationary period.

In the United States we have always followed the practice, in times of war, of raising at least one dollar by taxation for every three dollars that was borrowed, and if we continue this ratio at the present time it may readily be anticipated how great the increase in federal taxation is bound to be. The question then arises as to how this situation will affect the income of Pennsylvania. It seems clear to me that there will be a decline in the cigarette tax, since we are exempting the tobacco sold to the camps for the use of soldiers. It is also clear to me that with limitations upon the use of automobiles in sight, and gasless Sundays in memory, there will be a decline in the gasoline tax.

I have also explained to the Senate my own point of view with reference to the corporate net income tax, which is that since a large proportion of the proposed increase of $3,500,000,000 in federal taxes will fall upon corporations and firms by virtue of our law, wherein federal taxes are deducted before the base for the state tax is computed, it seems clear to me that there will be a decline in the corporate net income tax. Inheritance taxes have been on a decline for several years.

Under those circumstances, there is bound to be a serious curtailment in the estimated revenue for the state, and a wise study of budgetary conditions must recognize that this is no time for either extravagance or experimentation.

Now, Mr. President, we have not given sufficient time and study to the interaction of one form of our government upon another form. Personally I do not like the vocabulary that prevails in Washington, where they speak of various levels of government, and when they try to justify some particularly unreasonable action, they say it is the higher level interfering with the lower level. I do not regard these levels as a high level or a low level. They are all essential to the American method of life, and that means state government and local government must be maintained as well.

In recent years there has been a great expansion of federal government into taxing fields which were formerly reserved exclusively for the state. I regard that as a serious matter. It may be we can not control it, we can not ourselves well reverse an Act of Congress—that is impossible. However, we must recognize the fact that if that tendency continues it is going to impoverish seriously the sources from which the state must get revenue with which to conduct government, and local government also.

Now, Mr. President, under those circumstances it seems to me that the situation is one that requires our closest observation and our closest scrutiny, and we must do our best to see to it that in the development of the various strata of government, that the interaction is kept in such a way each may live and that each may live with adequate support.

I like very much what the President said in his address about unity. I understood that to mean there is no power in the world that is greater than the power of a united people, all actuated by common motives and pursuing common ideals.

There are many here who will remember that period of 1917-1918 when the American people were united and were united with a strength and a determination that produced a glorious result.

At the present time, Mr. President, it seems quite clear to me that those who would have unity must give unity, and those who feel it is essential that the American people should unite in defense as a single body must also see to it that they deal justly with all groups of people.

As I see the situation there is no one who wants war. There is certainly no man who wants war who has ever seen what war is like; there is no one who saw young men perish on the field of battle who desire to see America enter into that experience again.

We sometimes have had to listen to what I regard as rather cheap poetry in this Senate. May I quote from what I consider a great poem. That is the inscription written by Henry VanDyke on the statue of General William T. Sherman, which stands at the entrance of Central Park, at 57th Street and Fifth Avenue, in New York City. There is stated an expression of what I think is the sentiment of us all:

"Hail to the soldier brave enough to tell
The glory-dazzled world that war is hell.
Heedless of fame he throws himself in strife
And rides through hell to save his nation's life."

That is a tribute of one great man to another great man, and that I think is the sentiment of the American people at the present time. But in addition to being patriots we must also watch these financial repercussions and I want to say, my friends, with all sincerity, that it will be a great mistake to suppose the additional taxes of the federal government will have no effect in Pennsylvania. They will reach every corner of Pennsylvania, they will reach every hamlet, its activities, its business, today, on the real estate tax, and it is up to each one of us to see to it that the harm that is done to our local and state institutions is as little as possible under the circumstances.

I thank you.

BILL RE-REFERRED

Mr. GELTZ, from the Committee on Judiciary General, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 1128, (House Bill No. 1424), entitled:

An Act prescribing the degree of care to be exercised by the driver of any vehicle at the crossing of a highway and a railroad or railway at grade, providing that the failure to stop shall not in itself constitute negligence or contributory negligence; and providing that the issue of negligence or contributory negligence in such case shall be a question of fact for the jury.

with the request that it be re-referred to the Committee on Judiciary Special, and it was so ordered.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Warren will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, Hitler and his force of mechanized troops, demons on any battlefield are on the move again. They have mopped up Crete and by airplane and by ship are moving on to the Asiatic Continent. Already the power of the Hitler Bombers has been felt in Egypt. How long will it be before Hitler renders the Suez Canal impotent and shuts off the British route to India and the East? How long will it be before the forces of General Wavell's in Egypt are rendered powerless by the expedient of shutting off their supplies. How long will it be before Dakar is held by the German's and Brazil only 1500 miles away feels the force of the Hitler air divisions?

All of these questions ought to cause goose flesh to creep over every true American. Just sit down I implore you and think them over. It ought to cause every man to shudder with fear.

There is but one answer to all of this. Great Britain and America should cease to battle a war of defense and should take to a war of offense. It will be said that our air army is not strong enough. That our navy is not strong enough. That our army is not strong enough. That we have not enough tanks. That we have not enough guns.

Bosh! For months, Hitler has fought an offensive war without the use of any of these weapons. What we want is an offensive of nerves. Hitler has an espionage system that is 100 per cent perfect. Britain and America have operated a counter espionage system. Let us take the lead in this and operate a system that will lick Hitler's spies to a standstill. So poor was the British and American system that when Hitler moved on Norway, the British were unprepared and did not know where the German ships were headed for. Let our offensive take the form of a clever espionage system that will shock the Hitler mind.

Then, too Hitler knows where he is going and what he is going to do when he gets there. Seemingly our gang of Hitler busters in Washington doesn't know what it is going to do ten days in advance. They are so busy building political fences that their plans are all awry. All Britain and America have seemingly done is to try to stop Hitler.

The German mind and goosestepped operates only when advances are being made. Why not a continual banging away with a few big planes and heavy bombs of German cities. Incessant smashing of German towns, wharves, homes and public buildings will cause a reverberation in Germany's people that will give Hitler more fright than a dozen of Churchill's and Roosevelt's speeches. They tell us that 500 bombers a month are coming off the assembly lines and most of them are going to Britain. Why not use them?
